Workers Accept Administration's Concessions and Men on Ferries Resume at Once.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY GRANTED

OTHERS TO RETURN TODAY

The harbor strike was ended last night as far as the railroad boats are concerned, which number about 40 per cent. of the boats in the harbor and about 5,000 strikers will return to their tasks today.

After the vote to accept the big concessions made by the Railroad Administration had been taken at the headquarters of the Marine Workers' Affiliation at 26 Park Place at 10 o'clock last night, the men employed on railroad ferries were ordered back at work without delay, and the operation of some of the ferries across the East River was resumed during the night. The operation of other railroad craft was ordered to begin at 6 o'clock this morning.

An effort will be made today to induce the private boat owners to agree to the terms granted by the Railroad Administration, which in some cases gives increases of more than 30 per cent. Vice President William A. Maher of the Marine Affiliation said last night:

"We are now signing up contracts with individual owners. We have signed up six such contracts tonight, and there are six more which will be signed early tomorrow morning. A contract will probably be signed with the Standard Oil Company the first thing tomorrow morning. These private contracts are agreements to accept the agreement made with the Railroad Administration."

Men Are Elated.

The end of the strike was received with enthusiasm by several hundred men who were at strike headquarters. The officials of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, which includes the seven organizations, expressed themselves as highly satisfied with the terms, and the rank and file of the workers made no effort to conceal their elation. Some believed, however, that the victory had been won so easily that it would have been possible to obtain full pay for the four days during which the men had been on strike.

James L. Hughes, conciliator of the Department of Labor, who brought the Railroad Administration and the strikers together and obtained for the strikers a new set of terms far more favorable to them than the Macy award, said last night:

"It was very gratifying to arrive at a settlement, involving all of the railroad and governmental interests in this most important port, thus partially releasing embargoes within the whole of the United States. It is the sincere wish of all who have the interests of the general public at heart that we may be able at the earliest possible moment to make a satisfactory arrangement with the other boat owners."

The strike agreement is a long document dealing individually with many classes of labor. Under this arrangement employés in the railroad ferries will have an eight-hour day with time and a half for overtime and the monthly pay for different classes of labor will be as follows: Pilots, $190 a month, as against $173.50; engineers, $180, against $165; assistant engineers, $135, against $123.50. Increases are less for other classes of ferry hands, who received considerable increases in a recent award.

For employes on tugs and steam lighters, the eight-hour day was granted with a new scale of wages as follows: Captains, $190 a month, as against $179.50; pilots, $170, as against $159.50; mates, $110, as against $104; engineers, $180, as against $169.50; assistant engineers, $170, as against $159.60.

May Put Police on Garbage Tugs.

Proportionate increases were granted to crews of steam, oil, and gas hoisting barges and of grain boats and coal barges. The ten-hour day will prevail on these boats.

Operation will not be resumed today on the barges serving coastwise lines connected with the railroads. President Thomas L. Delahunty of the Marine Workers' Affiliation said, however, that an agreement on this class of boats would be reached during the day.

All of the increases will be effective March 1, so that the men will receive the benefit of the new schedule for the three days of this month on which they worked before calling the strike.

Commissioner Copeland of the Departmen of Health announced yesterday that the strike of boatmen would not be permitted to interfere with the sanitary business of the city. If strikers continue their refusal to man tugs and scows for removal of garbage today, said the commissioner, policemen will be assigned to do the work pending settlement of the strike. Police Commissioner Enright, it was said, had agreed to give police aid by assigning sufficient

By Airplane in 4½ Hours From Dayton to Mineola

A new record for long distance flight in the United States was established yesterday when Major Reuben F. Fleet and Captain Earl F. White flew to Hazelhurst Field, Mineola, L. I., from Dayton, Ohio, a distance of 664 miles, in four hours and 33 minutes. The air line between the two cities is only 540 miles, but the fliers were driven 100 miles off their course by storm.

The two officers, coming to the Aeronautical Exposition in Madison Square Garden, left Dayton at 10 A. M. in a De Haviland-4, equipped with a 400 horse power Liberty motor. On the way East they ran into a heavy fog and storm which compelled them to fly at a height of 10,000 feet.

They steered the entire way by compass.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN ON NATIONALISM

ANXIOUS TO AVOID WARS

"But Will Accept No Indefinite Internationalization" for Fervent Americanism.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 7.—Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, in speeches and conferences in the Twin Cities today and tonight formally opened the Republican campaign for national victory at the polls in 1920.

Supreme nationalism was the keynote of the Republican leader's speeches.

"While we seek earnestly and prayerfully for methods lessening future wars, and will go far indeed in an honest effort to that end, we will accept no indefinite internationalization as a substitute for fervent American nationalism," was his stand on the League of Nations question in addressing the Northwest rally here tonight.

United States Senator Frank B. Kellogg, speaking at the rally, reviewed Republican achievements during the war and expressed hope for amendments for the present League of Nations draft. Governor J. A. Burnquist, in welcoming the Chairman of the National Committee, assailed George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information.

"We have always said, 'We join ourselves to no party that does not follow the flag and keep step to the music of the Union,'" said Mr. Hays at the outset of his address tonight. "The Republican Party has not only followed the flag and kept step to the music of the Union—the Republican Party has carried the flag and made the music for the Union.

"We will not forget that while we fight to make certain the rights of free government in the world, we have a republic to preserve in this country; that we are a representative government, not a Bolshevist syncopation, that while there is nothing in this country that we would not take and use for necessary war purposes, such taking must be for war purposes only. The Republican Party from its inception has stood against undue federalization of industries and activities. There must be strong Federal regulation, but not Federal ownership."

Governor Burnquist referred to an article by George Creel, printed in the March number of an Eastern magazine.

"George Creel accuses the citizens and officials of this State of persecuting, during the war, certain elements of our people for political purposes," said the Governor, and he referred to statements in Creel's article as "infamous allegations" and "malicious fabrications."

Governor Burnquist denied that the Minnesota Public Safety Commission had prohibited the Non-Partisan League from holding meetings in Minnesota, but declared that "certain county officials, on their own initiative and supported by indignant citizens," prevented a number of league meetings during the war period.

Discussing the League of Nations as outlined by President Wilson, Senator Kellogg said:

"I am willing and anxious to give the League of Nations a fair trial. But I recognize, as all thoughtful men must, that any league should properly safeguard our political independence and the continuance of our American institutions and national rights. I hope there will come out of the discordant elements at the Paris Peace Conference a League of Nations which shall be the rallying cry of hope to a war-weary world."

Senator Kellogg said he "is in full accord" with the principle of a society of nations as outlined in Minneapolis recently by former President Taft, but he said that those principles are not in full accord with the principles of the League as drawn up by the Peace Conference.

"Mr. Taft stated two propositions, which in my judgment constitute the very essence of a proper league," said the Minnesota Senator. "First, an international court to consider and decide and render judgments on all justiciable issues. Second, a court of conciliation to recommend compromises on all questions that were not justiciable."

BERLIN REBELS BEATEN IN BATTLE; OVER 400 FALL

MAKE 'BRILLIANT PROGRESS'

MANY SPECTATORS SHOT

LONDON, Saturday, March 8.—All the important buildings in Berlin were in the hands of Government troops Friday afternoon, and a good prospect of maintaining order was assured, according to a German Government wireless received here.

The number of dead and wounded in the recent fighting exceeds 400, the message says.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Berlin under date of Thursday, describing the fighting, says:

"The cool bearing and admirable equipment of a corps of officers numbering from 1,500 to 2,000 are a factor of great importance in the situation. They will only be called upon as a last resort, as they are unpaid volunteers, many of them avowedly non-Republican. Their appearance on the scene is significant of the stage of events.

"Airplanes have been watching over the fighting area all the afternoon. It is stated that they belong to the Independents and came from a point near Potsdam not in the Government's possession. One machine apparently was under the fire of an anti-aircraft gun."

Converging Attack on Reds.

BERLIN, March 6, (Associated Press.)—Government troops began an attack today from all sides on the centre of the city and made brilliant progress.

The attack was for the purpose of relieving police headquarters. A column from the west progressed to within a block of the headquarters in two hours.

It is believed that the column succeeded in relieving the besieged garrison in the police building, although military headquarters at 6:30 o'clock tonight had not yet received any information on that point.

Between 200 and 300 persons were killed or wounded. The casualties were largely among spectators, who, despite all warning, persisted in staying to see the fighting. The losses among the Government troops were comparatively light.

Rebels Taken by Surprise.

There was very little organized coherent opposition by the republican guards and Spartacide marines. They were caught by surprise without efficient leadership and were unable to check the attack of the well disciplined Government forces.

The Government decided to disarm the republican guard and the "People's Marine Guard," starting at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A strong force of Government troops, including a loyal marine division and artillery and minethrowers, was sent out on this task.

The Government took the step because of the impossibility of distinguishing between those who are loyal and those who are not in those organizations, and also because of this general unreliability. The two forces number 16,000 men in Berlin. A part deserted the Government early in the fighting largely, it is said, because of the constant bickerings with the Government's volunteer troops.

A force of Spartacide sailors, armed with mine throwers, broke into a temporary prison in the Hausvogtei Platz, across from the Reichsbank, this morning and took out military prisoners, but kept them in custody.

Albanians Want Us to Act as Mandatory

PARIS, March 7.—The Albanian delegation to the Peace Conference, after a hearing Thursday by the commission dealing with Greek questions, sent a note to Premier Clemenceau, as President of the conference, proposing that in the event that its claims were not admitted by the Supreme Council, that a mandate be given to the United States to occupy and administer for one year the territories claimed by the Albanians.

The claims set forth by the Albanians include Tchamara to the south as well as the Albanian territories annexed to Montenegro and Serbia.

Should the conference accept the proposal, the Albanians say that they are willing that the mandate should be extended to Northern Epirus, claimed by both Albania and Greece, under such conditions that the population would be able to manifest its aspirations without restraint.

CANADIANS RIOT IN BRITISH CAMP

MANY SOLDIERS ARRESTED

Men Said to Have Been Incensed by Delay in Paying and Sending Them Home.

LONDON, March 7.—Five persons were killed and twenty-one injured in rioting during the last three days at the Kimmel military camp at Rhyl, Wales, according to a Liverpool dispatch received here tonight. Great property damage was caused.

It appears that the riot was started by about 200 malcontents. There were 25,000 Canadians in the camp awaiting demobilization and embarkation. The men who caused the trouble were war casuals who had served for three years or more in France. They complained that their embarkation had been postponed while other men who had seen less service were sent home.

After the destruction of stores of all kinds on Tuesday by the discontended men the situation took a more serious turn on Wednesday when the cavalry was called out, but was forbidden to use its arms. Later Thursday numbers of the men paraded Rhyl. They made noisy demonstrations, but committed no damage.

The outbreak began Tuesday night with the signal cry, "Come on, Bolsheviki," uttered by a man said to belong to the Canadian forces. A large number of men then wrecked the stores building and thousands of loaves of bread were trampled into the mud. The woman's auxiliary quarters were then rushed and the women's clothes carried off. The rioters seized stores of ammunition, fired on the officers' quarters, and began a march in the direction of Abergele.

Troops from Chester intercepted the rioters and also prevented a threatened raid on the latter place. It was in the course of this fighting, during which there was promiscuous shooting, that most of the victims were killed and injured.

There was further promiscuous shooting early Thursday morning, but at no time was there organized firing by any armed party. Most of the deaths were due to crushing, it is said. An unnamed Major, holding the Victoria Cross, and said to be from New Brunswick, was reported to have been virtually trampled to death while attempting to defend the officers' quarters against great odds, but, according to The Evening Standard, this report is denied.

During the disturbances a staff officer, said to be General Turner, flew from the War Office in London by airplane and addressed the men, undertaking that their grievances regarding demobilization and pay should be immediately removed. He declared that 10,000 men would be away by the week after next and that four transports would be placed at the disposal of the Colonials.

The Daily Mail says that the Canadian authorities restored order without the assistance of British troops, and declares that the matter is solely one for Canadian disciplinary action.

The Canadian officials have informed the War Office that they do not desire any increase in shipping facilities as a consequence of the outbreak, as they do

Wilson Sends Congratulations From Ship to Democrat Elected On League Platform

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, March 7, (By Wireless to The Associated Press.)—President Wilson today expressed himself as greatly pleased at the outcome of the election in the Twenty-second Pennsylvania Congressional District, particularly as the League of Nations was made an issue. The President sent a wireless message to Joseph P. Tumulty, his Secretary, as follows:

"Please extend my cordial congratulations to Mr. Wilson (John H. Wilson, Democrat), just elected in Pennsylvania, and express my gratification that he won upon the issue of the League of Nations."

President Wilson is thoroughly refreshed by the rest he has had, but under protest, as he laughingly expressed it, continued to obey the edict of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, his personal physician, against work. He passed his time this afternoon and evening in walking the deck and other forms of recreation. The President autographed a photograph of himself for the George Washington, inscribing it: "To my comrades."

President Wilson's rest this morning was cut short by the sounding of a general alarm summoning all hands to the boats to abandon ship. The signal for the boat drill came at 9 o'clock, and the President arose and escorted Mrs. Wilson to their boat. He adjusted Mrs. Wilson's and his own lifebelt and stood quietly by until the drill was completed. The weather was clear and the sea smooth.

The President today sent a wireless message to William J. Bryan, who has been ill.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—William Jennings Bryan has been ill here for more than a week with a heavy cold. He is at the home of Daniel Bride. His condition is said not to be serious.

MARSHAL'S DRASTIC TERMS

BOLSHEVISM SPURS ALLIES

Even France Now Eager for Quick Peace to Restore Order in Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 6.—At the request of the Council of the big powers, three previous separate reports on military, naval, and aviation matters have been combined in on report by Marshal Foch as his recommendations of the terms that should constitute a renewal of the armistice and be the military section of the permanent peace treaty.

There were differences in the earlier reports which rendered them unavailable as a basis for peace terms. In his new combination report, submitted to the Council this afternoon, Marshal Foch straightened out this difficulty and supplied a tangible foundation on which the Allies might build their military conditions and on which actual peace might be established. Work on this report began this afternoon, and probably will be finished this week. It is a vital part of the new program to rush the peace treaty through to a finish while there is still a German Government in existence with which to do business.

Would Abolish the General Staff.

This report recommends the complete suppression in Germany of the General Staff, as it is the most active factor for war existing in Germany. It holds that to abolish the Krupp works, for example, or even to demobilize the German Army, while leaving the General Staff functioning as in the past, would be a mere waste of time. So, in place of this organization, always planning wars, the recommendations call for a mere military and administrative body with power to manage Germany's limited organization for interior police duty only. This organization is to be reduced to 200,000 men, including officers, with not more than 8,000 officers all told in the staff and line.

This limitation of the number of officers is for the purpose of defeating the future trickery of Germany in attempts to violate the spirit while obeying the letter of the law against her having big armies. There is the well-remembered example of what Prussia did in 1806. When Napoleon decreed that she should have only so many troops, she got around that by calling the maximum number to the colors every six months, but all new men, so that in a short time she had a big reserve thoroughly trained.

The present plan would prevent anything of that sort by limiting the number of officers, by prohibiting the formation of veteran associations, by forbidding the organization of athletic societies unless it is proved that they are really for sports and not disguises for independent military groups.

These restrictions, which it is expected will form part of the treaty of peace, intended to be definite for all time, may not be disregarded after she has made final payment of war reparation bills.

France justifies the conditions on the ground that a peace treaty including such terms will not impose upon Germany any restrictions that all other nations will not voluntarily impose upon themselves by subscribing to the League of Nations, with its limitation of armament provisions. Furthermore, it is believed that Germany will eventually be grateful for these terms after her people have had the experience of one generation of not devoting three years of every man's life to army service. The chief danger, which has been the extension of German armaments, must be obviated by the compulsion of the peace terms. At the same time the other countries limit themselves by the League. France professes herself as willing to disarm, too, within reason,

Appalling Food Tragedy Faces Central Europe, Says British Food Chief, Urging Swift Relief

NEWCASTLE, England, March 7. (British Wireless Service.)—George H. Roberts, the Food Minister, speaking here today, said that he could state on absolutely unimpeachable authority that the situation with regard to food conditions in great areas of Europe was nothing less than tragic.

"It is not too much to say that Rumania is starving, that Serbia is starving, that Austria is starving, and that Germany is starving," he declared. "Ever since the armistice was signed the Allies have been doing what they could to relieve the situation, and food should be, or is being, sent to all the countries I have named. But it is not enough, and the question now arises whether we shall be able to get sufficient food to those countries in time to prevent a catastrophe.

"The Supreme Council in Paris is straining every nerve to meet the situation. I am going over to Paris on Monday to attend the meetings of the council, and I pray that it may be possible for us to take such emergency measures as may stave off the impending disaster.

"Clearly, we cannot complacently watch Europe starving and feed ourselves to the full. That is not the spirit of this nation, which, through its unselfishness, won the war. We are going to help, and if helping means that the situation here does not improve as rapidly as it otherwise would, this country, I am sure, will not grumble. As soon as the people realize the appalling seriousness of the situation which is developing in Europe they will be the first to call upon the Government to intervene."

Italy Yields on Sending Food to Slavs.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Company.

PARIS, March 7.—The Council of Ten this afternoon broke down Italian obstructionist tactics toward the feeding of Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Jugoslavia, and the entire revictualing problem is placed in control of Herbert Hoover. Besides two and a half million tons of food that Germany will need until the next harvest, the southern countries will need 3,000 tons of food daily. Mr. Hoover has accumulated 80,000 tons of food at Fiume and Trieste since the Serbian-Italian frontier was closed at Laibach, but it will be immediately reopened and trains have been started already.

Mr. Hoover asserted the belief that he could begin feeding a substantial part of the starving peoples immediately and greatly relieve famine conditions within a short time. The committee has not yet worked out a scheme for payment, but all countries receiving food, including the enemy powers, are willing and anxious to pay any price to obtain food, as all realize that foodstuffs are the best ammunition against Bolshevism.

ALLIES MAY FRAME TREATY MARCH 20

Expected to be Ready to Act Promptly on Many Features When He Arrives.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson is being kept fully advised daily by wireless of the developments of the Peace Congress, so that when he arrives in Paris he will be about as fully informed as those who have attended the sessions of the council of the great powers.

The complete military, naval, and aerial terms of the peace treaty were sent to him textually by the American military and naval advisers with notations and reservations. This was an enormous task, involving thousands of words—sufficient to fill many columns in the newspapers.

These details have not yet been made public, so that President Wilson has a much more intimate knowledge of the situation than most of those attending the conference.

The present plan is to complete the Peace Treaty March 20. In this case President Wilson would have only five or six days to consider the main subjects of the treaty when it has reached the vital stage, except for the wireless.

Brig. Gen. William W. Harts, former Military Attaché at the White House, has been placed in charge of the arrangements for the President's arrival and stay in Paris. The plans for the President's coming are much the same as those for his former visit, except for formality and public demonstrations.

The French Government will send a special train to Brest to meet the Presidential party. On it will go several Cabinet officers, probably Foreign Minister Pichon, Minister of Marine Leygues, Captain André Tardieu of the French peace delegation, and others. Colonel Edward M. House and a number of members of the American delegation also probably will be on board the train.

The steamer George Washington, on which the President is coming, is timed to arrive at Brest about 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of March 13, accompanied by an armored cruiser and four torpedo boat destroyers. The Presidential train will leave Brest for Paris at 5 o'clock in the evening, arriving in Paris at 11 o'clock on the morning of the 14th.

PARIS, March 7.—The United States has informed the Allies that we will be satisfied with the amounts collected by the Alien Property Custodian and will not ask for further reparation from Germany or Austria.

American experts are now in England helping the other Allies to determine how much the Central Powers are able to pay. Estimates vary from $25,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000, but a safe guess is that the amount ultimately to be fixed will be the latter sum.

Our experts figure that the four Central Powers have between $4,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000 of assets which they are able to furnish to the victorious nations within two years.

Over $700,000,000 Taken Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The announcement in a special dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Paris that the American Government will be content to accept seized enemy property here without asking Germany and Austria for further reparation means that our bill of reparation against Germany will be between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000, probably nearer the latter figure.

This is the value of the enemy property that has been seized by the American Government through the exercise of the authority imposed in the Alien Property Custodian, as near as it can be estimated by men familiar with the records of that office tonight. The last financial statement of the Custodian is understood to contain data showing that the value of enemy property so far inventoried and appraised by him is about $502,000,000. But there is more than $250,000,000 worth of enemy property, seized by the Custodian, that has not been finally inventoried and appraised.

A. Mitchell Palmer, in a statement issued last week, asserted that his office had handled over $700,000,000 worth of enemy property.

The annual report of Mr. Palmer, which will be made public next Monday, will discuss the value of this property and will estimate that when the property under the jurisdiction of the custodian is finally inventoried and assessed it will run close to $800,000,000.

The German Government has also seized property in Germany belonging to American firms and citizens in the same way that we have taken over the property in this country of citizens of Germany, Asia, Turkey, and Bulgaria. Ger-

PARIS DEBATES FOOD CRISIS

WON'T ACCEPT FRENCH PLAN

Proposal Would Compel Us to Supply Germany with $500,000,000 Worth of Food.

ONLY SECURITIES FOR PAY

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 7.—The snarl over German food and ships that caused the breaking off of negotiations at Spa yesterday was the subject of animated discussion today in private conferences of leaders.

In spite of the efforts that are being made to give the impression that the matter will be straightened out, it is apparent that the situation is still far from satisfactory.

At a conference before the Supreme Council met, in which Premier Clemenceau, Premier Lloyd George, and Colonel House participated, a suggestion was presented from Lord Robert Cecil that Germany should receive food until the August harvest under certain conditions.

All, including Clemenceau, expressed themselves as satisfied with this step, but tonight everything goes to show that the French are now insisting that the United States shall assume the whole burden of feeding Germany. This means that the United States would be expected to purchase half a billion dollars worth of food and trust to Germany to discharge the debt, long-term obligations being given as security. There is no likelihood that the United States will agree to this proposition, which has been advanced before and been rejected.

France is willing to permit the use of German freighters held in neutral countries and to charter prizes and German ships as payment for 276,000 tons of food. This proposal was made to the Germans at Spa, and was rejected with a show of indignation, the Germans declaring that this amount would last only two weeks.

At the sessions today of the allied economic experts the British and Americans indicated that they can undertake the feeding of Germany without French help, but only the suggestion was put forward.

The subject of the German food crisis and the failure of the Spa negotiations was barely mentioned at the afternoon session of the Supreme Council, the leading plenipotentiaries preferring to withhold discussion in the Council until the economic experts had exhausted all efforts to harmonize their views.

The Council devoted most of the session to consideration of the Austrian food situation, and arrived at a satisfactory agreement. The Italian representatives interposed strong objections to the recommendations of Mr. Hoover and the other experts, but finally reversed themselves, after it was seen that a majority of the Council was determined to continue the session until the matter was decided.

The reports showed that Austria was on the verge of starvation, with anarchy likely unless relief is given.

To Mr. Hoover has been given a free hand to carry on the relief work. He has 80,000 tons of food stored at Trieste, which he will immediately distribute. Thereafter he will send 3,000 tons of food a day into Austria.

Suggests Payment in Products.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council took action today toward relieving the rather acute situation, created by the interruption of the negotiations at Spa concerning the taking over of German ships and supplying Germany with food.

Final action went over until tomorrow, but meantime at a conference between Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau, and Colonel House a resolution drawn by Lord Robert Cecil was tentatively approved for adjusting the affair. This resolution provides that on the delivery of the ships the Allies should undertake to revictual the Germans until the next harvest, payment being made in coal, potatoes, nitrates, and other products which Germany has and the Allies wants.

The agreement reached between the British, French, and American members of the Council led to the expectation that the Council would accept the settlement tomorrow and that negotiations at Spa would be resumed.

According to unofficial accounts, when the Germans refused the proposition for the use of merchant ships by the Allies, as made to them at Spa, a counter proposition was made by them that they would release the German shipping desired in return for a definite assurance that enough food would be sent into Germany to enable the Government to withstand the Bolshevist movement.

When the Allied Commission went to Spa it was thought that the release of the ships was merely a question of days. It was proposed to the Germans that in return for the use of the ships a rental should be paid, this to be entered to their credit against their food account.

The Germans, however, replied that this would be inadequate and that there must be a guarantee of a steady, uninterrupted supply of food. No country was in position to supply this food under the German conditions, so the question of credit remained unsettled.

Only a relatively small amount of money is actually available in Germany, and it is realized that this would be inadequate under the circumstances, so a survey is being made of German assets abroad as well as at home. There remain securities in Germany which she may pledge in payment and there are also foreign assets, especially in Argentina, where German securities are held. If the German proposal was agreed to the active agent in the food supply must be the United States.

The disagreement over the ships began in January, when the armistice commissions of the Allies and the Germans met at Treves and the Germans explained that they had not realized that the ships would be required under the armistice terms for carrying food, because of the action of the American Congress in insisting that none of its $100,000,000 appropriation for food should go to supply Germany.

A telegram received from Spa this afternoon reported that the German delegation had returned to Weimar, whence it sent a message stating it expected soon to have new instructions from its Government, enabling it to resume the negotiations.

German Version of Rupture.

LONDON, March 7.—A German wireless message received here today gives an account of the rupture at Spa.

The Allies, the message says, demanded that all the remaining German merchant ships should be handed over unconditionally, without being willing to undertake the obligation of supplying Germany with foodstuffs. The German delegates, it is added, received instructions from their Government that the question of shipping, finance, and food supply must be dealt with only as a whole. The German message continues:

"The question of handing over the mercantile fleet can only arise if adequate food supplies, say 2,500,000 tons of foodstuffs, are assured Germany until the new harvest. The Entente could not agree to this.

"As the instructions of both sides did not go beyond this, a French delegate proposed that negotiations be broken off, whereupon the two special delegations left Spa."

A telegram from Berlin to Basle states that the rupture of the negotiations of the committees on financial and food questions at Spa does not affect the negotiations of the Armistice Commission. It is added that the armistice negotiations continue.

TO CUT GERMAN ARMY BELOW 200,000 MEN

Lloyd George's Proposal Is Tentatively Approved—He Would Also Stiffen Naval Terms.

PARIS, March 7.—At the session of the Supreme Council today Premier Lloyd George made an address in regard to the military terms of the preliminary peace with Germany.

He brought forward a proposal for reducing the German Army much below the 200,000 men previously proposed. This was tentatively approved, although all the military terms are still subject to revision.

It was said that in yesterday's council session yesterday Lloyd George pointed out that the armistice with Germany had political as well as military consequences, and that he insisted on strengthening the terms drafted by the military experts in regard to the German Navy.

This bulletin was issued after today's session:

The Supreme Council met today at 3 P. M.

Information was given as to the interruption of the negotiations at Spa regarding the surrender of the German merchant fleet, and Mr. Lansing submitted a proposal in regard to the German cables.

At the request of the Italian delegates it was decided to appoint an interallied military commission to inquire into the incidents at Laibach, (thirty-fve miles northeast of Triest.)

Mr. Lloyd George addressed the council in regard to the military terms of preliminaries of peace with Germany.

The next meeting will take place tomorrow at 3 P. M.

Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau, and Colonel E. M. House conferred in an effort to iron out the differences of the three nations over military, naval and economic questions connected with the preliminary peace terms. Army and navy experts of the several countries, it was said, had been unable to agree on the terms.

Many British statesmen and specialists have joined the British delegation to the Peace Conference to take care of the many important questions now being considered by the Supreme Council and the various commissions.

Premier Lloyd George, who has been especially busy since his return from London, does not expect to leave for the British capital again until about March 20.

Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who accompanied the Premier to Paris, has been in conference with the British delegation.

LORDS DEBATE FOOD CRISIS.

Hope to Settle Matter Soon, Crawford Tells Lansdowne.

LONDON, March 6.—Discussing the food situation in central Europe in the House of Lords today, the Marquis of Lansdowne asked how long the process of "turning the screw" was to continue. He said that he regarded the position of Central Europe "with dismay."

"We seem to be rapidly approaching a catastrophe which may prove the most disastrous in the history of the world," he declared.

"If the blockade is not relaxed," said Baron Parmoor, "famine will seize the peoples of Central Europe and that would be the most fearful crime in history."

The Earl of Crawford, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, replying for the Government, said that the problem was in the hands of the Supreme Economic Council at Paris, which had taken steps to send food to Germany.

"The tonnage demanded from Germany by the Allies has not been forthcoming, however," he said, "and this is significant."

He made no attempt to explain the failure of Germany to turn over the ships asked for, but said that he hoped that "within a few weeks measures will be taken to stave off the impending disaster."

Lord Crawford said that Austria was being fed partly by supplies from British Army sources and partly by supplies from Italy, while a large quantity of bacon and condensed milk was being sent to Germany by way of Rotterdam.

The German mercantile tonnage, he added, was estimated at about 2,000,000 tons, and up to the present not a single ton had been delivered to allied ports. The tonnage had a good bit to do with the food situation. Lord Crawford emphasized the point that the Allies had only enough tonnage to meet their own requirements.

The Supreme Council was aware of the seriousness of the situation in Europe and it was hoped that emergency measures could be taken, pending the transfer of the German mercantile marine.

SAY GERMANS ARE BLUFFING.

Not in Food Straits, Say Travelers —But Austria Is Starving.

GENEVA, March 7, (Associated Press.)—While Germany has broken off official relations with the Allies at Spa over the question of food supplies, travelers, arriving in Switzerland from across the Rhine recently, report that food conditions in Central and Southern Germany are not critical and do not demand immediate relief. The travelers say that the statements of the German Government are only bluff in order to get better terms from the Allies.

Travelers from Austria and Hungary declare that the populations there are really starving and need immediate help.

SHIPPING MEN AGAINST DEAL.

German Interests Declared Arrangement Would Ruin Sea Trade.

WEIMAR, March 6, (Associated Press.)—The negotiations concerning shipping and food at Spa were ruptured with the support of the representatives of the German shipping interests, including Herr Heineken, Director of the North German Lloyd, who asserted that if the Germans met the allied demands it would mean the ruin of German mercantile and sea trade interests.

In commenting on the news, the Deutschland expresses satisfaction with the attitude of the German representatives and says that the German people will indorse and support their attitude.

MONTENEGRO'S DIRE WANT.

American Commission Reports the Population Actually Starving.

ROME, March 5.—The commission sent by the American peace delegation to inquire into conditions in Montenegro passed through Rome toward Paris today. It reported the situation in Montenegro as desperate, and it was said that the population is actually dying from starvation. As an instance of the suffering there, it was said that of a family of eight children five had died from lack of food and the other three had been reduced to skeletons. These were seen scratching the earth to find roots or gathering nettles for food. The American Red Cross is busily engaged in trying to save the people from starvation.

The Montenegrins, according to a member of the commission, ask the Peace Conference to allow them freely to express their desires concerning their future Government. They are not averse to a union with the Croatians and Slovenes, but demand that a federation be established which will leave their laws, customs, and religion intact.

FOOD SHIP AT DANZIG.

First Since Raising of the Baltic Blockade Brings Dutch Vegetables.

BERLIN, March 5, (Associated Press.)—A Danzig dispatch reports the arrival there of the first food ship since the raising of the Baltic blockade. It carries a cargo of vegetables from Holland, consigned to Danzig by Dutch merchants.

The dispatch states that the American Food Commission at Danzig has recommended to the Entente Powers that permission be granted for the importation of Danish and Norwegian herring on account of the precarious food situation in Germany. The American commission is reported to have allowed the City of Danzig 500 tons of lard and bacon in acknowledgement of the services rendered by German authorities in the transmission of food consignments to Poland.

MIGHT SEIZE SHIPS, SAYS CHAIRMAN HURLEY

He Thinks the Opposition of German Sailors Is Back of Berlin's Objections.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board stated tonight that the refusal of the German delegates to agree to the demands of the Allies for surrender of German merchant ships was probably caused by fear of the mutinous sailors at Bremen and Hamburg.

Mr. Hurley said that the sailors objected to the proposal because they would not be allowed to man the ships under allied control. Knowing this, the German delegates, he said, probably refused to take definite action and made the condition that the Allies first must agree to furnish Germany with adequate food supplies until the next harvest.

"There would be nothing to prevent the Allies from going in and taking the ships by force," said Mr. Hurley, "and I imagine the German delegates would rather see this done than be forced to commit themselves to a proposal which they knew would be opposed by the sailors. They are a force to be reckoned with and the delegates know it."

Mr. Hurley was the American delegate to the conference at Treves at which arrangements were made for the use of German passenger ships to bring American soldiers home from France. He said today that so far as he knew none of the ships had yet been turend over.

It was reported here today that there was great need of food in the large cities of Germany, such as Bremen, Hamburg, and Berlin. Conditions in the country districts are reported as much better.

The use of German passenger ships to bring back American soldiers has been one of the first things which representatives of the United States have sought to accomplish, and it is thought likely that the present lack of agreement on use of ships in exchange for food supplies will not delay action in this direction. Whatever delay is caused, it is said, will be in connection wit hthe use of German cargo carriers.

A demand has now arisen here for putting some of these German cargo ships into use, to let American tonnage, tied up in European food relief work, turn to commercial channels. This demand has become insistent, and it is suggested that interminable delay will not be agreed to by the allied representatives.

Colorado Senate for League Plan.

DENVER, Col., March 7.—The Senate of the Colorado Legislature by a strict party vote today adopted a resolution favoring the adoption of the League of Nations plan outlined by President Wilson. The House last week by a party vote tabled a similar resolution. The Democrats control the Senate, the Republicans the House.

Bullet Still in Clemenceau's Lung.

PARIS, March 7.—Another X-ray photograph was taken yesterday of the bullet in Premier Clemenceau's lung. It was found that the bullet was still in the same place. The Premier's physicians said they were greatly pleased with the result of the examination.

WILSON OPPOSED TO SINKING FLEET

WILL CONSULT NAVAL MEN

Tells Representative Fuller He Will Take Up Question as Soon as He Reaches Paris.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—President Wilson is not in favor of taking the German Navy to sea and sinking it. The President has written a letter to Representative Alvin T. Fuller, a Republican member of Congress from Malden, Mass., expressing his disapproval of the reported intention of the Peace Conference to do so. On Feb. 27 Representative Fuller took the matter up with the President in a letter in which Mr. Fuller asserted his belief that the business sense of the people at large "will be utterly opposed to the wanton destruction of a navy worth $200,000,000."

"Your letter of the 27th of February," says the President's reply to Mr. Fuller, "has interested and gratified me very much. I feel as you do about the project to sink the German ships. It seems to me like the counsel of those who do not know what else to do. But I have not yet had the opportunity to discuss it with any authoritative naval men and therefore do not like to form a final judgment about it without hearing them. I shall take it up when I get back to Paris and shall not forget that your judgment coincides with my own present conclusion. You are very generous in your personal message and I appreciate it most deeply. Your confidence on what I am trying to do gives me the most delightful reassurance."

Mr. Fuller's letter to the President, which brought forth the foregoing reply, read as follows:

"Will you please tell me if there is any truth in the persistent rumor that the Allies are going to sink the German fleet because they cannot agree as to its distribution? I know of no piece of news that would so dissipate confidence in the Peace Conference as this wanton destruction of a navy worth $200,000,000.

"I hope I have not presumed in writing to you. I thoroughly enjoyed and gloried in the reception that was given you in Boston the other day, and also had the pleasure of being a spectator in Paris.

"Personally, I cannot see what these people are thinking of who are opposing the peace agreement which is being negotiated in Paris. If it does not go through what have the nations of the world won for their sacrifices? Are the nations going right ahead spending billions for armament? The moral sense of the people of the world is for peace, and while, of course, peace cannot be absolutely guaranteed, I am sure, practically speaking, everybodys prayers and best wishes are with you in your attempt to nail down the future peace of the world."

TO GIVE SOVEREIGNTY BACK TO BELGIUM

Commission Advises Peace Conference to Revise Three Treaties, Affecting Holland Also.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—The report of the commission on Belgian affairs, charged with investigation of the differences between Belgium and Holland, was submitted to the Supreme Council today. It advises that the three treaties of 1839, establishing the status of Belgium and Holland, be revised by the council as they are now "useless and disadvantageous to Belgium."

The three treaties are identical, except as to the signatories. Belgium and Holland signed one, and Holland and Belgium each signed one with Great Britain, France, Austria, Russia, and Prussia. Three of these powers have disappeared and the treaties have become "scraps of paper," which Germany violated by invading Belgium.

The proposed revision of the treaties will restore Belgium's complete sovereignty and eliminate her neutrality, which afforded no protection and is now distasteful. Holland will be summoned before "the Big Five" soon to discuss the revision of the treaties.

The question of Dutch Limburg has not yet been considered by the Peace Conference commission on Belgian claims, André Tardieu, a member of the French peace delegation, told newspaper men yesterday.

He added that no military zone would be created in Schleswig because the Danish Government had stated that the presence of allied warships at Flensburg would suffice to prevent German interference with the plebiscite regarding self-determination.

DECLARES GERMANY IS IN PEACE INTRIGUE

LONDON, March 7.—Germany is attempting to win peace through a secret alliance with "hyphenated Americans" and pro-German Dutch and Swiss, the Paris correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette asserts, on what he says is "high authority." The German aids would use their influence to mitigate as far as possible the severity of the peace terms, according to this plan, Germany in exchange to give commercial privileges of a "substantial kind."

The exploitation of Russia for the benefit of Germany and a selected group of international financial backers is said to be an important part of the alleged scheme, on which the Bolshevist leaders are declared already to have been approached. At the moment, Switzerland is said to be the main centre of the intrigue, but agents in the interest of it are also asserted to be working actively in Paris.

"In a commercial, economic, and military sense, Germany needs careful watching," the correspondent says. "She has powerful and unscrupulous financiers who are ready to help her."

SOUTH AMERICANS SEIZE BULK OF PLACES

Smaller European Nations Almost Shut Out of Economic and Financial Commissions.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—The Foreign Office today found it necessary to issue a statement explanatory of the conditions under which the South American countries and Portugal yesterday obtained all five places allotted to the smaller powers on the important Financial Commission and three out of five places on the Economic Commission.

The statement points out that each of the sixteen nations was allowed to cast five votes, or one for each place on each commission. The South Americans being in the majority, compared with the European small powers, the result of the voting was as follows: For the Financial Commission—Peru, 14; Brazil, 10; Bolivia, 9; Panama, 9, and Portugal, 9.

The vote for members of the Economic Commission was: Brazil, 16; Cuba, 9; Siam, 9; Ecuador, 8; [fifth member not given.]

The statement says that the Latin Americans, recognizing that the European nations were in the minority, offered to recommend to the Council the giving to the Europeans of four additional seats on each commission, but that the Europeans, excepting Portugal, declined to accept the concession.

Meanwhile the Supreme Council itself finally refused to enlarge the allotment of commission places for small nations, although it was pointed out that no Latin-American countries except Brazil participated in the war.

Contrary to the statement in the above dispatch the South American countries are not a majority of the smaller nations (outside of the Big Five) that are represented in the Peace Conference. The sixteen smaller nations are, divided by continents, as follows:

ASIA—China, Siam—2.

Instead, therefore, of the South American countries having taken most of the places on these commissions by virtue of superior numbers, the result indicates a combination of forces with Portugal (linked with Brazil especially by old ties) and possibly Siam, thus obtaining a majority. The election of a Siamese delegate as a member of the very important Economic Commission is not explained on the basis of definite need or exceptional fitness.

MARSHAL'S DRASTIC TERMS

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

when she is sure that Germany is obliged to stop her preparations.

The Menace of Bolshevism.

But there is a more immediate reason, now being recognized more clearly than ever before, for getting these tangible peace conditions placed before Germany without delay. Lloyd George and Clemenceau are both doing their best to rush the work through, and it is taken for granted that Wilson will join them in full accord in the business of expediting matters the moment he arrives in Paris. The reason is Bolshevism. The Bolshevist Government of Russia is reported as printing and issuing counterfeit English money by millions of pounds. The Glasgow troubles are all attributed to Bolshevism.

The news from Berlin is more menacing every hour. Quick peace terms are the only thing now looked to as making the salvation of Germany possible. It is taken for granted that the bulk of the German people would prefer any peace terms the Allies would impose to Bolshevism, but they want to learn their fate quickly and settle down. The Germans are supposed to be saying to one another:

"The Paris Conference is talking today of Greece. Yesterday it was of mandates for Armenia. When will they tell us Germans what we must do and what we may not do? Let us have the peace terms now, and then let them end the blockade, so that we can have food supplies and go to work, and so save ourselves from anarchy."

Needless to say, France has entirely dropped her old attitude of last November against feeding Germany to enable her to work. France fears Bolshevism in Germany, knowing that the Rhine would be no bar against its spread into France.

"No part of Europe," said a French statesman to me today, "is impervious to Bolshevism these days. It is leaking into France—not much as yet—but, after all, every population is ripe for it under certain conditions, which must not be allowed to prevail. We must remember that thousands of the gentlest-souled men in France, who before the war would not hurt any living thing, have had four years of killing human beings—not killing them impersonally at long range, but face to face, with their bayonets and grenades. Killing is no longer unthinkable to these men. The cost of living was never higher, but the price of life was never lower in the estimate of millions of men in France and all the other belligerent countries. It is no time to take risks with Bolshevism."

PARIS PRESS CAUTIOUS.

Seems to Regard Our Dispute Over the League as a Family Affair.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 6.—Genuine comment in the French press on the conflict between the President and the Senate is exceedingly scanty. This morning's newspapers refrain from any expression of editorial opinion, and in the afternoon papers thre is little beyond a somewhat academic discussion of the President's position relative to the League of Nations in the Journal des Débats.

L'Intransigeant and Liberté briefly review the facts of the dispute, with these headlines, respectively: "President Wilson and the American Senate in an Open Struggle" and "Grave Conflict Between President and Congress." The fact is, that under the strict censorship there is no inclination on the part of the French newspapers to venture on such delicate ground as criticism of the President—supposing they were disposed to make it—has proved to be in the past.

But really the French have accepted the general principles of the League project and are somewhat bewildered to find it the subject of attack in America. That modifications will be introduced on the part of various powers no one here doubts, and therefore it is difficult for the French to understand exactly why there should now be a conflict over any modification that America may desire to make. The general view is that the dispute is almost wholly a matter of internal American politics, which it is outside the French province to discuss unless it affects the President's position here, which at present is not thought to be the case.

SINN FEIN THREAT TO DEFEAT LEAGUE

SPOKE "GENTLY" TOO LONG

Time Has Come for Acts, He Adds, Complaining That Our Delegates Don't Reply.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—If the Irish question is not settled by the Peace Conference, friends of Ireland will stop ratification of the League of Nations in the American Congress, Sean O'Ceallaigh (John O'Kelly), the delegate of the provisional Irish Republic to the Peace Conference, asserted in a statement today. He expressed doubt whether any League of Nations could be formed and said that the Irish "have spoken gently" to President Wilson long enough.

"We can stop ratification of this League of Nations in Congress if the Irish question is not settled," the Irish delegate insisted. "It is my opinion that there will be no League of Nations; at any rate, there will be no peace in Europe because Ireland will fight and the world knows that Ireland can fight.

"We believe we are powerful enough in America to make President Wilson enforce the principles outlined in his peace plan concerning the rights of nations to dispose of themselves. We have pleaded and spoken gently to him long enough. The time has come for acts."

O'Ceallaigh added that no reply had been received from the members of the American Peace delegation, asking that Ireland's case be heard, except a simple acknowledgment from General Bliss. He added:

"The others failed to grant me the courtesy usually bestowed by gentlemen when receiving a letter, even from beggars, and God knows we are not beggars."

O'Ceallaigh, who is a small man of energetic appearance, spoke without elation, but without bitterness, concerning the amnesty granted to Sinn Feiners in England, saying:

"It is not too soon. These men have been in jail for nine and one-half months without a charge being made against them. England was the last of the belligerent countries to grant amnesty to political prisoners. It is not a record to be proud of."

Concerning Edward de Valera, whose escape from Lincoln Prison in England he recently described, O'Ceallaigh said:

"He will be here when I send for him. It is easier to leave England and enter France without a passport than to escape from Lincoln jail."

When de Valera came to Paris, said O'Ceallaigh, he would take charge of the Irish delegation. "Perhaps we may then have a chance to be heard," O'Ceallaigh continued. "It seems that the blacks and yellows, all colors and races, may be heard before the conference except the Irish."

O'Ceallaigh asserted that the release of the Sinn Fein prisoners by Great Britain was decided upon three weeks ago, but was postponed because of the illness of Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

O'Ceallaigh at first greeted the correspondent diffidently, eyeing him from head to feet and paying particular attention to the latter. He soon thawed out, however, and just before the departure of the correspondent he said:

"Forgive my evident suspicion in greeting you. I thought you were one of the English Secret Service men. They are numerous around here."

He said that some of the Secret Service men came to him as newspaper men while others shadowed him.

"Last week," added O'Ceallaigh, "one of them succeeded in entering this room among a crowd of journalists. He seemed loath to depart, and it being dinner time I invited him to dinner. He accepted, and he certainly kept his mouth and ears open throughout the meal, partaking of the good fare supplied at the hotel and with eager ears simply absorbing all the gossip which fell from my lips. I sent him home happy, and I'll bet he had a great report to make to his employers."

TO REOPEN FRONTIER MONDAY.

Italy Will Ask Explanation of Laibach Incident.

PARIS, March 7, (Associated Press.)—A member of the Italian peace mission said today that the Jugoslav frontier would probably be opened on Monday, thus permitting the immediate revictualling of Serbia, Montenegro, and Albania.

Negotiations are now being conducted between Serbia and Italy, he said, to adjust the differences which led to the clash at Laibach and the discontinuance of the railway service. The Italian Government, according to the speaker, "expects that the Serbian Government will disclaim responsibility for the affronts offered Italy, and will declare that the situation was purely local and not controlled by the Serbian Government."

LIMIT INDEMNITY TO SEIZURES HERE

many some time ago issued a statement in which it asserted that the value of the American property seized there was about $100,000,000. Officials here are inclined to believe this figure is too high and that the total value of American property seized in Germany will be $50,000,000.

The property taken possession of by the American Alien Property Custodian includes stock and bond holdings in industrial and business enterprises in this country, real estate, insurance policies, investments in insurance companies, mining, and other interests.

Ex-Kaiser's Investments Included.

Included in the total are all the investments of the former German Kaiser in this country which the Government has been able to uncover, some of the investments of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the former German Imperial Chancellor; Dr. Dernburg, and German Princes. It also includes properties in this country of American women who, by reason of their marriage to German or Austrian Princes, took the citizenship of their husbands automatically, among them the former Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, who married a Hungarian nobleman.

Announcement has just been made that the French Government intends to liquidate enemy property which it has seized, and the probabilities are that steps will soon be taken to liquidate the enemy property seized in this country.

The value of the minority holdings of stocks of enemy aliens seized by the Custodian here is around $150,000,000, and of minority holdings in bonds about $60,000,000. The value of German real estate taken over is understood to be around $12,000,000, and of majority holdings of stocks and bonds in American concerns about $150,000,000 additional. Besides, there are about $75,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds that have been bought by the Alien Property Custodian with the proceeds of sales, and with enemy cash seized by this Government.

The total of enemy alien accounts receivable, according to the last financial statement of the Custodian, is about $20,000,000, while the value of German and Austrian ships seized by this country is represented to be about $34,000,000.

The value of the property of American women who married enemy subjects, all of which is now under the control of the Custodian, is about $25,000,000.

SPARGO INDORSES LEAGUE.

Writer Declares That Failure of the Plan Means Bolshevism.

John Spargo, independent Socialist writer and lecturer, who was in the city to meet with Catherine Breshkovsky and other Russian revolutionists, expressed the view that the overwhelming majority of the American people favored the proposed League of Nations. It is his belief that if it were submitted to a popular plebiscite based on equal, direct, universal suffrage the plan would be approved by fully 85 per cent. of the men and women of America.

"It is quite evident that many of those who are opposing President Wilson and the proposed covenant are playing partisan politics, looking to 1920," said Mr. Spargo. "Ex-President Taft is setting an excellent example to men and women of all parties and sects by his fine courage in lifting the issue so high above party interests.

"The opponents of the League of Nations are blind as moles to the greatest and most obtrusive fact in the world, namely, the aroused temper of the working classes in all nations and their insistent demand for some international arrangement which will relieve them of the burdens of militarism and the menace of future wars. It cannot be too strongly stressed that failure to adopt the proposed plan for a League of Nations, in substance if not in all its details, will make Bolshevist uprisings in England, France, and Italy, as well as in other countries. When I was in Europe last Summer this was the conviction I gathered from conversations with working class leaders everywhere I went. On several occasions, while in Italy, when in my speeches I urged the workers to stand firm and see the allied cause through to victory, the audiences were unresponsive and even sullen. When, however, I referred to President Wilson, to America's idealism as interpreted by him, and to the proposal for a League of Nations, there was, invariably, loud cheering and unbounded enthusiasm. It was not the cheering of politeness to a visitor, but the passionate cheering of men who rested all their faith in the American people and in the program set forth by President Wilson. Only that faith kept them from revolt. Only that faith kept them in the fight. Let that faith be disappointed and no power on earth will hold them in check.

"Nothing short of sheer madness could lead men calling themselves statesmen to incur the risk of plunging the world into anarchical revolt as the opponents of the President are doing. Only the hope of the workers that the League of Nations will succeed stands between us and Bolshevism. I do not mean that the workers are following President Wilson. They are not behind him, but ahead of him in many important respects. The scheme which he has fostered does not go as far as most of them would like. They would welcome a much more radical scheme, one embracing dissolution of all national armies and navies and the creation of a small international force. The workers know that if the plan to create a League of Nations fails the various Governments will be forced to create alliances and counter-alliances. They know that, in that case, they will have to bear crushing militarist burdens for many years, and that their lives will be imperiled by the ever-present danger of war. This they are determined to prevent, even to the extent of revolting and embracing Bolshevism.

"The cry of the reactionaries that the plan is 'unconstitutional' does not impress the working class very much. In the first place, the workers know full well that the same cry has been raised against every measure of progress. The defeat of the League of Nations would be a great disaster for us and for the world."

APPEAL FOR SMALL NATIONS

Paris Plan Called 'Doubtful Shadow' at Berne Conference.

BERNE, Thursday, March 6.—Pleas for an effective League of Nations marked the opening of the International Conference of League of Nations Societies here today. Mrs. Philip Snowden, delegate from Great Britain, emphasized the need of completing the work of the Peace Conference at Paris.

"We must have a real and effective League of Nations," she said, "not merely the doubtful shadow that has appeared at the Paris Conference."

Otto Weber, Swiss Councilor, opened the session by characterizing the world situation as consisting of two alternatives, one a League of Nations and the other anarchy. He said the League of Nations scheme as proposed at present would not satisfy every one, because it left small nations outside and gave no guarantee that every State would form a part of the League or that every conflict would be regulated by arbitration. The new League should not be an instrument giving military assurances to the group of victorious powers.

Among the delegates are Professor Hamon, Dr. Brocher, Professor Agashe, and former Deputy Hibbard of France; Hugh Richardson of England, Professor Ghisleriet and Enrico Bignami of Italy, Baron Wrangel of Russia, and Count Montgelas and Dr. Wilhelm Mühlon of Germany.

Swiss for League of Nations.

GENEVA, March 7.—The Swiss Peace Society at a meeting here last night adopted a resolution in favor of the adhesion of Switzerland to the League of Nations.

Place des Etats-Unis, which the French Government has placed at his disposal. President Wilson again will be the guest of the French nation in deference to the courteous insistence of the French authorities.

It was said that his personal desire was that his second visit should be as a private American citizen and that he might select his own quarters and meet his own expenses; but the courtesy of the French authorities relieves him of all such private arrangements and makes him the guest of the Government.

The week following the President's arrival promises to be the most strenuous period of the conference. All committees have been ordered to have their reports in, so that besides the military, naval, aerial, and peace terms now before the council of the great powers there will be ready the articles of the treaty on the responsibility of the former German Emperor and others for the starting of the war, reparation for war damages, Germany's western frontier, and all financial and economic questions.

These will be co-ordinated into the first draft of the treaty by the time President Wilson arrives. It is this draft which will be subjected to final revision and decision on debatable points during the eventful week when President Wilson resumes his seat with the council of the great powers for a conclusion of all the terms, and it is expected that this will be accomplished so as to permit delivery of the terms to the Germans soon after March 20.

After this President Wilson will leave for Brussels, and David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, for England, pending a determination by the Germans of their course of action.

The American authorities are about to take possession of the handsome mansion in the Place des Etats Unis which the French Government has placed at the disposal of the President, and a patrol of American soldiers already is on duty there.

French workmen are still engaged in refurnishing the house, which has been closed throughout the war, and restoring the rare paintings and tapestries which were sent to country depositaries while air raids were being carried out by the Germans. The collection of paintings in the mansion includes some of the finest examples of Corot and Watteau and a number of other old masters. These paintings, with the tapestries and other rich decorations, make it one of the most artistic and elegant residences in the capital.

SHELL ALLIED LINES IN NORTH RUSSIA

OUR ENGINEERS ADMIRED

ARCHANGEL, March 5, (Associated Press.)—The Bolshevist artillery has continued its activity on the Vaga and Dvina fronts, but there has been no infantry attack upon the allied forces since March 3, when a thrust at the allied lines between Vistavka and Kimst was repulsed. The American troops near Vistavka, who have been subjected to considerable artillery fire during the last five days, are in good spirits, determinedly holding their line and patroling the forests.

Headquarters reports today indicate that the Bolshevist force on the Vaga front comprises about 1,000 men, with considerable artillery, including a type of four-inch field gun hitherto not in use on this front.

Beginning at Archangel and extending to the furthest point south in the forests where the North Russian expeditionary force is operating against the Bolsheviki, or the "Bolo," as the soldiers call him up here, the work of American engineers is evident.

They went into almost impassable swamps in the early Autumn and built roads, blockhouses, barracks, and bridges, to say nothing of a corduroy road or a railroad switch track now and then. In the dead of Winter, when the thermometer has gone far below zero, they have done the same thing in the snow.

Fortunately for the engineers, their most needed supply, wood, has been close at hand. The British officers commanding the expedition have never ceased to praise the speed with which these Americans have frequently gone into a forest and transformed some of its trees into livable barracks or blockhouses within a couple of days' time.

The country through which the allied and Russian troops are operating is, for the most part, very sparsely settled. At some points, the American engineers have doubled the existing number of houses in a village. They have built, and are still building.

One of their jobs on the Vologda railroad sector of the front has been to transform rough little Russian box cars into habitations for troops. They have double-walled them against the cold, and in a company train one can find bath cars, kitchens, offices, dormitory cars, hospitals, and nearly every kind of a commissary store or canteen, all built from box cars, and, for the most part, lighted by electricity.

Archangel has been enthused by the display of patriotism on the part of some of the new Russian troops, who have petitioned their commanders for permission to advance now. The mobilization of Russians in Archangel is continuing.

The Russian command has awarded the Cross of St. George to ninety-seven soldiers of an Archangel regiment who escaped from Germany, where they were prisoners of war, went to Holland, and enlisted as volunteers against the Bolsheviki as soon as they reached home here.

LONDON, March 6, (via Montreal.)—Allied soldiers who are wounded in the fighting along the Murman Coast front are cared for most efficiently, according to a Reuter's dispatch. Dog teams and reindeers are used to take the wounded men from the front to Kem, where they are placed on a train which takes them to Murmansk. After their arrival at Murmansk they are distributed to medical aid posts scattered over the country in farm houses and in tents.

Before being taken to the railhead, the wounded men are placed on deerskin bags and have hot water bottles placed about them. These bags are so designed that a patient can be treated without exposure to the severe cold of the north.

All the soldiers wear clothing designed by Sir Ernest Shackleton, and very few cases of frost bite have been reported.

ARRESTS ZEMSTVO OFFICIALS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—General Ivanoff Rinoff, in charge of the Russian military forces in the Vladivostok maritime district, has arrested and deported to Harbin six non-Bolshevist members of the Zemstvo, or local government of Vladivostok, according to advices received by the State Department today.

The dispatch says this action was without instructions from Admiral Kolchak or the Omsk Government. The charge against the six men was "political activity."

The only explanation suggested here is that there are a number of Russian officials who still feel that they have absolute arbitrary power to do as they please.

CHRISTIANIA, March 7.—A strong revolutionary agitation is being carried out in Finmark (the northernmost part of Norway) by an organization which is planning a revolution on the Russian pattern, according to a report from Kirkenais to the Aftenposten.

The organization plans to carry the revolution into Finland and Scandinavian countries.

NEW LONDON DEGREES.

University Courses in Commerce to be Opened in September.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 7.—London University has decided to give degrees in commerce and courses leading to them well be opened by the London School of Economics probably next September.

This school has already for some years given courses likely to be of special interest to men and women engaged in commerce in such subjects as cost accounting, scientific factory management, and foreign trade and exchanges, but it is now intended to give much more detailed attention to business needs.

The scheme has not yet been drafted, but it is believed students will be required in the first part of the course to ground themselves thoroughly in general economics, and will then take up special branches, such as banking, shipping, railroad transportation, and so on.

The college authorities are now consulting with leaders in commercial life on the methods to be adopted to make the courses as practical as possible. It is expected that they will attract not only students looking forward to new special careers but also men in consular and other Government services.

CHARLES E. HUGHES'S COMMENT ON LEAGUE

An unintentional injustice was done the Hon. Charles E. Hughes in THE TIMES yesterday in quoting his comment on the proposed Constitution of the League of Nations. What Mr. Hughes actually said on the subject was comprised in the two paragraphs herewith reprinted:

"I had expected that the President would give the country the benefit of an analytical exposition of the proposed Constitution, and I regret he has not done this.

"I do not favor the Constitution of the League as it stands. I think it is idle to say that the opinion of the country favors it. But I believe we can do much toward securing the basis of a new international order without sacrificing our essential interests. We ought to devote our thought to this."

By accident three additional paragraphs of comment were added to this which were part of a statement by Senator Calder on the same subject.

ADMITS CROWDING IN CAMP.

Harbord Also Says There Was 'Some Discomfort' at St. Aignan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Admission that the casual embarkation camp at St. Aignan, France, which some of the soldiers passing through have nicknamed Camp Agony, had been "somewhat overcrowded," and that this resulted "in some discomfort," is made in a cablegram which the War Department has received from General Harbord, the Commanding General of the Service of Supply of the American Expeditionary Force. The message was made public today by Secretary Baker.

General Harbord's cablegram is dated March 3, and he says in it that it had been seen and approved by General Pershing. The message follows:

"Prior to Nov. 11, St. Aignan was used primarily as a replacement camp, and its facilities were constructed accordingly. After Nov. 11 it was converted into a casual embarkation camp. While the camp was being constructed for embarkation purposes it had to handle troops received from two directions, replacements passing through for the front and B and C class casuals passing through from the front to seaports.

"Due to the sudden change from expatriation to repatriation of troops this camp was handling B and C class evacuees before it was prepared to do so. Due to the incomplete state of reconstruction during January the capacity of the camp was somewhat overtaxed, resulting in some discomfort. This was partially due to the following:

"Overestimating the amount of shipping for December and January, underestimating the number of B and C class evacuees, loss of individual records, which caused delay in evacuation; shortage of rail transportation to ports.

"Many B and C class men were evacuated to St. Aignan whose physical condition was such that they should have been retained longer in hospitals. In some cases this was due to soldiers concealing their disabilities with the hope that they would be evacuated, thereby expediting their return to the United States. However, all men were examined on arrival at St. Aignan, and the physically unfit, those requiring medical attention, were immediately sent to the hospital at that place. Undoubtedly, certain men tried to conceal their ailments in order to avoid going to the hospital, it is probable that some men were evacuated to ports who should have been retained at the hospital.

"Since the latter part of January only potentially Class A men are being evacuated through St. Aignan. All really B and C Class men are being evacuated through hospitals and sent home as patients.

"At present shelter at St. Aignan is more than sufficient, food good and sufficient, kitchens and mess halls adequate, bunks, bedsacks, straw, fuel, and stoves sufficient. Men go to meals on schedule so as to avoid waiting in line. Duckboards are in practically all the occupied portions of the camp and men can go to necessary places without getting in the mud.

"Reports of inspectors and medical officers indicate that all sick and wounded have always received proper and sufficient attention unless they have escaped detection through their own exertions. General Pershing has seen and approved this telegram."

'EVIL THING WITH HOLY NAME'

Senator Knox Finds New Title for League at Canton.

CANTON, Ohio, March 7.—"McKinley and Roosevelt—would to God they were with us now, with their sound judgment to tell us whether this evil thing with the holy name should be accepted by the American people," declared Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, in an address eulogizing former Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt here tonight at the annual banquet of the Canton McKinley Club. This was the only reference made to the proposed League of Nations.

Senator Knox paid particular tribute to McKinley's "firmness, patience, and sheer reasonableness." He referred to Roosevelt's tact and firmness in handling domestic problems as President, and cited in detail his methods of handling monopoly and trust problems.

Congressmen Patrick H. Kelley of Michigan, and Roscoe C. McCulloch of Ohio were other speakers.

TO FEED OUR GUARD AT GERMAN CAMPS

600 SOLDIERS CONCERNED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, March 6.—Some uneasiness is felt at the headquarters of the Third Army for American soldiers in Germany who are caring for Russian prisoners of war and doing other missionary work. The Berlin strike and the growing interruption of railroad traffic may interfere with getting food to these men. Since they have been in Germany food has been sent to them by railroad. If this is made impracticable because of disturbances in the country, trucks will be loaded and armed and started out to them. Considering the districts through which such truck trains would have to pass, such an undertaking might be fraught with possibilities of adventure for the drivers and guards. At any rate those 600 Americans are going to be fed.

In view of the expressions of hostility toward Americans by the German Reds, it is interesting to note that the American soldiers who are guarding the Russian war prisoners in Germany are in the anomalous position of guarding these prisoners unarmed. It was stipulated on their going into Germany that they should carry no weapons. Apropos of the feeling in Berlin toward American officers, I give an extract from a personal letter written to a friend here by a young American officer now stationed in the German capital. He writes:

"We don't go around much, for it only makes it embarrassing for us. The Prussians seem to think we are still at war, and I have been asked (imagine!) if I were a prisoner. They give you the cold shoulder and are extremely disdainful everywhere. That is the reason it is not safe to roam about. Stick to the brightly lighted streets; don't travel alone, and don't fraternize—though there's not much danger of that! Here they are off you. Yon don't have to be ordered to lay off them.

"Say, brother, I've head the shouting and clamorous stuff about what swell birds are these folks of Teutonic origin, and maybe I've applauded, too, fascinated for the moment by their stately, upstanding, modern building and advanced material progress, and also, frankly, with the apparent warm-hearted reception we got when we came surging in from France. But I had not been in Berlin then, hadn't been cursed, disdained, and ousted by everything from a yellow pup to old men. And it occurs to me that if some more Americans could come here, and if they saw this, felt it, smelled it, they would be inclined to agree with me. There ain't no such animal as a good German.

"There are a few machine guns, rather ominous-looking, near you always as you walk down the street, and they don't advertise any friendliness here. Also, take it from me, there's been shooting up around here that would have made Nick Carter's bleeding heart look like Pilgrim's Progress. So, brother, digest this—and it's not American propaganda. Next to your Uncle, whose name is Sammy, your next best friend is the old boy in sky-blue who helped silence these birds for the time being."

Apropos of America's feeding the Germans in Munich, for instance, there is a note of interest in the reply made by the Commissioner of Fisheries, Herr Flugge, to a query as to why he was not sending fish into the Rhineland. He said the Workmen's Councils and Spartacides would not let him. I give part of his reply:

"Extensive preparations had been made to pursue fishing after the armistice. A large number of fishing steamers were built in Government and private shipyards. Motor cutters were manufactured in sufficient number. In addition, large quantities of netting were purchased here and in foreign countries. But political conditions spoiled my plans. The building of ships has stopped because wages are so high that capitalists refuse to invest funds in shipbuilding, and more so because the Workmen's and Soldiers' Councils of the coast cities are constantly threatening the socialization of all yards.

"Catches that are made do not get inland, for the Workmen's and Soldiers' Councils hinder and oppose any shipments. The sailors of Cuxhaven are specially proficient in this. Soldiers' and Sailors' Councils have even conceived the brilliant notion of forbidding the use of modern American fisheries equipment, on the plea that the new equipment would hurt the business of the small fishermen. In this way the fishing business in Germany is greatly limited."

French Find Iron Mines Not Badly Damaged

PARIS, March 7.—Most of the iron mines in the rich Briey coal basin are in good condition and can be worked again as soon as arrangements for employing men are made, according to the report of a commission which has been making a study of the mines. But nothing remains of the gigantic manufacturing organization allied with the mines in pre-war days. Factory buildings, which it is said will take years to reconstruct, were razed by the Germans and the machinery was destroyed or removed.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO PLAN FOR OUR RHINE ARMY

Money to Pay Civilians Will Be Requisitioned from the Berlin Government.

COBLENZ, March 6, (Associated Press.)—All indebtedness contracted by Americans within the occupied territories of Germany will be paid immediately. Authorization to this effect was secured by the Third Army today, and from this date on the Americans will pay their way as they go. The money to pay the back bills and the bills of the future will be requisitioned from Berlin, the army thus relieving the civilians of the occupied territory from taking the chances of collecting from the German Government.

When the Americans eventually start homeward not one pfennig will be owing to civilians who have claims for services rendered or for billets in hotels or houses, or claims of any other kind in connection with the upkeep of the United States troops, so far as the army records are concerned. Before the departure of the forces the commanders of the various units will confer with the Burgomasters of the respective cities and villages in the district, and as a final formality will receive from the Burgomasters receipts in full, showing all debts cleared up under this plan.

Since the Americans came the Burgomasters have been paying the civilians their bills, but recently the Germans reported that their funds were exhausted and that they were unable to obtain more money from Berlin. The Coblenz Burgomaster's office thus owes more than 500,000 marks for bills contracted in connection with the maintenance of Americans. The latter have been for some time in favor of putting the immediate-payment plan in practice, but before this could be done it was necessary to gain the consent of the allied commission.

The ground taken by the Americans is that it will be more worthy of them to pay as they go than to leave debts in the hands of civilians, who may or may not in the course of time be able to collect from the more or less unstable Treasury in Berlin. Therefore the Americans will do the collecting from the German Government.

BACKS HIS PEACE ENVOYS.

President of China Says They Have Done Well in Paris.

PEKING, Feb. 25, (Associated Press.)—Pleasure at the action of China's delegates to the Peace Conference was expressed by President Hsu Chih Chang in an interview today. They had done well, he said. Asked if the disclosure by the delegates of the secret agreements with Japan had his approval, the President replied that plenary powers had been given them and they could act as they deemed best.

The interview was a unique event in Chinese political history, for the President on this occasion received the foreign correspondents on invitation and talked freely to them regarding Chinese affairs. He admitted that the Government had experienced great difficulties during the European war, but he hoped that after the peace treaty had been signed and internal peace achieved he would be able to reorganize the national finances.

These would be improved, he pointed out, by the disbandment of the troops, regarding which he did not apprehend any difficulty. Neither did he expect, he said, to find any great difficulty arising in the carrying out of whatever settlement the conference at Shanghai between the Chinese factions might reach, because everybody desired peace.

For the present, the Executive said, he intended to pay particular attention to industrial development, and he would welcome foreign participation in such development.

PAID MEN FOR DESTRUCTION.

Germans' Methods Revealed in Documents Seized by Belgians.

LONDON, March 6.—A Reuter dispatch from Paris says that additional evidence will be laid before the Commission on Reparation of the Peace Conference by the presentation of a full set of documents, discovered by the Belgian police, which contain detailed instructions to German troops for carrying out their work of destruction in Belgium.

These documents are said to include papers stating the salaries to be paid the men in charge of these operations and giving directions regarding the methods of destruction which were to be followed.

BERLIN REBELS BEATEN IN BATTLE

the electric workers demanded that the light and power systems be completely paralyzed, and that the railroad workmen also intended to strike. He hoped, he said, soon to show the opponents of the strike that their expectations of its failure were vain.

A resolution was presented to the Strike Committee pledging every member to support all the decisions of the committee. This was intended to smoke out the Majority Socialist representatives on the committee.

Vorwärts, the Socialist organ, reports that railway employes refuse to walk out, declaring the strike wholly the work of "irresponsible political wire-pullers" The railroad clerical and station forces in the Berlin district have announced that they are standing back of the present Government.

The governing board of the Society of Physicians and Surgeons has sharply condemned the strike in Germany on the ground that it is gravely jeopardizing public health through the stoppage of transportation and telephone service, as well as other public utilities. Sanitary crews engaged in checking the spread of the spotted and typhus fevers say they are unable to do their work because of the strike.

"The present unrest, terror, and crime are diseases of the social body which it is unable to resist because it has become weakened through privation and loss of blood," says the German Gazette. "The German people can recuperate only when they receive raw products that will permit them to work, and food in order that they may live.

"Our enemies are denying us both. Their attitude is the real cause of the present crisis and the prevalent criminal activity.

"In view of these events, they should realize that it is contrary to the international law of humanity to permit a fallen foe to lie helpless on the ground. They should not overlook the fact that the successive weakening of Germany also reduces its resisting powers against Bolshevism, and that it is a dangerous thing to be a neighbor to a house in which the plague is raging."

AMERICANS IN BERLIN INTRENCH BEHIND GUNS

Members of Missions Endangered by Shooting—Desperate Battle for Telegraph Office.

LONDON, March 7.—When Spartacide forces captured the main telegraph office in Berlin on Thursday the members of the American Red Cross mission were endangered by the shooting, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin. Colonel Taylor ordered the women with the mission to seek safety in the Palace Hotel.

The American mission to look after the welfare of prisoners intrenched itself in the Hotel Adlon behind a battery of machine guns.

NAMES TRUSTED GERMANS.

Berne Paper Says Allies Have Confidence in Only Four.

BERNE, March 7.—Only four men in Germany have the confidence of the allied powers, the Berne Zeitung says. The men, it states, are Professor Förster, Dr. Mühlon, Dr. Grelling, and Dr. Schlieben.

Dr. Wilhelm Mühlon is perhaps the best known of the four men mentioned by the Berne newspaper. He is a former Director of the Krupp Works. In April, 1918, Dr. Mühlon published an article in which he charged that the German Imperial Government purposely started the war. He has reiterated his charge a number of times since.

Professor Förster of the University of Munich during the war was temporarily driven from his seat for criticism of the German Government. He was a member of the Provisional Government formed by the Bavarian Liberals in Munich on Feb. 24.

Dr. Richard Grelling is the author of "J'Accuse," the anonymous indictment of the German Government that created a sensation early in the war. Dr. Frits Schlieben is a former member of the Reichstag. Both men were leaders of liberal thought in Germany.

CABINET RELIES ON NOSKE.

Has Enough Troops in Berlin—Refusal to Let Scheidemann Quit.

WEIMAR, March 6, (Associated Press.)—Leaders of the German Government here announced today that the situation in Berlin gave them no cause for worry. They said that Minister of Defense Noske had sufficient troops to maintain order.

LONDON, March 7.—In the negotiations at Weimar with delegations of the Berlin workmen, the Majority Socialists demanded that work be resumed immediately, according to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen. The Independent Socialists were divided in their attitude.

The workmen said that they would waive their demand for the punishment of the former Emperor, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, and General Ludendorff.

Chancellor Scheidemann has handed his resignation to President Ebert in order to enable the President to have a free hand in dealing with the present situation, according to the Zeitung am Mittag of Berlin. Ebert declined to accept the resignation and requested Scheidemann and the Cabinet to remain in office.

FLEEING TO AMERICAN ZONE.

Rush of Germans from the Disturbed Area Is Stopped.

COBLENZ, March 6, (Associated Press.)—The disturbances in Berlin and other parts of unoccupied Germany have resulted in such an increase in the number of civilians eager to reach the bridgehead area, where conditions are more nearly normal, that the American forces of occupation have been compelled to take steps to prevent Germans from all parts of the country from overrunning the occupied zone along the Rhine.

Within the last few days, since the strike began in Berlin, the number of applicants desiring to reach Coblenz or other parts of the American district has more than doubled. To prevent civilians from coming in merely to take advantage of the food situation and to get away from the centres of disturbance, the American authorities have had to tighten permit privileges. Only those desiring to travel on urgent business or who are returning to their homes will be allowed to pass within the American area.

ITALY'S STAND EXPLAINED.

Statement Issued on Delay in Czechoslovak Supplies.

The Italian Bureau of Information issued a statement yesterday giving Italy's version of the Laibach incidents, which resulted in the charge that Italy was hampering the work of distributing food supplies to the Czechoslovaks and which were ordered investigated by an inter-allied military commission of the Peace Conference.

According to the statement, the first trouble arose about the middle of February when civilians and soldiers of the Serbian Army stopped a trainload of Italian refugees, en route to Italy, and tore Italian flags from the train. The officer in charge, it was asserted, made a formal protest to the Serbian officer in charge but no action was taken to punish the offenders.

Shortly thereafter, the statement continued, Italian officers attached to the interallied commission in charge of the distribution at Laibach of food supplies concentrated there by the United States for the relief of war sufferers were "requested to leave" by the local Slovene Government. This, it was declared, was "but another way of saying that they were expelled."

Thereupon, the statement said, Italy closed her frontier as, by the action of the local Slovene Government, she "was unable to act with the other members of the allied commission in administering her part of the common trust of food relief," and "could not assume responsibility for supervising the food sent from Italy."

Italy, it was declared, had continued to send food to the Czechoslovaks, "although action by the Serbian military commander at Laibach compels Italy to send this food by another and longer indirect route."

Amherst Students Support Wilson.

AMHERST, Mass., March 7.—A message expressing approval by the Amherst College student body of the League of Nations plan presented to the Paris Peace Conference was sent to President Wilson by wireless today. Indorsement of the League was agreed upon by the students by a vote of 300 to 6.

not intend to be coerced by the action of the rioters. It is stated that twenty or thirty of the ringleaders, most of foreign extraction, have been arrested by the Canadian authorities, co-operating with the civilian police. It is understood that these men will be brought to London and lodged in the Bow Street Station.

Canadian Military Headquarters in London today issued a statement with reference to the riot. It says the disturbance was entirely due to the delay in getting the men back to Canada, it having been impossible to keep the promises given owing to the shortage of vessels to convey them home.

The authorities, however, the statement adds, do not regard the rioting as justified, and the offenders, many of whom already are under arrest, will be vigorously dealt with.

A number of civilians took part in the disturbance, and twelve of these also have been arrested and handed over to the civil authorities.

In the course of the trouble three rioters and two sentries were killed and twenty-one persons were injured, including two officers, according to the statement.

In the House of Commons this afternoon William Tyson Wilson, M. P. for Lancashire, asked Lord Edmund Talbot, representing the Government, for a statement regarding the outbreak. Lord Edmund replied that he had no further information.

A COURSE DINNER

"Dear heaven, I now know there are only about six permanently appealing dishes for a palate not diseased."

Then what matters it whether the menu contains six hundred dishes, or sixty, if you only care for six?

At CHILDS the range is limited to the "permanently appealing" dishes; and yet the variety is sufficient to permit of arranging them into delightfully attractive course dinners.

Take a savory soup, rich in flavor and steaming hot, an entree with vegetables fresh from the farm, and a dainty dessert with a cup of CHILDS coffee—and you have a real American course dinner.

FRANCE HAS DEFICIT OF $4,400,000,000

PROMPT MEASURES NEEDED

Suggests a Financial League of Nations to Float an International Loan.

PARIS, March 7.—Raoul Peret, Chairman of the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, in opening the discussion of the financial situation in the Chamber today placed the assets of France on the coming March 31 at 159,000,000,000 francs and her liabilities at 181,000,000,000 francs, leaving a deficit of 22,000,000,000 francs ($4,400,000,000.) He estimated that the after-the-war budget would be 18,000,000,000 francs and the revenue 13,000,000,000 francs.

The assets, mentioned by Deputy Peret, are the liquid resources raised to meet the nation's expenses up to March 31 and not the entire wealth of France.

M. Peret said that something must be done at once, and that an internal loan was impossible. What was wanted, he declared, was a financial League of Nations. He read a letter which he had written to Louis Klotz, Minister of Finance, on Feb. 6, which was along the lines of the interview he gave to The Associated Press on the same day, proposing the pooling of the indebtedness of all nations, as it was impossible for each nation to pay its debts separately.

The Deputy contended that an international loan, bearing the signature of all the Allies, must be issued immediately, and that from it the amount first taken should be for the reparation of the devastation in France, Belgium, and Serbia.

Georges Leygues, Minister of Marine, reiterated before the Naval Commission of the Senate yesterday his assertion that the interned German warships must not be destroyed, but distributed among the Allies. The Minister reviewed the naval situation and outlined to the committee his plans for naval reconstruction.

The debate adjourned until Tuesday afternoon, when it is expected that M. Klotz will reply to M. Peret.

The impression in political circles is that the following conclusions may be drawn:

First, that the Chamber is unanimously resolved to obtain the maximum reparation from Germany.

Second—That a tax on capital finds little support among the Deputies.

Third—That special fiscal efforts must be made to balance the budget.

Fourth—That there must be an interallied loan.

M. Peret's criticisms had a visible effect on the House. Politicians feel that his position is stronger than that of the Minister of Finance, and there is much speculation as to how M. Klotz will meet his arguments.

TELL ABOUT B. R. T. WRECK.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 7.—Wilbur Lewis, Supervisor of Motormen of the New York Consolidated Railways Company, was the first witness called by the State today in the trial of Thomas F. Blewitt, Superintendent of the Southern Division of the B. R. T., on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Malbone Tunnel wreck last November. He said he had not certified Edward Luciano, the motorman of the wrecked train. He described the work of dispatchers, towermen, and other employes.

The first descriptions of the wreck were given by James E. Monohan, a New York fireman and former conductor for the B. R. T., and Charles W. Darling, a Brooklyn lawyer.

"We went down the incline up to the second tunnel to the parkway (Eastern Parkway)," said Monohan. "The trains usually slow down under the tunnel at Eastern Parkway. Here the train I was on went twenty-five to thirty miles an hour. We went over both 'frogs' or cross-switches at thirty-five miles, past Consumers' Park, and gradually increased speed going down hill, and the train went into the tunnel (Malbone Street) at forty miles an hour. The train was rocking like a boat in rough water. There were several 'burcks' of the train as it jumped the track and hit the side wall."

The witness said he tried to reach the emergency brake as the train was entering the tunnel, but couldn't because the passengers were "all piled up in a heap."

Mr. Darling said he had never seen a train operated so "uniquely" as that operated by Luciano, and that the train swung around the curve into the Sands Street station as if "the body of the car was attached to the wheels on springs so that it could snap back."

Mr. Darling said that when the crash occurred in the Malbone Tunnel he was lying on the floor of the front car of the train, bracing himself between the motorman's box and the opposite seat. He had been prompted to throw himself down there when the train was 200 yards from the tunnel, he said, by a nervous apprehension that "something that did happen would occur," as the train was going at terrific speed.

The case will be continued on Monday.

Saloons Shut by Government.

Saloonkeepers in the Steinway section of Long Island City received orders yesterday from Government officials to close up their places and discontinue business not later than next Monday because they are within half a mile of the cantonment adjacent to the plant of the Astoria Light, Heat and Power Company at Casino Beach. In this cantonment are several hundred soldiers. According to the Government officials the dry zone is bounded by a line which runs east from the East River, just north of Woolsey Avenue, to Second Avenue; from Second Avenue it extends to Steinway Avenue at Potter and Steinway Avenues; from Steinway Avenue it extends to Theodore Street at Wolcott Avenue, and then continues to Berrian's Island. Twelve saloons are affected by the order.

Setback for P. S. Board.

An order of the Public Service Commission, directing the New York Steam Company to file a schedule of new rates, effective June 1, 1917, was set aside yesterday by the Appellate Division. The opinion, written by Justice Merrell, says: "The commission is a body of limited powers and can only do that which the statute specifically prescribes. It has no equity jurisdiction. Its duties are purely administrative, it has no judicial functions to discharge. It has power to regulate the service rendered by the relator, and within the statute may govern prices to be charged for service rendered."

Redfield to Tour for League.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Secretary of Commerce Redfield will urge support of the League of Nations on a speaking tour through the Middle West. He announced today that he would speak at Akron, Ohio, March 17, Chicago March 18, Minneapolis March 19, St. Paul March 20, Superior and Duluth March 21.

Brown Succeeds Davis at Vienna.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 6.—Captain Davis, Secretary of the American mission to Vienna, will leave the city for America tomorrow. He is succeeded by Professor Brown of Princeton University, who arrived today.

CUBAN STRIKE STILL ON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, March 7.—The general strike continued to paralyze all industry today, with no prospect of settlement tonight. President Menocal met the labor leaders today and recommended that the strikers return to their jobs, leaving to him the settlement of their difficulties, but while many strikers favored this course, it was decided to continue striking until a decision is reached regarding the masons, who have been out the last two months.

The Government is attempting to relieve the congestion on the wharves by the employment of convicts as stevedores.

No disorders of any consequence are reported. Some incendiary literature has been seized, which the labor element repudiates, declaring the literature was prepared by their enemies, not by their friends.

UPHOLD RAILWAY WORKERS.

War Board Finds Men Have Right to Organize.

The National War Labor Board decided in favor of the men in questions brought before them involving the workers and the Union Railway and the Third Avenue Railway Companies. The recommendations were made public yesterday after a meeting of the board in the McAlpin Hotel.

"We recommend that the Union Railway Company give full and free permission to its employes to organize into labor unions, in conformity with the announced principles of this board and of the proclamation of the President, under which the board was created."

The complaint of the employes of the Third Avenue Railroad Companies was similar to that of the Union Company employes and the findings were identical.

BEER STRIKE GAINS SUPPORT

The suggested "No Beer, No Work" strike, a threatened strike of telegraphers and associated workers, and alleged police cruelties to garment workers occupied the attention of the Central Federated Union last night. Ernest Bohm, the Secretary, announced that in all 500,000 unionists had signified their intention of going on strike on July 1 if the sale of beer stops.

"As I predicted at our last meeting," said Mr. Bohm, "the number of workingmen in the 'No Beer, No Work' movement is increasing at a tremendous rate. Typographical Union No. 7 and the cigarmakers have just announced their intention to strike if beer is prohibited."

A resolution was adopted indorsing State Senator William Dodge's efforts to have the Anti-Saloon League investigated.

Another resolution, introduced by Percy Thomas, Deputy International President of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, demanded the resignation of Postmaster General Burleson because he "has delivered into the hands of the telephone and telegraph trust all cable lines reaching these shores, and developments under the wire directorship of Albert S. Burleson warrant the conclusion that his aim is to strangle not only labor but all competition in the telegraph and telephone fields."

Three young woman pickets of the Ladies' Garment Workers related stories of alleged police brutality which aroused Patrick Spelman, delegate of the Pavers and Rammermen's Union, who declared that it was outrageous. Another delegate referred to the futility of asking Mayor Hylan to curb "these atrocities," as Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the union, had repeatedly tried to enlist sympathy for his pickets at the City Hall.

FOKKER PLACED ON VIEW.

War Trophy Exhibited at Aero Show in Armory.

The exhibition of the Christmas airplane, known as the Bullet, at the Aeronautical Exposition in Madison Square Garden was the centre of interest last night, when it became known that its manufacturers had issued a challenge to all other exhibitors and owners of airplanes for a speed contest. The Bullet is different in construction from other airplanes, in that it has flexible wings, and no struts or wires. The challenge is for a race between New York and Washington.

A Fokker battleplane, brought down by an American aviator, was installed yesterday in the 69th Regiment Armory, which also houses the exposition. The trophy arrived early yesterday morning on an army transport. Those who attended the afternoon session of the exposition saw a demonstration of wireless telephony between stations on the earth, in the air, on water, and under water. Lieutenant C. C. Shangraw and Lieutenant R. B. Woolfield, operating the radio outfit at the exposition, were able to maintain wireless telephonic communication with a dirigible balloon, a land station at Rockaway, an unidentified ship in the harbor, and Submarine 249. By means of a sounding horn the spectators were able to listen to the conversations.

BOLIVIA SENDING AGENT.

Zamora Empowered to Negotiate with American Financiers.

PANAMA, March 7.—Julio Zamora, who was recently designated to act as financial agent of Bolivia at Washington, will leave for New York tomorrow.

Señor Zamora said today that the action of Bolivia in declaring war against Germany so discredited German financial control which formerly existed there, that the opening for American bankers was now excellent. The need of their assistance, he also said, was great.

Zamora has full power from the Bolivian Government to treat with the United States Government or American financiers, or both. He was formerly Minister of Foreign Affairs of Bolivia.

BATTLE IN BOHEMIAN TOWN.

127 Casualties When Czechs Fire on German Demonstrators.

VIENNA, March 6.—A popular manifestation on the part of Germans in the town of Kaaden, northeast of Karlsbad, Bohemia, for the right of self-determination led to a conflict with Czech military forces yesterday.

Seventeen persons are reported to have been killed and 110 wounded. In another collision two civilians were shot.

A Vienna dispatch dated Wednesday reported that the Czechs were using troops in putting down German manifestations against the Czech Government. A number of persons were reported to have been killed at Karlsbad, Sternberg, and several other places in Bohemia.

To Remodel Stock Exchange Floor.

Plans for remodeling the lower floor of the New York Stock Exchange, the one below the trading floor, for the accommodation of the new Stock Clearing Corporation, have been completed, and probably will be filed with the Building Department this morning by Trowbridge & Livingston, architects. The plans will give a space for the clearing corporation of about 8,700 square feet. This will be increased later. The cost of the improvement will be about $50,000.

Bulgarians Return Girl Captives.

SALONIKI, March 7.—Following intervention by General Franchet D'Esperey, the French commander, the Bulgarians have turned over to the Greek military mission in Bulgaria several young Greek girls, natives of Eastern Macedonia and Thrace, who were carried away by Bulgarian officers or officials at the time of the invasion of these provinces.

ROBS BOY OF $65,800 IN WALL ST. DISTRICT

HIS SKULL FRACTURED

Securities valued at $65,800 were stolen from a financial district messenger yesterday afternoon after he had been beaten with a blackjack and left dazed and bleeding on the sixth floor of the office building at 61 Broadway. The thief got away, carrying the messenger's leather case containing Liberty bonds valued at $49,000, a certified check for $5,800, 100 shares each of New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio railways stock, and a $1,000 bond of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company. Most of the Liberty bonds were in denominations of $1,000, and some of them were registered, it was said.

Milton Strohm, the messenger, 17 years old, of 182 Stagg Street, Brooklyn, who is employed by Leo M. Prince, 20 Broad Street, owner of the stolen securities, was taken to the Broad Street Hospital to have a scalp wound treated. Afterward he gave the police a description of his assailant, who, he asserted, he had known by sight for several months.

"I went to the sixth floor," said Strohm, "and had made the first of my deliveries to Joseph Walker & Sons, from whom I received a certified check for $5,800, which I placed in the bag. While I was waiting for the elevator a man, about 22 years old, asked me for the address of a broker. When I had told him the address he said I was mistaken, and insisted that I go with him to the next floor and he would show me that the concern had moved to an office there. As we reached the stairs the man turned and felled me with a blow that stunned me. I got up and ran after the robber, down the stairs, to the fourth floor. I was too weak to keep on, and there was no one on the stairs to stop the man."

Strohm declared his belief that the holdup man had followed when he started on his errands, which included deliveries to the Guaranty Trust Company and to Toole, Henry & Co. at 120 Broadway.

Strohm's condition became more serious last night, and an X-ray picture of his injury disclosed that his skull had been fractured. Dr. Hammett, who is attending him at the hospital, said he probably would recover.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner Lahey, in charge of the Detective Bureau, said the robbery had not been committed by a professional thief but by a former messenger employed in the financial district.

"We have a good clue to the identity of the robber," said Commissioner Lahey. "The boy told us he knew his assailant by sight—had known him for four or five months, that is, had met him in the financial district."

Gustav Midnone, 20 years old, was arrested at his home, at 770 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, and was taken to Police Headquarters at midnight last night, charged with complicity in the robbery. Lieut. McKay of Deputy Commissioner Lahey's office, who made the arrest, said Midnone had confessed to participation in the robbery and implicated three others, one of whom would soon be arrested. McKay, with Detectives Mayer, Brown, and Hyams, took Midnone from bed and carried him away in an automobile. Midnone, the police say, told them that the robbery had been planned several days ago. According to the police, Midnone was employed as a clerk in an office at 61 Broadway, on the same floor where Strohm was attacked and robbed.

Isidore Horowitz, chief of the messengers at Leo M. Prince's office, told the police that Strohm had reported that he was followed on a previous occasion and had been suspicious of several persons who had accosted him while making deliveries. One of these persons, he is reported to have said, was a boy of 16 who had sought to gain his confidence. There have been a number of Liberty bond robberies recently in the financial district, but in most instances the thieves bribed messengers or got employment as messengers for the purpose of robbery.

A few minutes after the robbery of Strohm a list of the stolen securities had been sent throughout the financial district, and there is little probability that the thief will be able to dispose of them.

FILES SUIT FOR COUNTESS.

A suit in behalf of the Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the former German Ambassador to the United States, for $100,000 damages and an injunction because of the use of her picture in a photoplay, and the caption describing the picture, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday and will be heard by Supreme Court Justice Erlanger on Monday.

The plaintiff, Pauline Lewis, who says she sues as the personal friend of the Countess, names as defendants the C. R. Macauley Photo Play Company and the officers of the corporation. The petition alleges that the defendants have produced and intend to exhibit the picture, "Whom the Gods Destroy," and that one of the scenes shows the former Ambassador and the Countess at a banquet and bears the caption, "Bernstorff and his American wife, who were engaged in murder and other crimes in the United States." The plaintiff says that the Countess is the daughter of Edward Luckmeyer, an American importer, and that because of her marriage she has lost her citizenship here and is unable to invoke the aid of the courts in her own behalf, but it is alleged that she still retains her loyalty to the United States, where she was born in 1867.

Wants Sons' Allowance Increased.

On the petition of Mrs. Robert A. Scott, widow of the President of the Scott-Foster Ice Company, that her two sons, aged 14 and 18 years, who are preparing for Yale, cannot get along on $4,000 a year each and should have $7,500 each, David L. Weil, appointed referee in the case, filed his report in the Surrogates' Court yesterday, recommending $6,000. Mrs. Scott gets $10,000 a year from the estate of more than $1,000,000 for herself, but said she found that $18,000 for herself and two sons did not cover the family expenses for the last year. Under the will the two boys get half the estate on their mother's death and the other half when they reach their majority.

Steel Men to Confer at Capital.

A committee of steel men headed by Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, will confer in Washington on Wednesday with the recently created Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce on the Redfield plan for a stabilization of business conditions. The committee was appointed at a meeting of manufacturers held at the Waldorf on Thursday.

Spiritualism

The widespread interest in Spiritualism—the result, as some psychic observers contend, of the war, is producing books so far out of the ordinary that they are really gospels of a new dispensation. At all events that is what Sir Cônan Doyle would say of them. Some of the most remarkable of these volumes are in the following list:

WILL CONSCRIPT ARMY OF OCCUPATION

BILL PROVIDES 900,000 MEN

LONDON, March 6.—Captain F. E. Guest introduced a bill in the House of Commons today which proposes compulsory service for the British Army of Occupation. This army, according to the bill, would be composed of 900,000 men and the enlistment period would expire on April 30, 1920. Alexander Shaw, Laborite, moved the rejection of the measure because the Labor Party is opposed to a continuance of conscription.

Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill, defending the bill, argued that the Government, in providing for an army to insure peace, was "pursuing a path toward universal voluntary service."

"Our delegates to the Peace Conference are fighting for the complete abolition of conscription in Europe," he said. "A formal demand has been made that Germany be permitted to have only a small voluntary army on a long-service basis, but it is uncertain whether this point will be carried. Our representatives stand almost alone in this matter and it is not at all impossible that Japan, France, and Italy, and even the United States, will be nations into whose military systems some element of compulsory service may enter.

"There is not the slightest truth in the suggestion that this bill be designed to raise troops to be sent into Russia," he continued. "If there was no such place as Russia, I would still be advocating this bill. No one would be so foolish as to suggest intervention in Russia with conscript troops. Our army along the Rhine and on the approaches leading up that river numbers about 430,000 men, which is no larger than the United States army there and much smaller than the forces France is maintaining in the occupied area."

Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, maintained that the bill involved no departure from election pledges and evoked loud cheers by asking: "Is it really suggested that, after fighting side by side with France for four and a half years, we are now going to leave it to France alone?"

He pointed out that whatever Great Britain might do France would have to keep men on guard against the Germans.

"I do not think," added the Government leader, "that you in this House sufficiently realize the French point of view in regard to this question. We see that the old danger of invasion has been taken away, but what does France see? She sees lying for the moment sprawling on the ground the savage beast which has been tearing her entrails for four years, and do you think that is a danger she can face with equanimity until the power of that beast for evil has been destroyed?"

"If the effect of this bill was in any sense watever to mean that conscription was to be our system in the future, I would thoroughly sympathize with all opposition directed against it. It is my belief that it is far from that, because the securing of the fruits of the victory which has been bought so dearly will be the best safeguard against conscription. There has been no departure from the pledges of the Government relative to the future military organization of the country after the present emergency has passed.

He concluded by declaring that Premier Clemenceau had said: "If we do not take care, when the British and American armies have disappeared, we shall be faced again by the same danger."

The bill passed second reading by a vote of 304 to 71.

HYLAN DEFENDS VACATION.

Mayor Hylan, back from his vacation at Palm Beach, presided at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate, and defended his taking a vacation in the Winter.

"I have just returned from a little vacation with my family," said the Mayor. "I always take my vacation during the Winter months. I have been in the City Hall every day before 9 o'clock, and have remained there until 7 on many days, so I guess I am entitled to a vacation. During my absence I left a very capable man in my place."

One item on the calendar was a request from the West End Association for $15,000 to be used in a fight to do away with obnoxious odors and acid fumes wafted across the Hudson River from New Jersey. W. H. Page and Dr. William J. O'Sullivan said the need of more money was imperative in order to employ experts to combat the experts of the manufacturers. The Mayor wanted to know the attitude of the State Health Commissioner on the matter.

"It is antagonistic," said Dr. O'Sullivan.

"How about my Health Commissioner?" asked the Mayor.

"Dr. Copeland is with us," was the reply, "but some of his assistants are working for the people across the river."

"Give me their names," said the Mayor.

"Mr. Atkinson, chief chemist, is one," replied O'Sullivan. The Mayor suggested that Dr. O'Sullivan take up the matter with Dr. Copeland.

"At your direction I will," said O'Sullivan.

"Well, I direct you to do it," said the Mayor. "If he is drawing pay from the taxpayers of New York and helping those who are doing things against their interest it ought to be looked into. If you know of any more give their names to Dr. Copeland, too, and we will give the reformers another chance to put up a 'holler.'"

ACQUITS MISS RANGER.

Jury Also Clears Other Defendants in Will Case.

A jury in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court before Justice Vernon M. Davis last night returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Miss Edith F. Ranger, Carroll W. Myer, and Richard H. G. Cunningham.

The three were charged with conspiracy to obstruct and subvert justice in conection with the probate of the will of Henry Ward Ranger in the Surrogate's Court. The jury was out eight hours.

Appeal for Belgian Towns.

BRUSSELS, March 7.—Deputy Minaudy of the Belgian Chamber has sent a petition to Brand Whitlock, the American Minister, for transmission to President Wilson, appealing to American generosity for the towns of Herve and Battice, in the Liege region, which localities furnished the first victims of the German atrocities of 1914. These two towns are declared to have been the greatest sufferers in Belgium.

MOORE WON'T TAKE FLOOR LEADERSHIP

Republicans Will Try to Force Mann to Retain Place.

MONDELL ALSO INELIGIBLE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania today formally announced that he would not be a candidate for Republican floor leader and that he would exert his efforts to effect harmony in the party now engaged in slating standing committees of the House. Mr. Moore has maintained a commanding position in the race along with Representative Mondell of Wyoming. Both men today accepted places on important committees, which precludes them under precedent from being selected as floor leader.

Indications are that when the Committee on Committees has ended its work and it is found that the Gillett supporters have received full recognition there will be a formidable move to force Representative James R. Mann to continue as floor leader. Mr. Moore will make the motion that Mr. Mann shall at least consent to direct Republican affairs on the floor temporarily. The Old Guard is in absolute control of House affairs, and can easily elect Mr. Mann floor leader. Up to the present time Mr. Mann has publicly and privately said that he would not undertake the arduous duties that will fall upon the floor leader in the next Congress, when he will be pitted against the skill and parliamentary resourcefulness of Representatives Kitchin and Clark. It is probable that Mr. Mann will refuse the honor and insist that Mr. Moore shall assume floor leadership.

In his statement declining to be a candidate Mr. Moore said:

"Mention of my name for the Republican floor leadership is very gratifying, and at this time it is reasonably certain that the votes are available to make the nomination, but for several reasons I have decided not to be a candidate.

"First—To assume the floor leadership would necessitate my retirement from the Ways and Means Committee, on which I now rank next to the Chairman. If I should retire from this committee, Pennsylvania would be without representation thereon.

"Second—Because it may help to relieve the leadership situation in both houses, as it relates, fairly or unfairly, to Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

"Third—Because the unity of Republicans is essential to our success in dealing with the great problems that confront the new Congress. And unity can best be secured by a reasonable reserve of personal ambition."

The Committee on Committees tonight completed the slate of the important House committees and selected the Republican members for submission to the House for approval, upon its reorganization. Seniority was followed without deviation in naming the chairmanships and all the old members who had ranking position in the Democratic House were made Chairmen. In naming the new members the Gillett forces received full recognition, and, so far as can be observed, men were selected almost entirely with regard to their fitness, rather than their political affiliations in the Speakership contest. This move is followed by the Mann forces to strengthen the position of that faction and produce harmony in the next House. By giving the Gillett forces proper recognition the Old Guard argues that it will be impossible for the threatened insurgent movement to upset the work of the Committee on Committees.

Appropriations—Old members: James W. Good, Chairman, Iowa; Frank W. Mondell, Wyoming; Charles R. Davis, Minnesota; William S. Vare, Pennsylvania; Joseph G. Cannon, Illinois; C. Bascom Slemp, Virginia. New members—William R. Wood, Indiana; Louis C. Crampton, Michigan; Burton L. French, Idaho; Walter W. Magee, New York; M. F. Shreve, Pennsylvania; George H. Tinkham, Mass.; Charles F. Ogden, Kentucky.

Ways and Means—Old members: Joseph W. Fordney, Chairman, Michigan; J. Hampton Moore, Pennsylvania; William R. Green, Iowa; Nicholas Longworth, Ohio; Willis C. Hawley, Oregon; Allen T. Treadway, Massachusetts. New members—Isaac Bacharach, New Jersey; George M. Bowers, West Virginia; Ira C. Copley, Illinois; James A. Frear, Wisconsin; L. H. Hadley, Washington; Luther W. Mott, New York; John Q. Tilson, Connecticut; Charles B. Timberlake, Colorado; George M. Young, North Dakota.

Interstate Commerce—Old members: John J. Esch, Chairman, Wisconsin; Edward L. Hamilton, Michigan; Samuel E. Winslow, Massachusetts; James S. Parker, New York; Burton E. Sweet, Iowa; Walter R. Stiness, Rhode Island; James G. Cooper, Ohio. New Members: Edward E. Denison, Illinois; Franklin F. Elsworth, Minnesota; Henry W. Watson, Pennsylvania; J. S. Webster, Washington; Everett Sanders, Indiana.

Military Affairs—Old members: Julius Kahn, Chairman, California; Daniel R. Anthony, Jr., Kansas; John C. McKenzie, Illinois; Frank L. Greene, Vermont; John M. Morin, Pennsylvania; Thomas S. Crago, Pennsylvania; Harry E. Hull, Iowa; Rollin B. Sanford, New York; J. K. Kalanianaole, Hawaii. New members: F. H. La Guardia, New York; John F. Miller, Washington; Charles C. Kearns, Ohio; W. Frank James, Michigan; A. T. Fuller, Massachusetts.

Judiciary—Old members: A. J. Volstead, Chairman, Minnesota; A. P. Nelson, Wisconsin; Dick T. Morgan, Oklahoma; George S. Graham, Pennsylvania; Walter M. Chandler, New York; L. C. Dyer, Missouri; Joseph Walsh, Massachusetts; C. Frank Reavis, Nebraska. New members: W. D. Boles, Iowa; C. Christopherson, South Dakota; David G. Glasson, Wisconsin; Gilbert A. Currie, Michigan; Wells Goodykountz, West Virginia; Richard Yates, Illinois; James W. Husted, New York.

Rivers and Harbors—Old members: J. Charles A. Kennedy, Chairman, Iowa; Peter E. Costello, Pennsylvania; S. Wallace Dempsey, New York; H. I. Emerson, Ohio; H. H. Osborne, California; R. P. Freeman, Connecticut. New members: I. M. Foster, Ohio; A. J. Hickey, Indiana; Niels Juul, Illinois; Caleb R. Layton, Delaware; E. C. Michener, Michigan; Amos H. Radcliffe, New Jersey; Nathan L. Strong, Pennsylvania.

The committee will continue its session tomorrow and probably complete the slate for other important committees.

Deny Opposition to Shonts.

A report circulated yesterday that Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was to be "removed by Interborough bankers" to make room for a man more acceptable to Mayor Hylan, was said by bankers interested in the Interborough to be without foundation. The report was that a member of J. P. Morgan & Co. had been looking for a successor to Mr. Shonts. At the offices of the Morgan firm this was denied.

QUEEN OF RUMANIA TALKS OF HER HOME

HER PEOPLE'S FAITH IN FOCH

PARIS, March 7.—Premier Clemenceau this afternoon received privately at the War Ministry Queen Marie of Rumania. The Queen, who was accompanied by M. Antonescu and a Lady of Honor, was received with full military honors in the courtyard of the Ministry. The Premier and the Queen conversed together for half an hour.

On leaving the War Ministry she met Marshal Foch, with whom she had a short conversation. She told him that during the occupation of Rumania by the enemy the thoughts of the Rumanian people were all centred in him. The Rumanians were sure he would deliver them. But had no idea that their deliverance was so near.

Queen Marie, whose beauty enhances the charm of her forceful personality, received callers today in a room filled with gifts of flowers from representatives of the Entente nations. In a talk with the newspapermen she assured them that in spite of the plight of her country and the sufferings of the people in the war, there was no danger of Bolshevism there if supplies of food could be secured. Speaking of conditions in Rumania during the war, the Queen said:

"We suffered even worse than did Belgium. She had England and France by her side, and behind them stood America, while we had only Russia to depend upon. When the Russians came to assist us, all they did was to eat our food. They were never of any real aid. German plotters saw to that, and when Russia broke we were absolutely isolated.

"I have no fear of Bolshevism in Rumania if food is provided immediately. We are used to being shabby, and can go without clothes and shoes, but must have food. It is very difficult to distribute food in my country because of the wholesale destruction of railways and the theft of locomotives, cars, and horses. We have no iron to rebuild ruined bridges, but are using wood to repair these structures. The imperative need is locomotives. Our oil fields are producing oil for engines and for export, but we have no means of moving it.

"Hunger produces revolutions and Bolshevism. The Bolsheviki are cowards. They will not stand before an organized force. We do not fear them, and they have failed in their efforts to ruin Rumania. I have gone about in perfect safety in my war work."

Queen Marie expressed deep appreciation of the work done by the American Red Cross. Thousands of Americans tried to assist Rumania by sending supplies to that country by way of Russia, but the Queen said that most of this relief never reached its intended destination. She will confer with Herbert C. Hoover, Chairman of the Supreme Food Council, and is confident that the Council will aid Rumania.

"That cross was given to me by the French Government," she remarked, "because officials said I was a good soldier. I prize it more highly than any decoration I have."

FINDS IDLENESS WANING.

Woods Says Majority of Discharged Soldiers Are Getting Jobs.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Material improvement in the unemployment situation over the country is indicated by labor reports received by Arthur Woods, special assistant to Secretary Baker. Mr. Woods expressed the belief today that this improvement would continue.

Mr. Woods does not view the problems as a serious one. A majority of the discharged soldiers are finding places for themselves, he said, and a large proportion of those out of work have made small effort to obtain jobs. The improvement wrought in each individual by his military experience made it unfair to ask these men to take their old jobs, he declared, but the Government was proceeding on the theory that it would be better when practicable for each soldier to take his old place while awaiting a better opportunity. In the meantime, Government employment agencies will place such men on preferred lists and later transfer them to better positions.

In finding jobs for soldiers, every effort would be made to prevent the discharge of workmen now employed. No discrimination would be made against women, but cognizance would be taken of special cases where women did not need the employment.

STRIKERS' MEETINGS TABOO

Lawrence Textile Workers Say They Will Defy Police Order.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 7.—Textile strikers will not be permitted hereafter to assemble on either public or private grounds, according to an announcement today by Commissioner Peter Carr, head of the police department. The commissioner said this had been determined on because of disorderly acts following meetings held recently on private land. In reply, A. J. Muste, one of the strike leaders, asserted that there would be no change in the plan to hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The Strike Committee today issued a statement in regard to the recent declaration of a special dividend of $10 per share in Liberty bonds, by the American Woolen Company, saying:

"We appeal to all fair-minded men to judge whether the mill owners are sincere in declaring themselves unable to give the workers an eight-hour day without reduction in pay."

TAXICAB STRIKE GOES ON.

Chauffeurs Reject Suggestion of Arbitration.

W. Bundy Cole, President of the Black and White and Town Taxicab Companies, said yesterday that his plan for arbitration in the strike had been rejected by the chauffeurs, who, he said, were still controlled by the Black and White Chauffeurs' Association committee, which the company has refused to recognize.

"I cannot say when the estrike will end," said Mr. Cole. "I have appealed to the men to submit their grievances through two committees of ten men each from the two divisions of the company—men they could depend upon to represent them properly. This suggestion has been rejected."

Madrid Strike Due Next Week.

MADRID, March 7.—The Federation of Workmen here voted last night to go on strike on March 10. The strike movement outside Madrid has spread from Catalonia to Salamanca.

Vermonters to Honor Greeley.

PORT STRIKE ENDS ON RAILROAD CRAFT

The mediation was accomplished largely by James L. Hughes of the Department of Labor, who started his work as arbitrator for the Government by frankly putting aside completely the results of the earlier Government investigation and settlement, and by starting out with the declared purpose of satisfying the strikers.

The Strike Committee, which received many concessions from the Railroad Administration on Thursday, refused yesterday to accept these proposals and came back yesterday afternoon to the offices of the Federal Administrator of the Erie Railroad at 50 Church Street with a new set of terms, revised upwards as to wages and downwards as to hours.

These claims were fought over and compromised throughout the afternoon, members of different unions leaving the conference from time to time to discuss new proposals with members of their organizations. It was not until 6 o'clock that the proposals were put into such shape as to convince the majority of the Strike Committee that they would be acceptable to the unions.

The local representatives of the Government have been in close touch with Washington during the progress of the negotiations. The tendency of the local railroad officials was originally to stand by the Macy award, as being the result of an arbitration invoked by the harbor workers themselves and being a decision which both sides were pledged in advance to accept. Federal Administrator Stone refused to make concessions last week when the strike was threatened, asserting that the unions were bound to stick to the Macy award. At that time, negotiations were offered by the private boat owners, but refused by the Government. Since then the situation has gradually changed until yesterday, the Government making acceptable terms to the strikers on practically every point and the private boat owners declaring their intention to fight and charging the Government with stultifying itself by putting aside its own award and virtually yielding on everything.

Before going into the conference with the representatives of the Railroad Administration yesterday the leaders of the seven unions called on Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Director of Debarkation and Embarkation of the United States Army at 45 Broadway. The union leaders urged that the army should agree to accept whatever terms were finally reached with the railroads. General Hines said he did not have the independent power to conclude such a bargain, but that he would put the matter before the Secretary of War. General Hines left for Washington yesterday.

The Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines' Protective Association sent out a resolution yesterday, which it had adopted at the Labor Temple on Wednesday, declaring sympathy with the strikers and declaring that no member of the association would accept employment in any way interfering with the strike. The private boat owners, who have employed many discharged soldiers and sailors, have denied that they are using any as strikebreakers, insisting that they are employed only as watchmen in protecting property.

SAYS ANSELL WAS DEMOTED FOR SPITE

KREGER WAS OUTRANKED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Representative Royal Johnson of South Dakota, who has just received a Distinguished Service Medal for military service in Europe, has written a sharp letter to Secretary of War Baker in which he declares that Brig. Gen. Ansell was demoted as Assistant Judge Advocate General for his activity in exposing court martial cases before a Congress committee. Secretary Baker has stated that the demotion had nothing to do with testimony given by General Ansell.

Representative Johnson's letter reads:

"The question in which the public is and ought to be interested is whether General Ansell has been demoted because of his stand upon the administration of military justice. This you deny. The evidence seems flatly to contradict you, unless this turns out to be one of those rare instances where what appears as compelling evidence turns out upon explanation to be a rare coincidence.

"I regard it as due to yourself, to me, as a member of Congress, and to the public at large, that you respond to the following questions:

"1—Why did you send to France for a needed Brigadier General, when one was already in the service?

"2—Had not General Ansell been demoted, would General Kreger, upon his arrival at the office, have been the senior officer of the Judge Advocate General's Corps?

"3—Was not General Ansell senior to General Kreger as a Brigadier General by seven months?

"4—Was not General Ansell in charge of the office throughout the greater part of the war, and was not his service in that capacity such as to cause you to award him the Distinguished Service Medal just previous to his testimony before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs?

"(E) Have you not recently authorized an increase, by new appointments, to the office of the Judge Advocate General?

"(F) Is not General Ansell the first general officer in the Judge Advocate General's Department to be demoted?

"(G) Was not General Kreger especially appointed a Brigadier General for an office in France which you abolished the day you ordered him home? In any event, upon the abolishment of his office, was not he the logical officer to be demoted?

"(H) You say that 'General Ansell will continue to be Chairman of the Clemency Board.' Now that he is demoted, is he the senior officer of the board?

"In the face of the fact that General Ansell was the senior to General Kreger in his own corps and his senior in the grade of Brigadier General by the larger part of the entire list, and of the fact that General Ansell had served with and for the most part as the chief of the office throughout the war and the other not at all; and of the fact that he would by virtue of his seniority have succeeded to the headship of the office in the absence of General Crowder notwithstanding the presence of General Kreger in the office; of the further fact that General Ansell's views are opposed by the Judge Advocate General and by yourself, and that just before he gave his testimony you had awarded him a medal for most distinguished service as acting head of the office, but shortly after he had testified, indeed, the day after Congress adjourned, you ordered him demoted and superceded—in the face of the facts—please state how it can be said that this demotion had 'no connection with the dispute about military justice.'"

BOY IN WILD AUTO RIDE.

Policeman Chasing Touring Car Finds Driver Is a Youngster.

A large touring car, without lights, raced past Motor Cycle Policeman Henry G. Ford at Tenth Avenue, near Forty-seventh Street, about 10 o'clock last night. He put out after the car and soon overtook it. As he got alongside he hailed the driver.

The car suddenly shot ahead. Ford speeded up and was right behind it when it turned east into Fifty-first Street, and a few seconds later had turned again and was going down Broadway. After a long chase the car struck a fire hydrant and came to a stop with engine smashed in Fifty-fourth Street. Ford dismounted. In the car the chauffeur was crouched on the floor. With revolver in hand Ford ordered the occupant to "come out." There was no move. Ford reached in, and, to his surprise and disgust, he yanked out by the collar a diminutive boy.

At the West Forty-seventh Street police station the boy said he was Rogers Landogano of 241 West Thirtieth Street. He admitted to fifteen years. He was well dressed and self-possessed to a certain degree, though he looked somewhat frightened when surrounded by policemen. He had taken the car from Forty-fourth Street, near Eighth Avenue. Asked why he had done it, his answer was that "a man told me to take it." In the Children's Court today Ladogano will be charged with juvenile delinquency.

WANTS GERMANS OUSTED.

Pro-Ally League in Brazil Asks Cancellation of Concessions.

RIO JANEIRO, March 7.—The Brazilian Pro-Ally League has sent a petition to the President asking that steps be taken to cancel German concessions in Southern Brazil, especially the Hansa colonization concession.

The petition requests the enactment of measures to prevent German firms from operating under Brazilian or allied names, and asks the National Government to negotiate with the States of Santa Catalina and Rio Grande do Sul for the definite elimination of German political and commercial influences.

Ex-Emperor Charles's Son Ill.

BASLE, March 6.—Colonel J. O. Summerhayes, a British military representative in Austria, has left Vienna for Switzerland with a son of former Emperor Charles, who is ill, according to dispatches received here. It is said that the former Emperor is expected to take up his residence soon at Persenberg Castle, on the Danube, his birthplace.

Will Drill with Submarine Hunters Now Instead of Launches.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 6.—Use has been found for twenty-four of the great fleet of submarine chasers constructed during the war. Twenty-four of them are being brought here, seventeen having actually arrived, and these fine vessels, 110 feet long, will take the place of the small launches which have had to be used in the simulated fleet movements which form part of the practical work of the midshipmen undergoing instruction at the Naval Academy. These drills, which will begin under new conditions within a short time, will form one of the most attractive features of the June week exercises.

The drill is conducted by having the small vessels take the places of battleships and cruisers and other ships of the fleet, the evolutions being upon signal from the launch used as the flagship. The launches were slow, carried only a small crew and were unsatisfactory in other ways. The use of the submarine chasers will make it possible for a large number of midshipmen to participate at once in the exercises.

The chasers contain large quarters, mount guns of fair size, besides smaller rapid-fire guns and automatics, and are constructed in many ways on the order of the big ships, giving the midshipmen a better understanding of conditions they will afterward meet. The ships are handled from the bridge and the signal devices are the same as those used on the big ships. No little skill in navigation and seamanship must be used in conducting the evolutions and keeping the vessels off the bars in the vicinity of Annapolis harbor.

PEACE FESTIVAL STIRS BIG THRONG

AUDIENCE JOINS SINGERS

In 'America' and New 'Peace Hymn of the Republic'—Give Liszt's 'Battle of the Huns' of 451.

"America" first, and a fine new "Peace Hymn of the Republic" later, both heartily joined in by Carnegie Hall's big audience while Mr. Damrosch conducted the Oratorio and Symphony Societies on the stage, marked last night's opening program of an early—an unconcluded—peace festival, to be supplemented by two performances next week of Beethoven's choral Ninth Symphony and part of his Solemn Mass. The memorial note was sounded last night when the muscular strings and plangent brass gave Handel's Dead March from "Saul," a famous classic example of funeral pomp in major key. It was "in memory of our fallen heroes," and, like the patriotic songs, it was performed to a house upstanding. Most timely this week was old Handel's "See, the Conquering Heroes Come."

"Thank you, Walter, three times over," shouted Dr. Henry van Dyke from his box after the singing of the "Peace Hymn," of which his copyrighted words were printed in the program. The text is simple, without wordy flourish, as befits a people's hymn; the music, aiming a little higher, risking a few sharps and flats, is the marching stayle of a church processional. The air ends low—not in triumph, but peace—its refrain, "America befriend," being emphasized musically by a difficult if not a false accent. But the tune was evidently singable, for all the people sang, and then applauded Mr. Damrosch's "martial adventures of Henry and Me."

A beautiful "Holy, Holy" from his "Manila Te Deum," given in this hall twenty years ago, ended last night's singing, the solo quartet enlisting Olive Kline, Emma Roberts, Lambert Murphy, and Arthur Middleton. In "Music of Conflict," before that of peace, the orchestra played Liszt's "Battle of the Huns," bearing date of June, year 451. It was no modern musical mustard gas; we were distinctly not "reminded of the Huns."

ERNST VON KOERBER DEAD.

Ex-Austrian Premier's Breakdown Followed His Dismissal.

VIENNA, March 6.—Ernst von Koerber, formerly Austria's ablest and foremost statesman, died today. The general opinion is that if Emperor Carl had not dismissed von Koerber from the Premiership the Austrian's breakdown would not have occurred.

9,383 FOREIGN MEDALS.

The Total Received by American Soldiers Up to Feb. 26.

PARIS, March 6.—Foreign medals to the number of 9,383 had been awarded to members of the American Expeditionary Force up to Feb. 26, according to a compilation made by The Stars and Stripes.

Of this number 8,006 were French War Crosses, 61 medals of the Legion of Honor, 124 of the Military Medal, and 98 of the Honneur des Epidemies. The British decorations totaled 518, including 154 military Crosses and 251 Military Medals. Belgium decorated 571 members of the Expeditionary Force and Italy 5.

China to Have Airplane Service.

PEKING, Feb. 25, (Associated Press.)—The Ministry of Communications has signed a contract with a Peking syndicate for several foreign-made airplanes to inaugurate a Chinese mercantile aerial service. The machines will be capable of making 100 miles an hour and of carrying twenty passengers or cargo of equivalent weight. The contract for the machines is an outright one, not involving any loan.

Reds Want Authors and Artists.

STOCKHOLM, March 7.—The Bolshevist Government of Russia is preparing a law decreeing that all professionals and artists must work for the Government, according to Petrograd advices. Even authors will be mobilized, it is said, and their works will be taken over as national property.

LIFE POSSIBLE ON VENUS.

Other Planets, Prof. Arrhenius Says, Are Quite Inhospitable.

From what we know of the surface conditions and climates of the various members of the solar system, Professor Svante Arrhenius concludes that Venus is the only planet besides the earth where life is possible. Venus has a dense, warm atmosphere of high humidity.

With everything dripping wet, life near the equator should be luxuriant, though of low order on account of the uniform climate and lack of need for specialization; but nearer the poles the climatic diversity is greater, suggesting a more varied development. Absence of any atmosphere, he thinks, makes life on Mercury and the moon impossible.

Mars, too, must be uninhabitable with a temperature averaging about 37 degrees Centigrade below zero, and scarcely rising to freezing point, even at noon on the equator, and its water supply is small.—Newark News.

MISSING MINISTER FOUND.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 7.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of the Rev. Arthur R. Teal, pastor of the Katonah Presbyterian Church here in 1902, was cleared up today when Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins at White Plains heard testimony in a suit for a separation brought by Mrs. Jane Babcock Teal against her husband, alleging abandonment. It developed that the clergyman, who was a Princeton graduate, had not been heard from until last year when he was located in a shipyard at Newburg, where he was working on a Government ship.

On the evening of June 7, 1902, the Rev. Mr. Teal left the parish house at Katonah, telling his wife that he was going out to call on some of his parishioners. He never returned. A short time later Mrs. Teal received a telegram which said: "Have gone West to preach the gospel."

The police and church societies took part in a search for the missing minister, as it was believed that his mind had become deranged or else had met with foul play. President McKinley directed a world-wide search for Mr. Teal, but he had covered up his tracks and no trace of him was found.

The couple were married at the Church of the Heavenly Rest in Manhattan in 1900, the plaintiff testified, and she said she never knew why her husband left her.

Justice Tompkins, after hearing the testimony, said it was a very unusual case, and announced that he would grant a decree of separation to Mrs. Teal.

GOETHALS ON RETIRED LIST.

Secretary Baker Thanks General as He Quits Active Service.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Major Gen. George R. Goethals, who has been Director of Purchase, Storage, and Traffic for the Army, today retired from active duty. In recognition of his services during the war Secretary Baker sent to General Goethals a letter thanking him for his work.

"As you retire from active duty today," wrote Secretary Baker, "I want to place in your hands and on your record an expression of my deep appreciation of the services you have rendered the country in the war emergency. The vast and intricate business of the supply departments of the Government, suddenly expanded from our peace time needs to meet the necessities of a great war, called for the highest talents and the deepest devotion. You brought both when you were recalled to the active service. The success of your work is manifest and I have no doubt that when the history of this great undertaking comes to be written your contribution to the success of the country in the war will be an outstanding feature."

27TH WILL PARADE FIFTH AV. MARCH 22

Gen. O'Ryan Sets the Date So That Every Man of the Division May Have a Place in Line.

CLEANING UP QUICKLY DONE

Leaves Granted to About Half the Men Who Arrived on Thursday —Thousands Visit Camps.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan and the staff of the 27th Division decided yesterday that the parade of the old New York National Guard regiments, just returned from France, would be held on Saturday, March 22. The parade will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and probably will proceed southward on Fifth Avenue from 110th Street to Washington Square.

Staff officers were not able to say how long it would take the division to pass a point. All artillery horses, trucks, machine guns, and other large equipment were left in France, so that the marching time will not be so long as when the division paraded down the avenue in August, 1917, on the way to the training camp at Spartanburg, S. C. In the line will be a five-ton German lorry taken by the division, with some other trophies.

The men will be mustered out at Camp Upton and will entrain for that camp the day after the parade. It is estimated that most of the men may be out of the army before April 1. Replacement troops, and officers, will be sent to camps near their homes to be discharged.

More than half of the 12,000 combatant troops who arrived on Thursday on the Leviathan and the Mauretania had been put through the sanitation processes at Camp Mills and Merritt before 6 o'clock last night and many received leave to come to the city.

It had been hoped that the last unit of the division would arrive in time to give the parade on March 18 or 20 so that they could be mustered out before the end of the month, but the insistence of General O'Ryan that the parade should not be held with a single squad missing was responsible for advancing the date to March 22.

This will allow two days for the 106th Machine Guns, coming on the battleship Missouri, to clean up for the march down the avenue. All of the remaining units of the 27th are now on the Atlantic, and most of them will arrive within a few days. The next unit will be the 3d Battalion of the 107th Infantry, with the Headquarters detachments and the regimental machine gun and supply companies. I is due on Sunday on the Rochambeau. Companies E and F, with the sanitary, supply, and Headquarters detachments of the 102d Engineers, probably will arrive on Wednesday on the Agamemnon.

All the other troops, except the last machine gun battalion on the St. Louis, probably will arrive on Thursday on three ships. The 52d Artillery Brigade, comprising the 104th, 105th, and 106th Regiments, are on the American. On the same day the Mount Vernon will dock with the 102d Supply Train, the 102d Sanitary Train, the 102d Ammunition Train, and the 27th Military Police. The 102d Signal Battalion and the 104th Machine Gun Battalion will come in on the Hollandia, leaving only the 106th Machine Gun Battalion to complete the division.

Officers on General O'Ryan's staff made it clear again yesterday that it was desired to have in line every officer and soldier who served with the division in France. Several up-State towns are preparing to send all their wounded and casuals here for the parade, and all casuals and wounded in this city who are able to walk are urged to report for the parade. Those not able to walk will be carried in automobiles.

General O'Ryan also desires that the families of those who died serving with the 27th shall have every opportunity to see the parade. All communications should be addressed to Major Tristram Tupper, Hall of Records.

Thousands yesterday disregarded the warning that they might not be able to see their soldier relatives at Camps Mills and Merritt, and the facilities for visitors were taxed all day long. Orders had been issued that the cleaning up of the New York soldiers should proceed speedily so that the men could visit their homes or receive guests at the camps.

It was after midnight on Thursday when the last man debarked from the Leviathan reached Camp Mills. Some who had reached the camp earlier had gone through the cleaning process and the baths were waiting for the last arrivals. The men were tired out, so that all ranks were ready for taps. Before 6 o'clock last evening the cleaning up of the 8,000 men at Camp Mills had proceeded so rapidly that the regimental commanders allowed about half of the men to go home on twenty-four hour passes. Men whose homes were in this city had the preference, but when they return all the others will have permission to visit their relatives.

So anxious were the soldiers and their relatives to communicate with one another that twenty trunk telephone lines running into the Camp Mills switchboard were kept busy all day, and lines of soldiers awaited turns at the telephones. The number of incoming calls was so large that twelve additional runners were kept busy all day summoning men to answer telephones or to receive relatives. More than 2,000 incoming telephone calls were answered, and about 6,000 persons visited the camp. All the hostess houses were crowded, and hundreds stood about Clinton Road waiting for soldiers.

Hundreds of those who visited the camps came from other cities to visit men in the replacements. Many of these men are from Eastern Pennsylvania and towns and villages up-State. Delegations visited their soldiers in the 108th Infantry at Camp Merritt and informed them of plans for welcome in home towns when the celebration here is finished. There will be no restrictions on visiting on Sunday, and record crowds are expected. About half the men will be absent on leave, but all in camp will be excused from military duty.

When the soldiers arrived at the camps on Thursday night they were surprised by the preparations to make comfortable their last few days in the army. Excellent meals were served by apologetic cooks, and the spirit of welcome to victorious troops prevailed everywhere. With their uniforms cleaned, an abundance of good food, and prospects for early leave, every officer and man was happy and contented.

One of the contingents that visited the 106th Infantry at Camp Mills yesterday was made up of twenty men who had been wounded in action with the regiment. They had been invalided home before the division arrived, and were anxious to meet their comrades. All had gold stripes on both sleeves, and several had more than one wound stripe. They needed no passes, but walked through the lines upon identifying themselves.

Among the visitors at Camp Merritt yesterday were Major Gen. David C. Shanks, commander of the Port of Embarkation at Hoboken, and Julius Kahn of the House Committee on Military Affairs. They inspected the camp under the guidance of Colonel L. S. Sorley, the commandant, and praised the facilities.

Although General O'Ryan may spend part of his time at Camp Mills, much of his work will be done at offices in this city. The division staff now has offices in the Hotel Biltmore, where the advance party was staying, but room will be provided on the sixth floor of the Hall of Records. General O'Ryan went to Governors Island yesterday to call upon Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Department of the East. He missed the regular boat, but a cutter was provided for him at the ferry slip by order of General Barry, who met him at the island pier. A Major General's salute was fired for him, and he witnessed also the conferring of the Distinguished Service Cross upon a regular army officer who won it by valor in France.

TO END STREAM POLLUTION.

Merchants' Association Indorses State Conservation Plan.

The Merchants' Association announced yesterday that it had endorsed a plan of the State Conservation Commission for ending stream pollution in this State. The plan was discussed by Conservation Commissioner George D. Pratt with Edward Hatch, Jr., Chairman of the association's Committee on Pollution and Sewerage. It is outlined briefly in a letter received from Secretary Warwick S. Carpenter of the commission.

"It is necessary to obtain certain changes in the law, though we have ascertained as the result of Professor Ward's study that these are rather minor, and that with the proper sort of assistance from competent biologists and chemists a great deal can be accomplished under the law as it stands today," Mr. Carpenter wrote.

It is proposed to locate all industries that are at least potential polluters of water courses, to have every case of pollution investigated and to eliminate such pollution either by personal appeal to the offenders or by recourse to the law. The commission and the association have asked the Legislature for an appropriation of $10,000 for preliminary work.

ELECT AMERICAN PEERESS.

Londoners Return Duchess of Marlborough to County Council.

LONDON, March 7.—Complete returns from the elections to the London County Council yesterday give the Moderates 68 seats, the Progressives 40, Labor 15, and Independents 1.

The Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt of New York, was elected to the County Council from the North Division of Southwark by a large majority over her opponent, a Labor candidate. She stood for election as a Progressive.

The Duchess of Marlborough was elected a member of the London County Council on Oct. 15 last to fill a vacancy, yesterday's election being for a full three years' term. The Council looks after improvements and education in the County of London, and also has authority over the street car lines there. It has also other powers of a financial and local governmental character.

POSEN NEGOTIATIONS BEGIN.

Neutral Zone Between Poles and Germans to be Maintained.

PARIS, March 6.—A Havas dispatch from Posen, dated Wednesday, tells of the meeting of Allied and German Missions at the village of Kreutz, where negotiations for a new armistice between Germany and Poland were carried on.

The allied mission arrived at Kreutz at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, and the train bearing the German delegates, headed by Baron von Rechenberg, who was accompanied by Dr. Drews, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, and General Dommes, arrived at 12:20 o'clock. J. B. E. Noulens, former French Ambassador to Russia, and General Dupont introduced the delegates on the railway platform.

The courteous demeanor of the Germans was noted as being distinctly different from that shown at Brest-Litovsk last year, when they were so truculent toward Leon Trotzky, then Bolshevist Minister of War, and his friends. This time the Germans wore no uniforms.

The delegates entered a saloon car and seated themselves at a table, in full view from the station, where a few soldiers in threadbare uniforms were lounging about. After the German delegates had declared that their Government retained full authority over the German troops along the Polish front the armistice terms bearing on the Polish boundary were examined.

A line of demarkation will be fixed by a sub-committee, which will have power to maintain a neutral zone between German and Polish forces there.

The allied commission demanded formal guarantees for the landing of Polish troops at Danzig and their passage as far as the Polish frontier. The German delegates telegraphed the details of this demand to Berlin. The liberation of hostages and the protection of Germans in Posen and Poles in Germany on a reciprocal basis were then taken up.

The Germans said they were ready to continue the deliberations at Posen, and the allied delegates assented, undertaking to answer for the good behavior of the population during the period of negotiations.

British for Free Raw Materials.

LONDON, March 7.—It is not possible to remove all restrictions on imports from foreign countries into the United Kingdom, but raw materials will be free from restrictions, W. C. Bridgeman, Under Secretary for the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons today.

FARMERS ASK ATTENTION.

Elaborate Program for International Aid is Presented.

PARIS, March 7.—A memorandum asking the adoption by the Peace Conference of an extended program calculated to protect the interests of farmers in all countries was presented to the American delegation today by Charles S. Barrett, National President of the Farmers' Union of the United States. The memorandum also asks the inclusion in the League of Nations of a special body having directly in charge the interests of international agriculture.

Extension and improvement of the International Agricultural Institute of Rome is asked, and the suggestion is made that a uniform system of crop estimating be adopted. It is also urged that principles providing for international conservation of agriculture, universal free education of farm children, and the extension of the benefits of civilization to the open country be adopted.

The memorandum also demands that the farmers have the right to bargain collectively, that farm tenancy be abolished gradually, and that each nation have the right to withhold the export of supplies essential to agriculture. It is suggested that the regulation of trade be maintained on the basis of cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

VOTE FOR AUSTRIAN UNION.

Vienna Committee Unanimous for It —Move for Tyrol Unity.

BASLE, March 7.—The Constitution Committee of the Austrian National Assembly, according to a report from Vienna, has adopted a proposal submitted by the Government proclaiming German Austria a democratic republic and an integral part of the German republic. The motion, it is said, was carried unanimously.

Vienna newspapers announce that the Governor of South Tyrol has requested Chancellor Karl Renner of the German Austrian republic to permit measures to be taken which will tend to unite South German Tyrol with the rest of Tyrol. Chancellor Renner, it is announced, favors a union of South German Tyrol with German Bohemia as a part of the Austrian republic.

British Naval Estimates.

LONDON, March 6.—The British naval estimates, issued tonight, provide for a personnel of 280,000 and a total expenditure for the year of £149,200,000. This sum includes £68,000,000 for ship building, repairs, and maintenance.

Author of "Molly Make-Believe," etc.

The New York Sun says:—"It is so emotional that it intoxicated us slightly. . . . We thrill as she shakes up her words like ingredients in a cocktail mixer . . . and the most surprising things happen with engaging rapidity. And every little while some one says something so clever or funny that if it were in a book by Henry James it would be quoted in the best circles. Very seriously, any one who declines to examine Miss Abbott's tales, if only to find out the secret of her great popularity, is making a grave mistake."

Will the Senate Defeat the League of Nations?

So violent and sweeping is the criticism of President Wilson's League of Nations program that has flared up in the United States Senate that some editorial observers are asking whether it is possible that this covenant against war will be wrecked at last by the nation that has been regarded as its special sponsor.

The Evening Sun, New York, dismisses it as a "project of transcendental fatuity." As Senator Borah sees it "this is the first step in internationalism and in the sterilizing of nationalism," while to join the League insists Senator Reed, would be to "surrender by the pen what Washington gained by the sword." On the other hand "we want a League of Nations to prevent war, and we ought to be able to get it," thinks the Minneapolis Tribune, and the Philadelphia Public Ledger accuses some of our Senators of flaunting "scarecrows" to frighten America away from the league and declares that "to cast coal-oil on the flames of smoldering Europe just now is neither senatorial or sane."

The People Who Read "The Digest"

The best test of any periodical is the class of its readers. Character in a magazine or a newspaper attracts men and women of standing and judgment as inevitably as a flower draws the bee, and for the same reason. It suits their taste. Glance around you in the train, on the street-cars, in hotel lobbies, wherever your fellow humans congregate, and note the people who read THE LITERARY DIGEST. They are the best type. They buy "The Digest" because they know it is accurate, impartial, wholesome, comprehensive, and up-to-date, because they can take it home to their children with confidence, and because it covers the world's news as no other periodical does. Are you with them?

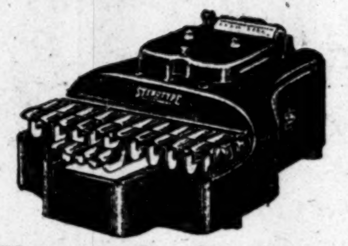
Do You Want to Own and Manufacture the Stenotype?



This is the Stenotype

THE Stenotype is a commercially successful machine which takes the place of a "Stenographer's" pencil and note-book. It increases accuracy in the taking of dictation, increases the speed with which dictation may be taken—and multiplies the speed with which transcriptions may be made.

Dictation is taken swiftly and noiselessly. The operator presses the keys of the Stenotype and PRINTS, mechanically, upon a paper tape, and in a universal code, the words of the dictator or speaker.

All Stenotype typists can read the Stenotype code easily and accurately. It is free from the peculiarities and individualities of "Short-hand" notes. One Stenotype operator can keep three or four typists busy.

The Fletcher Savings and Trust Company, Receiver, offers for sale the patents, goodwill, land and buildings of the Stenotype Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

Ownership of the Stenotype patents and goodwill should, in our belief, enable any manufacturer with proper management and financing, to build one of America's great businesses—a business as large as that of any typewriter company.

The present situation of the Stenotype Company is not due in any way to any fault of the Stenotype itself, but to conditions which could now be overcome by the right persons.

More than 26,000 Stenotypes have been manufactured and marketed. They have demonstrated and proved their usefulness and practicability. All of the experimenting and pioneering has been done—and at great expense. The special Stenotype machinery, tools, dies, etc., are included in this sale.

The Stenotype is fully refined and perfected. It is fully patented—every feature being covered. The patents are sound in every way.

A great business has been started. Can YOU develop it?

Stenotype Buildings and Land Also for Sale

The Stenotype buildings and land offer a splendid opportunity for any manufacturer. The building cost $125,000—when building conditions and prices were normal and favorable. It is thoroughly modern, splendidly lighted, and built of steel, brick and stone. Three stories high; 502 by 52.

The main building has two three story wings, 42 and 62 feet long. There are two large one-story assembly buildings and other miscellaneous structures.

The land comprises 10 acres immediately adjoining Indianapolis, with the best of switching and transportation facilities.

Write for Details

The Stenotype patents, goodwill, etc., may be purchased separately from the buildings and land. For further details concerning this property and sale, address Fletcher Savings & Trust Company, Receiver, Indianapolis.

This sale is entirely separate and distinct from the auction of the machinery and equipment of the Stenotype Company.

GRANTS REPRIEVE TO BAFF SLAYERS

DUE TO PERJURY CHARGES

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 7.—Frank Ferrara and Joseph Cohen, in the death row in Sing Sing, convicted of the murder of Barnett Baff, the New York "Poultry King," will not go to the electric chair during the week of March 17. Governor Smith today granted each a reprieve of three months.

The respite was given them, Governor Smith said, to give District Attorney Edward Swann of New York time to conclude his investigation of charges of perjury and subordination of perjury growing out of the prosecution of the Baff murderers. The Governor's action puts the execution off until the week beginning June 16.

Barnett Baff, "Poultry King," stepped from his store in Washington Market on Nov. 24, 1914, and started slowly down the street to keep an appointment made by telephone. "Chicken Moe" Rosenstein, loitering in front of the shop, carelessly raised his hat, Frank Ferrara slowed the automobile he was driving, and from his seat Giuseppe Arichello fired two shots that killed Baff. That is the circumstantial story of the murder of Barnett Baff.

Behind it lay a bitter trade warfare among poultry dealers and a belief on the part of a so-called poultry trust that it was due to Baff that thirteen of its members were sent to jail. Baff's enemies say that he himself masqueraded as an independent, and that in reality he was head of a trust of his own, and that through combined wholesale and retail deals he subjected them to vicious competition which they could not survive.

"That there had been a plan to kill Baff was proved later through the testimony that a bomb had been planted in his Summer home at Arverne, L. I. At the last moment Joe Sarro, one of the men who admitted planting it, weakened, and dampened the fuse, according to his own statement.

Many Sensational Aspects.

The murder car, the signal to identify the victim, the hired murderer, and the "murder fund," gave the Baff case many of the most sensational aspects of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, for which Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and four hired gunmen were electrocuted. Charles S. Whitman, then District Attorney, bent every effort to convict the criminals. Eventually six men were indicted for the crime—Ferrara, who drove the car; Arichello, who fired the shot; and Jacob Cohen, Joseph Cohen, Abraham Graff, and David Jacobs, all poultry dealers accused of having contributed to the death fund. Arichello and Joseph Cohen were convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death. Arichello was granted a new trial. Abraham Graff was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to from ten to twenty years in Sing Sing. The others were acquitted.

Before the men came to trial Cardinale, who admitted hiring the murderer and later turned State's evidence, had fled to Italy. Assistant District Attorney William Harmon Black, who was sent after him, found Cardinale serving in the Italian Army. After a long battle he succeeded in bringing him back.

Mr. Whitman had become Governor before the men came to trial. He took the cases out of the hands of District Attorney Swann and appointed Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker and Special Attorney General James O'Malley to handle the prosecutions. It was they who got the convictions after uncovering an alleged plot to induce Cardinale to recant his part of the testimony for a bribe of $5,000.

Case Revived in Senate.

Cohen fought his case through the Court of Appeals and made a fruitless effort to get the United States Supreme Court to review it. A lunacy commission appointed by Governor Whitman, on which the condemned man based much hope, found him sane.

The case was apparently closed and the date for Cohen's electrocution was set, when Mr. Becker appeared as a witness before the Senate committee investigating German propaganda, and gave testimony in which the name of William Randolph Hearst figured repeatedly. Senator James A. Reed of Missouri questioned Becker. One of the things upon which Senator Reed dwelt was that Becker had employed an ex-convict as an investigator in the Baff case.

Senator Reed subsequently appealed to Governor Smith to reprieve Cohen. District Attorney Swann, in the meantime, had begun an investigation into subornation of perjury charges against witnesses against Baff which were revived during the Senate investigation. Governor Smith agreed to act provided State Attorney General Newton so advised. Mr. Newton agreed that, as long as the investigation was in progress in this city, the reprieve should be granted.

Joseph A. Sarro, who was expected to be the chief witness in Mr. Swann's investigation, recanted and told Becker he had falsely accused himself of perjury because his life had been threatened. The investigation is still in progress.

CURBS REGENTS' POWER.

Bill Would Block Dr. Finnegan as Dr. Finley's Successor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 7.—In anticipation of the resignation of John Huston Finley as State Commissioner of Education and to prevent the State Board of Regents from naming Deputy Commissioner Dr. Thomas E. Finnegan as his successor Assemblyman Clarence F. Welsh of Albany today introduced a bill in the Legislature taking the elective power away from the Regents and transferring it to the Legislature.

Commissioner Finley has been abroad some time organizing Red Cross work in Palestine. It is known that he intends to resign if opportunity is given him to obtain a diplomatic post which would keep him in Palestine. Commissioner Finley has commended Dr. Finnegan as being one of the ablest educators in the country and a man highly capable of conducting the New York educational department.

The Welsh bill would empower the Legislature to remove the Commissioner with or without electing his successor. The Board of Regents would be permitted to fill a vacancy in the Commissionership only if the vacancy occurred while the lawmakers are not in session, the appointment expiring on the twentieth day after the legislative session opens.

Victory Dinner for Lawyers.

Arrangements for the Victory Dinner of the Bar to be held at the Hotel Astor this evening have practically been completed. The United States Army will be represented by Major Gen. Shanks; Vice Admiral Gleaves, the Navy. Among the speakers will be Charles E. Hughes, for the American Bar; United States Senator James E. Watson, for the Federal authorities, and Martin Conboy, for the lawyers in the war. Several of the members of the French High Commission now in the city will be present. Morgan J. O'Brien, President of the Association, will preside.

DR. G. A. SIMONS TELLS STUDENTS OF RUSSIA

EJECT RADICALS FROM HALL

Speaker Declares Bolshevism Was Started and Supported by the Germans.

The Rev. Dr. George A. Simons, a Methodist missionary lately in Russia, addressed the students at City College yesterday on "Bolshevism As I See It." He assailed the "mush-headed, muddle-headed Socialists" who posed as Russian authorities without having ever been near the people of whom they speak, and maintained that the entire Bolshevist program was "made in Germany." A number of radicals among the students were ejected from the hall when they hissed and passed comments about the speaker, and many students left the lecture when the speaker denounced them for applauding some of his statements which were made in a manner that led to misunderstanding.

"The Bolsheviki don't believe in brotherhood but in hatred," said Dr. Simons. "They believe in love only in a low free-love sort of way. Do they believe in liberty? No. They believe in the dictatorship of the proletariat. If you wish to get to the heart of Bolshevism read the 'Communist Manifesto' or Bolshevik program and then study your reaction."

After reading parts of the manifesto Dr. Simons read the concluding phrase, "proletarians of the world, unite!" This occasioned a burst of applause and the speaker turned his invective against the Bolsheviki of the country.

"The Bolsheviki are not fit to be recognized in the brotherhood of human hearts. And when I stand before the Eternal Judge I must say that Bolshevism was supported and started by the Hun. Hindenburg had Lenine and Trotzky under his thumb just as he had the thousands of other criminals. Men came to Russia for the revolution from New York, Chicago, Paris, London, and other cities, and where they came from makes no difference. Now certain sections of New York City have become squeamish and say that I have attacked them. You shouldn't do that. Did these men belong to you? And if they did you can thank God that you got rid of them. This country or this college is no place for them, and no college should have on its Faculty or its student rolls any one who thinks first,, last, and all the time of Bolshevism.

"I have never heard one kind thing said about the Bolsheviki by Russian workmen. They are living in starvation and wretchedness, and all curse them for practices of robberty, murder, and confiscation. The Bolsheviki are a bunch of cutthroats anyhow. I have heard statements from even the officials of the Bolshevist Government that are so repulsive that if you had any red blood of manhood in your veins you will cry out aaginst this awful scourge.

"There will never be a chance to wave the red flag here, and if any of you wish to be internationalists this is not the country for you. Go to Trotzky and Lenine, go to that cauldron of hell, go to those swine, and when you go we shall give you a resolution of gratitude for your departure."

CHICAGO CLAIMS 3,000,000.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Chicago has passed the 3,000,000 population mark, according to estimates made today by an official of the concern that prints the City Directory.

If this should be confirmed by the next Federal census, it was said, it might permit Chicago to displace Paris among the large cities of the world.

Trial of Miss Mortimer.

Defense of Miss Edith Mortimer, daughter of Stanley Mortimer of Wheatley Hills, L. I., was started yesterday afternoon in the Queens County Supreme Court before Justice Aspinall to the indictment charging her with manslaughter in the second degree for having killed Nathan Wasserberger at Flushing on Oct. 19 last while driving her automobile. Miss Mortimer did not take the stand herself; but it is expected that she will some time on Monday.

As the trial has progressed the young woman has been in an extremely nervous state. Yesterday she had her intimate friend, Miss Margaret Sargent, sit beside her as she faced the members of the jury.

Convicted of Embezzlement.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 7.—Harry T. Lanhans, Borough Tax Collector of Roselle Park for four years, until he resigned last January, was convicted by a jury in the Court of Quarter Sessions last night of embezzling $30,980 from the borough during his term of office. Langhans resigned in January. He will be sentenced later.

YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE IN PEACE, WAR and RECONSTRUCTION

PEACE

AN ABUNDANCE OF MATERIALS for telephone construction purposes, an always available supply of labor, a well knit business organization, and normal and long anticipated demands for service—

TELEPHONE SERVICE of the type that New York City received in those pre-war days was within the bounds of possibility.

WAR

BUT THEN CAME THE DAY when the nation squared its jaw and turned its face toward war—when industry in general lined up behind the nation in one solid phalanx to bring about the Great Result.

THERE WAS NO LONGER AN ABUNDANCE of labor and material available for any purpose not directly connected with the prosecution of the war. Thousands of highly trained telephone men and women were called upon to devote all their time and skill to meeting the needs of the government.

AND NEITHER WAS THERE the same normal demand for service. The candle was burned at both ends. While the supplies of the things that made service possible at all fell far below normal, the demand for the service rose steadily until New York City reached the high-water mark of three and one-quarter million calls every twenty-four hours!

NEW YORK CITY received during this period the best telephone service that war-time conditions would permit, but it was not and could not be the same type of service that the City enjoyed in days of Peace.

RECONSTRUCTION

WE HAVE GONE THROUGH the troubled period of war and we face to-day the important period of reconstruction.

BUT IT HAS NOT BEEN POSSIBLE to overcome in a few months the handicaps imposed by nearly two years of restricted construction. New buildings and completed switchboards cannot be improvised nor can large numbers of additional employees be trained to the highest point of efficiency in so short a period of time.

WE HAVE NOT YET BEEN ABLE, under these conditions, to bring your telephone service back to the same high standards that characterized it in pre-war days.

BUT THE SAME POLICY OF STRIVING to give to the Biggest City in the World the Best Telephone Service in the World still exists, and to-day our efforts are centered in the work of supplying the most efficient service that the present unsettled conditions will permit.

May we expect your confidence and cooperation while waiting for that period of normality to which all business is looking forward?

ASSERTS GERMANS FLATTERED OUR MEN

Col. Hayden, Returning on Mongolia, Tells of Propaganda in Occupied Territory.

Two transports arrived yesterday with troops, the Mexican, which sailed from St. Nazaire on Feb. 21, bringing 2,504 officers and men, and the Mongolia, from the same port two days later, with 4,403 troops. Both vessels had rough weather in crossing. Among the troops on the Mongolia were the 334th, 335th, and 336th Machine Gun Battalions of the 87th Division, and six officers and 115 men of the Meteorological Department, Signal Corps. Little has been said of the Meteorological Department of the service, and yet the decisions to attack or not to attack sometimes depended on its report. The duties of the department were to make observations and forecast the weather and the possible force of the wind and its direction. Those arriving yesterday had been assigned principally to the Verdun sector.

That the Germans were now engaged in a propaganda to make the American soldier feel how glad they were that he was occupying parts of their country was attested to by Lieut. Col. H. B. Hayden of the 28th Division, whose home is at 465 West End Avenue, who said yesterday that some of our solldiers had "fallen for it." The Colonel was wounded in the Argonne, and upon his recovery was assigned to the Army of Occupation in Coblenz. He said that when he heard the Germans tell how glad they were that the Americans had been placed in occupation there he would recall that he had heard that they told the French and British in other places the same thing.

Others on the Mongolia were: Lieut. Col. E. S. Hayes, a regular Army officer of the 78th Division, whose left hand was blown off by a high explosive shell in the Argonne region on Oct. 18. He stooped down and took the ring off a finger of the hand that was blown off. Major George C. Clark, of Dodge, Clark & Co., brokers of 50 Wall Street, was attached to the 324 Infantry. He came back with a Croix De Guerre, with two palms, for bravery on the battlefield. Lieutenant Martin Le Boutellier, a lawyer of 60 Wall Street, graduate of Plattsburg, attached to the 151st Field Artillery, 42d Division. He was gassed at the Argonne on Oct. 22.

The steamship Mexican, formerly an American-Hawaiian freighter, was the first converted freighter to return as a troopship. Her passengers included fifteen squadrons of the aero service, many of them having been doing assembling and repair work in English and French aero camps.

After having seen service on the Verdun, St. Mihiel, and Soissons front and being on duty at the Chaumont headquarters, Lieut. Col. Frank Evans of Washington, D. C., has returned. He went across in November, 1917. He was in Luxemburg when that country was declared a republic. Colonel Evans said that he was much impressed in visiting the devastated regions of France by the fine work that American engineers were doing to reclaim the country.

On the Mexican also was the 158th Aero Squadron, that was on the steamship Tuscania that sank on Feb. 5 last year. Eighteen of the squadron lost their lives. Major Pierre Wilmer of Philadelphia, of the 6th Marines, brought back the Croix de Guerre and has been recommended for the Distinguished Service Medal for heroism under fire.

Others were Private James J. Love, 434 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, attached to Company A of the 168th Infantry, which saw some of the hardest fighting in the St. Mihiel and Argonne sectors; Private Harold Hagen, Company H of the 165th Infantry, of 137 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, who was wounded in the leg by a machine-gun bullet at Château-Thierry on July 28, and Private Sydney Schain, 89 East Fourth Street, New York City, attached to Company E, 165th Infantry, who was wounded at Fismes on July 28.

HOME NOT FOR SOLDIERS.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 7.—Because its provisions failed to take in drafted men, Governor Smith today vetoed the bill giving to enlisted men in the world war the privileges of the New York State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

"If it were intended to extend the privileges of this institution to any participant in the war with Germany it should not be limited to those who enlisted, but should be broad enough to include all those who were engaged in the conflict by reason of the selective service law," he said.

"I believe that some means of assisting these young men will be devised. For the present at least, I oppose their admission into a State institution. I think whatever care or assistance should be rendered to them by the State should, so far as possible, be extended to them in their own homes."

AMERICANS 'WON THE WAR.'

Special to The New York Times.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 7.—"Give France and England the credit they claim. We can be generous enough for them. But say to the American people for me that American men won the war, and they won it in 1918 and not in 1920."

This is the message General Pershing gave to Major Alfred H. Beach, commanding the 116th Ammunition Train, made up of Wyoming men, who arrived here today.

O'LEARY ENGLAND'S ENEMY.

Testifies His Big Interest in the War Was Revenge for Ireland.

Jeremiah A. O'Leary, charged with violating the espionage act, testified yesterday that he did not know that Adolph Stern, who was connected with O'Leary's magazine "Bull," was an enemy alien. Prosecutor Osborne wanted to know if it was seemly to have an enemy alien fighting for the American Constitution during the period when "Bull" was in trouble with the Post Office Department. The witness replied that Stern was of no more importance in the office of "Bull" than any clerk or typewriter.

Answering a question concerning Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, O'Leary said he was not in sympathy with their beliefs.

O'Leary refused to show the jury his address book, and Mr. Osborne wanted to know if it was due to the fact that the book contained the address and telephone number of Dr. Heinrich Albert, the German agent. "I won't say whether they are in the book," he said.

Asked where his sympathies lay before the United States entered the war, O'Leary replied:

"I wanted to see England put in her place. I had no use for England while she held my motherland down. I feel that way now. I can't help it. As between England and Germany I wanted to see Germany win. I did not want to see France crushed or Russia ruined."

In reply to other questions, O'Leary said the activities of the "American Truth Society" were not enlarged when the war began; that he had never defended the invasion of Belgium, and admitted that in 1916 he had been instrumental in a campaign for a food embargo "because he did not want to see Americans paying more for food than foreigners paid."

The trial will be resumed on Monday.

REPORTED CASUALTIES NOW TOTAL 276,570

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Four army casualty lists, containing 320 names, were issued by the War Department today, bringing the total for the army up to 270,804, including 4,504 prisoners who have been released and returned. No Marine Corps casualty list was issued today, but the total previously announced for that arm of the service was 5,766. The total for army and Marine Corps is now 276,570.

Army lists issued today contained the names of 12 killed in action, 9 died of wounds, 4 died of accident, 80 died of disease, 128 wounded slightly, 70 wounded to a degree undetermined, 12 wounded severely, and 5 missing.

WILSON SAVES THEIR LIVES.

Commutes Death Sentence Passed on Two Camp Dix Recruits.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Commutation to fifteen years' imprisonment by President Wilson of death sentences imposed by court-martial on Benjamin Gorski and Gilari Boki was announced today by the War Department. The men, who were recruits, were tried at Camp Dix, N. J., for refusal to obey orders and for desertion.

President Wilson disapproved the sentence of dismissal on First Lieut. Albert D. Smith, who was charged with attacking another officer with a riding whip in the Pennsylvania Station at New York last June. The President ordered the sentence reduced to a reprimand, restriction to camp for six months, and $300 fine.

Tasteless—
But "Acid-Mouth" destroys teeth

When unswallowed food particles dissolve against the teeth or under the gums, "Acid-Mouth" results. This unfavorable condition slowly but ceaselessly weakens the hard enamel. Germs enter through the cavities thus formed and swiftly destroy the soft, interior pulp. Tooth decay is said to occur in this manner in 19 out of every 20 cases.

What can check "Acid-Mouth"?

Pebeco counteracts "Acid-Mouth," whitens and polishes the teeth, and endows the whole mouth with a delightful sense of exhilaration.

Red-blooded men ask no aid

You don't want to be carried on anybody's back. You want to be a clear-brained, able-bodied man who can go down to his desk and do a full day's work. Take Pepto-Mangan. It will help your thin-blooded, feeble, weak-nerved condition.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

Pepto-Mangan is no mere temporary tonic, but a genuine reconstructive which is helpful in building blood from its foundations, the red cells. It increases their number and capacity to carry oxygen—so vital to health—through your whole system, charging it with renewed health, vigor and purpose. Your color improves, your appetite increases. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is easy to digest, exceedingly pleasant to taste. Universally prescribed by the medical profession.

ASK HYLAN TO STOP GERMAN OPERA

Woman Worker in Eagle Hut Writes an Appeal to the Mayor.

SOLDIERS ALSO OBJECT

A direct appeal was made yesterday to Mayor Hylan to stop the reopening of German opera in New York City scheduled for next Monday night at the Lexington Avenue Theatre. In a letter to the Mayor Mrs. Walter Maynard, leader of woman's work at the Y. M. C. A. Eagle Hut, declared that on an average of 5,000 soldiers and sailors visited Eagle Hut every day, and that they were "hurt and resentful" over the fact that German-language opera was to be taken up in New York even before peace was signed.

The men in service themselves held a protest meeting last night in the Navy Hut at 509 Fifth Avenue. A petition was circulated to be signed making it plain that the soldiers and sailors were angered at what they termed the "German insult." It contained about a thousand signatures. The men openly threatened if the authorities fail to act they would take matters into their own hands.

Mrs. Maynard's letter follows:

To His Honor, the Mayor of New York:

Sir—On arriving at Eagle Hut this morning I found awaiting me a group of soldiers and sailors, whose spokesman said: "We fellows feel sore about this German opera business. We have lost a lot of our pals—they were killed by those Germans—and now this doesn't seef a fair deal. Can't you help us to do something about it?" The most effective way seemed to be to forward this message directly to you.

We have an average daily attendance at this hut of not less than 5,000 men, so that we have an excellent chance to gauge the sentiments of our boys on such matters. They are hurt and resentful. Peace is not yet signed. This is the moment when we are preparing to celebrate the homecoming of our gallant troops. May I add my protest to theirs and ask you to use your influence and that of your honorable office to stop what seems at least a flagrant breach of good taste, if nothing worse?

Respectfully yours,
EUNICE MAYNARD.

Mrs. Albert Symington, Chairman in charge of War Camp Community and Club Unit No. 3, issued a statement, saying:

"The soldiers, sailors, and marines who frequent Service Club No. 3 are protesting against the series of German operas to be given in German by Germans at the Lexington Avenue Theatre during March.

"In view of the fact that we are not yet at peace with Germany, and the men are coming back fresh from the battlefields of France, where many have suffered and died, this seems an unnecessary affront.

"I wish to add my voice of protest to theirs, lest we forget."

Others Make Protests.

Mrs. R. S. Adler, Lieutenant in Unit 59 of the National League for Women's Service at the service canteen, 17 East Forty-first Street, declared: "It is too soon. Here we are preaching Americanization and undivided loyalty to our country and at the same time we are countenancing a German language opera, written in German by Germans for Germans. We should remember that peace has not yet been declared and that our boys are still on foreign soil ready in case of need for aggression from a German foe."

A committee of men in the service composed of William McRae, recently of the Navy's North Sea Patrol; M. E. Ayers, private in the 6th Machine Gun Company of Marines and a veteran of Chateau-Thierry, and Charles Walker, a Canadian of American birth, who served fours years in Flanders and was in a German prison camp, are working for the suppression of the operas. At the Navy Club meeting last night, Daniel F. McCallion, chie fspokesman, said that free tickets for the opera had been circulated among the soldiers and sailors and marines.

The Italian Chamber of Commerce sent a telegram yesterday to Governor Smith protesting against the German opera. "In our eyes," the protest ran, "this amounts to public defiance of American patriotism."

Police officials visited the Lexington Theatre yesterday to discuss with the management of the opera the best means of affording protection. Following a conference with them, Dr. Max Winter, General Business Manager of the Christians Producing Company, authorized the following statement:

"In New York City are several million Germans and German-Americans, among them hundreds of thousands of adults who are barred from recreation in ordinary American theatres. They came to this country to earn a living, and have been unable to learn English, owing to the lack of time. Thousands of sons of these men and women have gone overseas, of whom many have been killed and wounded. Those who stayed behind helped the Liberty Loan and the Red Cross drive and have throughout been loyal, sincere patriots.

"There is absolutely no sort of propaganda in these plays. Six or seven of the operettas were written by composers now dead. They contain nothing in any sense political. They are just amusing and full of good music. The entire enterprise fills a demand on the part of people who want only to be entertained."

Dr. Winter stated that the company had been rehearsing for several weeks, and that more than sixty contracts had been let which would have to be broken if the opera could not open. The following is a list of the operas and opperettes to be given: "Der Waffenschmied," "Die Fledermaus," "Die Schoene Helena," "Das Driemederlhaus," "Der Vogelhaendler," "Der Zigeunerbaron," "Der Bettelstudent," "Das Suesse Maedel," and "Der Trompeter Von Sackingen." The conductor is Paul Eisler.

Trio of Stars in "Mme. Butterfly."

Popular "Madame Butterfly" sold out the Metropolitan at top rates last night, with a tangle of nationalities in the trio of leading rôles that came near a record. The Japanese heroine was an American, Miss Farrar, and the American hero a Spaniard, Mr. Lazaro, while the diplomatic line brought an Italian, De Luca, as the Yankee Consul. It was a "night of stars," as Cio-Cio-San said of her Nagasaki wedding, and the big audience enjoyed the performance, led by Mr. Moranzoni.

Marie Kryl Plays Brilliantly.

Marie Kryl, a pianist who has appeared with orchestras in Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, made her local début last evening at Aeolian Hall, her program light and brilliant, her playing likewise, though she included in a Chopin group the B flat minor sonata, a task for poet and musician. Schumann's "Papillons," Moszkowski's "Etincelles," a gavotte by d'Albert, etude by Sternberg, and six Paganini-Liszt caprices ran the scale from fireflies to fireworks, from the sincere to the merely showy. In the final impression the hollow show pieces outweighed the rest.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The next program of the Provincetown Players, in their theatre at 133 Macdougal Street, will be a three-act play by Susan Glaspell. It will be offered on March 14.

Constance Binney will play the leading role in Rachel Crother's new comedy, now in rehearsal.

Harold Atteridge and Harry Carroll are collaborating on two musical shows, one of which will be the Summer attraction at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, and the other at the Winter Garden.

Stuart Walker will talk at St. Mark's Church, Tenth Street and Second Avenue, tomorrow afternoon on "The Book of Job and the Theatre." He will repeat the address at Columbia on Monday afternoon.

Livingston Platt is designing the settings for "Shakuntala," a fifth century Hindu play, which will be offered at special matinees at the Greenwich Village.

PREDICTS PORK PRICE RISE.

Food Administration Disapproves of Lifting Regulations.

The price of pork products may go much higher in the near future as the result of the action of the War Trade Board in removing the regulations by which the price of live hogs was stabilized, according to a statement given out by the United States Food Administration yesterday at the Bureau of Markets, 204 Franklin Street.

"The United States Food Administration," the statement says, "is officially advised by the War Trade Board that it has rescinded the regulation by which all applications for licenses to export pork and pork products to European destinations must have attached thereto a certificate from the United States Food Administration to the effect that the commodity described had been sold for export at price approved by the Food Administration. At the same time the War Trade Board announces that all pork and pork products have been removed from the export conservation list. Both actions are effective March 6, 1919."

The Food Administration points out that the practical effect of the action is to destroy the ability of the United States Food Administration to stabilize the price of live hogs. The Food Administration wanted to continue the stabilization plan until March 31, when the normal marketing period of hogs farrowed in the Spring of 1918 would have terminated. No further effort will now be made to stabilize the prices, it was announced, but the statement adds that from 85 to 90 per cent. of the hogs destined for market have been sold.

"The European demand for hog products will increase rather than diminish," the Food Administration says. "The supply of live hogs coming to market in March and April will be greatly reduced in numbers. The European markets are opening rapidly to free trading in hog products and the area to be supplied is being made increasingly accessible. The enemy countries are to be given opportunity to secure hog products and other foods."

The statement concludes: "It is possible that as a consequence of the general situation the price of hogs and pork may go higher than the stabilized prices which have been maintained and which the Food Administration desired to be continued to March 31 next."

Oliver S. Bocande, a prominent chemist of France, has arrived from Paris, having been sent by the French Government to aid the American Government in preserving meat for shipment to France. During the war Mr. Bocande conducted experiments which resulted in the finding of a new method of preserving meat so that it may be shipped without any chance of spoiling in transit and without injury to the meat.

Hartshorne-Vreeland Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hartshorne of 31 East Forty-ninth Street and Rumson, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth H. Hartshorne, to Hamilton Vreeland, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Vreeland of Jersey City. Miss Hartshorne is a graduate of Wellesley College and of the New York University Law School. Mr. Vreeland, who at present is connected with the State Department in Washington, D. C., was graduated from Princeton; also from the Columbia Law School. He is a member of the Cosmos Club of Washington.

SERBS EXPECT NO CLASH.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 6.—THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent questioned the Serbian Minister, M. Miloyevitch, on alarming news from the Italian-Serbian frontier, asking him if war between Italy and Serbia was an imminent possibility, as a wireless message from America stated. The Minister replied:

"In spite of the fact that the situation is more serious, I firmly believe that it will not come to a clash at arms. Italy and Serbia are geographically able to agree, and both are members of the big alliance, which by its conception of a world league is making gigantic efforts to cause war to disappear.

"Serbia has always given proof of love of peace. I will cite three examples in which she has endeavored to solve disputes with other States by means of arbitration.

"In 1913 she proposed the Russian Emperor as arbiter of the Serbo-Bulgarian quarrel, but Bulgaria refused and declared war. In 1914, when Austria-Hungary issued her ultimatum, Serbia proposed international arbitration at The Hague, but Austria refused and declared war on us.

"Today, in requesting President Wilson to become arbiter of the dispute with Italy, the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes are still faithful to their pacific traditions and prove the best intentions of collaboration, so that arbitration should not be a utopia.

"Being the first to propose arbitration since the League of Nations was drafted, Serbia could not have offered better proof of her sincere desire to be a pacific element in the new society, and the whole world is her witness. If foreign elements oblige her people to maintain her existence by force I hope that none will say that the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes wanted war."

JEWS MASSACRED IN UKRAINE

400 Families Wiped Out in One Town East of Lemberg.

STOCKHOLM, March 7.—The Jewish Press Bureau here says that the Yiddische Morgenpost of Vienna reports that Jews are being massacred in large numbers in Eastern Galicia and the Ukraine. The reports say that 400 families have been killed at Proskureff, in the Ukraine, east of Lemberg.

MUSIC NOTES.

David Mannes will tonight resume the fine orchestra concerts provided by an unnamed donor in the main hall of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Raoul Vidas will play Tschaikovsky's concerto at Carnegie Hall tonight, and the Philharmonic men will add the symphony "Pathetique."

Bread Upon the Waters

HE is an up-state business man—though we didn't know it at the time.

He wanted certain theatre tickets. We provided them, making our customary 50 cent service charge over the box-office price—and no charge whatever for the courtesy, understanding and convenience which is a forty-years-young tradition with us.

He went away. That was months ago—long before the City of New York passed a theatre ticket ordinance, endorsing our 50-cent policy.

He writes in occasionally saying he will be in town, and stating his requirements.

RAILWAY POLITICS AND ECONOMICS.

If votes are to be counted, there will be a decision of the railway question different from what would be expected if the votes were to be weighed. For example, fourteen labor bodies operating the railways, and numbering nearly two million members, have held a referendum on Government ownership, and it is "virtually unanimous" in favor. A like referendum has been conducted in effect, although not in form, by the many authoritative publications on the subject. A trust company has analyzed them to bring together the various points for comparison. Among those disapproving what has been approved by the two million whose wages have been raised are the Railway Executives, the Association of Railway Security Owners, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Director General, Victor Morawetz, and Paul Warburg. All these, and too many organs of public opinion to be listed, prefer private ownership and operation.

Those who think that universal suffrage is a universal cure-all may be right regarding subjects not affected with decision of universal interest against self-interest. Economic questions are not of that sort. Few may be trusted to decide against their interests because of a superior public interest, and if that virtue should exist, it is in danger of not being exercised because of lack of economic training or perception of economic results. The inferiority of the interests of the two million whose views are presumably affected by the Government's increases of their wages to the interests of the 100,000,000 who would be prejudiced by railway operation either unduly expensive or inefficient is obvious to nearly all but the two million. Similar questions are now up for world decision, and happily will be decided in the first place by votes of the highest intelligence.

The test will come when the Allies make their decisions regarding the effects of the war upon national interests. They have not been able to agree about the disposition of Germany's navy. They are agreeing only with much friction about the distribution of food and the continuance of the German blockade. There is danger when they come to the settlement of questions closely affecting the economics of the nations individually in peace. If those questions were to be decided by the peoples of the nations there would be a good prospect of their being decided in the manner of the two million railway workers. But they will be decided by representatives whose intelligence may be expected to control their action in accordance with their conscientious duty. Otherwise it is necessary to assume that Germany's policy has won where its armies have lost. The Allies as Governments are committed to the open door, to fair trade, and against exploitation of small peoples, special investment rights, colonial concessions, and other devices of trade discrimination and privilege.

It would be an unfair test of democracy to submit these difficult decisions to popular referendums. On such matters representative government is better than reference to prejudiced and insufficiently informed electorates. Decisions would be difficult if only economists voted, for the doctors disagree. It is well that the decision will be neither by peoples nor by economists, but by representative and responsible statesmen. Confidence in their decisions will be increased by the fact that they must act in the open and go upon an immortal record. On this point alliances could not be formed without collision nor with hope of permanence. It is fortunate for the world that these decisions are to be made as parts of a whole, and not individually and independently. That way disagreement lies.

A REACTIONARY PARTY.

Of course the meeting of the Committee on Committees of the House was "perfectly harmonious." Equally of course Mr. Mann's program went through. Mr. Mann controls the Committee on Committees, which means that he and ex-Speaker Cannon control the House. We wonder with what sheepish faces the progressive element in the Republican Party receive this evidence that their victory was barren when they elected Speaker Gillett, who, despite his virility and Americanism, must be little better than a figurehead while the old reactionary element runs the House in a way not seen since Speaker Cannon's rule.

By the passage of the Mann substitute to the Winslow motion, the Old Guard is not only intrenched in the management, but gifted with a power not even possessed by the machine in the old days. In those days Cannon, Dalzell, Payne, and Grosvenor controlled the House; but there was over each the dissenting control of the others. Today there is but one master of the House, Mann, unless one is compelled by courtesy to admit Cannon into membership with him. The Speaker-to-be is powerless. He is reduced to somewhat the same position that the Vice President occupies in the upper chamber. He can preside and look pleasant; and he will not even preside when the great bills are up for discussion, but will resign the Chairmanship to another member.

This is the first use the Republicans have made of their victory of last November. They have installed the reactionaries in such control as they have really never had before. They have put off the progressive element of the party with a Speakership. They have given husks to Hays, Longworth, Gillett, and the rest of the men who are trying to make the Republican Party real; and the party is today where it was when Theodore Roosevelt made his futile effort to change it in 1912.

THE BOSS.

To the sacred bulls of the Anti-Saloon League the people of the State of New York, though not consulted, have lazily accustomed themselves and become familiar. That the Anti-Saloon League should be the director of our personal habits is an old story. The mere fact that the people of New York have not been consulted does not count. The Anti-Saloon League is better and wiser than we. It is a Sanhedrin of sages. Meekly we submit to it in its directions for our stomachs and our morals. Still, when our all-powerful director, regulator, and boss, Mr. William H. Anderson, tells us that the election law must not be changed, that we must still be under the direction of the Directed Primary, doesn't even that august and imperial personage go too far, or, at least, anticipate the ripened public sentiment of the future?

Some of us dote on prohibition. Some of us believe in it as a desirable future state. Do any of us believe in a future State controlled and regulated by the Anti-Saloon League?

A SUBSTITUTE.

Great tribulations in Nebraska. Some foe of the human race, in fact, several foes of the human race, have been emitting, uttering, and vending Jamaica ginger to a dissolute populace. According to the Nebraska calculations, Jamaica ginger contains 92 per cent. of alcohol. Naturally, there is trouble. In Mr. Bryan's State J. G. is "Jack." The druggists say that, in giving an opportunity to their customers to make use of 2 or 3 per cent. of alcohol in their prescriptions, they are not violating the actual law or the great moral law of the Middle West. The District Attorneys don't know what to say. Their dubiety is essentially the same as that of ordinary men, Wet or Dry, in these United States. Somewhere, in the dark backward and abysm of time, old settlers may imagine that there was a certain cataclysm in the good old Yankee State of New Hampshire. Some unfortunate or designed confusion of signals wrecked a train loaded with Jamaica ginger somewhere in the Granite State. Its people, "of the purest New England stock," rushed madly to the rescue. They "swiped" the dangerous contents of the train.

This little anecdote may or may not teach us that most people are substantially the same.

PUNISHING THE GUILTY.

The National Security League is a human and fallible institution. It made mistakes in its methods, it sometimes aroused unnecessary antagonism, and its famous Congressional list may have led to unwarranted criticism of Mr. Royal C. Johnson, and perhaps of others. But the National Security League did a great deal toward stirring up the people till they compelled Congress to adopt some measures of preparedness, and it can claim to have made a not inconsiderable contribution toward the many-sided work of winning the war. Most of the attacks on it, outside of Congress at least, have come from people who either did not care whether we won the war or not, or who were zealous that we should not win it.

The technical accusation of violation of the Corrupt Practices act is made the excuse for a report full of vituperation and aspersion. About the only thing that is not in that report is the ground for Congress's grievance against the National Security League, that it told the truth about certain Congressmen. The league published a correct record of Congressional votes on the declaration of war, and some measures which prepared the country for war and enabled us to fight to some effect. This is a record of fact, and fact was what the Congressmen did not like. Mr. Johnson, after voting against the declaration of war, enlisted, won a commission, fought bravely, and was severely wounded. The other Congressmen involved, no doubt for the best of reasons, did not; they are judged on their record, a record of bad votes. We need Congressmen who are not only loyal but courageous and intelligent; voting wrong in these issues hardly involved friendship for the Kaiser, but did involve either ignorance of the issues or undue subservience to interested factions of voters.

So the National Security League is punished for telling the truth on the most important issue of the last half century. This is a single incident, but there have been many like it in the last few weeks. Last year is speedily forgotten; it looks as if before long people who wanted to beat Germany and worked to make that possible are going to be compelled to make public apology to the now vociferous, though lately silent, groups which did not care whether Germany won the war or not. Such things have happened in defeated nations, but this is perhaps the first instance of a victorious nation in which patriotism was so soon regarded as a misdemeanor.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

High Hopes Sadly Disappointed. All the "parlor Socialists"—the people whose admiration for the "ideals" of the Bolsheviki, the I. W. W., and other like exponents of pretty theories and doers of ugly deeds—must have read with something very much like horror the testimony given by Colonel Raymond Robins before the Overman committee. With or without reason the pink tea revolutionists have been confidently predicting that when Colonel Robins took the stand, then all the calumnies of which the dear Bolsheviki have been the victims would be refuted by a witness whose testimony could not be rejected. So they have told the critics of their favorites, and they have been waiting impatiently for the day when "the truth about Russia" would be told at last by a reputable and disinterested American observer.

Well, the day has come and their chosen authority—the witness whose testimony they are precluded from impugning—has given an account of Bolshevism in action that varies in not one essential detail from what has been said by every other American who has come back from Russia since the Leninites attained power—by every other, that is, who is not vehemently suspected of being, or at least of having been, a paid propagandist.

Colonel Robins did say, indeed, that there had been some exaggeration in the stories about Bolshevist atrocities, but that is as far as his defense of the Bolsheviki went, and of course it is no distance at all, for the stories in question could be cut down by half, or even three-quarters, and they would still leave Bolshevism nothing less or better than organized crime or systematized insanity, it is hard to say which. Perhaps the two qualities of criminality and madness are combined in about equal amounts.

Their Last Refuge Is Destroyed. Theories as to why Colonel Robins was expected to defend the Bolsheviki and as to why, instead of doing it, he made upon them one of the fiercest attacks to which they have been subjected, could be easily formulated and doubtless will be. Whether they are based on knowledge or are mere guesswork makes little difference. In either case, the fact remains that, when speaking under the obligations and with the responsibilities of a witness on the stand, he described Bolshevism as an intolerable tyranny, and his portraits of the Bolshevist leaders duplicated those that have been drawn for us before by everybody except themselves, their deluded and fanatical followers, and their hired agents. He even took away from their admirers the last ditch in which they always have taken refuge when hard pressed—the chance to say that while Bolshevism wouldn't do for other countries, it is fine for Russia, and therefore the Russians should be let entirely alone in self-determination. Colonel Robins admitted that Bolshevism is not less vicious in Russia than elsewhere, and that its results there are exactly what they would be anywhere.

Of Finding Work for Soldiers. A difficulty that ought to have been more clearly foreseen than it was by those interested in finding employment for the returning soldiers has arisen and must be met. When the United States went into the war and great numbers of young men were suddenly withdrawn from the industries and commerce of peace it was assumed that the problem of re-employment, when it came, would be solved by giving back to these men their old positions. Promises that this would be done were made freely, and no doubt sincerely, but now it is discovered, first, that to keep these promises in full would be only to create another and hardly less serious problem of non-employment, and, second, that in many instances the soldiers are not willing to go back to their old work.

Their minds have been expanded by military service—by the thinking and doing of great and exciting things instead of things small and dull—their ambitions have been raised, and they not only want better places than they had before, but they are conscious of competence to fill them.

Now, it is an unfortunate fact that well-paid and interesting work is harder to get because there is less of it than of work demanding little more than physical strength—that "dead end" positions are more numerous than those commonly described as "having a future." It seems, too, that occasionally the returned soldier's consciousness of his own increased efficiency and value fails to take into account the fact that his growth has been in the arts of war and that it is not immediately applicable in those of peace. The sad result is that, sometimes, when he gets the better place he wants he proves unable to fill it.

This, however, happens very rarely. Next to always he "makes good."

A VICTORY FOR THE LEAGUE.

Two Republican Pennsylvania Counties Turn to the President.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The victory of John H. Wilson, Democrat, in the Congressional election in the Butler-Westmoreland district of Pennsylvania is a greater triumph for the Democrats than is indicated on the surface. Except for two or three districts in Eastern Pennsylvania, the Keystone State is generally safely Republican. This has been especially true in the Butler-Westmoreland district, Mr. Wilson being only the second Democrat to be elected from that district since it was formed. In addition, he is the first Democrat from Butler County.

In the last Presidential election Westmoreland had about 30,000 votes and Butler about 10,000, and the ratio of three to one in favor of the larger county has held true, at least since 1900. The Republicans, in fact, for some time have apportioned three terms in the House to a Westmoreland County man to one term for a Butler County man. Several years ago the Westmorelandites declined to name a Butler County man when it was Butler County's turn to name a candidate. This led to some bitterness between the counties as such, and since then it has been more or less a matter of pride for those not strict party men to vote for a candidate from their own county—Westmoreland for Westmoreland and Butler for Butler. The Democrats had an arrangement similar to the Republicans regarding the naming of candidates, and Mr. Wilson is the first Democrat named from Butler in several years.

Both counties are part agricultural and part industrial. Butler is smaller in area and population and Butler, the county seat, generally decides which way the county shall go. Greensburg, the county seat of Westmoreland, however, hardly can swing Westmoreland, as there are several large mining and manufacturing centres outside the county seat. Both counties have always been known as Republican, although the Democrats have been gaining in Butler in recent years, due, perhaps, to the refusal of the Westmoreland Republicans to give the Butler County Republicans their turn in the House of Representatives.

The fact that the late Colonel R. E. Robbins carried the district by a big majority last November shows that the district was still strongly Republican, and the sudden change, even if Butler did go solidly Democratic, which is hardly probable, means that Westmoreland returned a much heavier Democratic vote than usual.

Mr. Wilson has had a brilliant career in Butler, his native county, and has served one term as District Attorney of his county. He has always been a supporter of his more famous namesake, President Wilson.

Wilson's victory, notwithstanding the other elements entering into the political situation in his district, probably was due as much to his platform of support for the President in his League of Nations plan as to any other factor, for, knowing the district from ten years of residence there, it is improbable that any other factor could have changed so many voters in six months since the previous election. It is true, however, that only about 20,000 voters in the two counties, or half the number that voted in the Presidential year of 1916, took part in the election.

A Legal Reform.

Among the bills just signed by the President is one which has often been commended in your columns and which the American Bar Association has been urging upon Congress for eight years. It enacts for the Federal courts that "in any case, civil or criminal, the court shall give judgment after an examination of the entire record before the court, without regard to technical errors, defects, or exceptions which do not affect the substantial rights of the parties." This rule was prescribed by the Supreme Court for practice in courts of equity as long ago as 1912. It is the last of a series of improvements which the association has recommended and which have been enacted.

Among the most important of these are the acts providing that equitable defenses may be interposed in action at law without the necessity of a separate action; that if a mistake has been made in bringing a suit at law which should have been in equity, or vice versa, the suit shall not be dismissed, but shall be prosecuted by proper amendment; that defects in averments of citizenship shall be amendable even on an appeal, and that a decision of a State court that an act of State legislation is in violation of the United States Constitution may be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

These reforms will greatly facilitate the speedy decision of cases upon the merits. May not the American Bar Association say with Milton: "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war"?

THE NURSE OFF DUTY.

(She Speaks to a Friend from Home.)

"I'm tired—too tired to live,
To sleep or to laugh or to cry!
I have given them all I can give,
And yet I'm too busy to die!

"I'm tired—too tired to move,
My head and my hands and my soul,
Too weary to hate or to love,
To stimulate, soothe, or console.

"I'm tired of crutches and canes,
Of bandages, medicine, dope,
Of doctors and dressings and pains,
Of sympathy, even of hope!

"Of letters to open and read,
From sister or sweetheart or wife;
The others, that question and plead,
Will haunt me the rest of my life. . . .

"I'm tired of striplings untamed—
They laugh and you love and they die!—
Of the scarred and the blind and the maimed,
And of forcing myself not to cry!

"It's the life of a dog or a slave,
This salving the wreckage of war;
You talk of 'our glorious Brave,'
But we—ah, we know what they are!

"Do I 'like it'—this game I must play?
Does a doom-haunted prisoner sing?
. . . Don't listen—I'm tired today—

"No, Doctor, quite rested—*What, Dan!
Not red-headed Dan from Duluth!
He shan't die . . . we'll save him!*"
She ran,
For of such is our Kingdom of Youth!

UNION LENTEN SERVICES.

A New Plan to Bring Various Communions Together.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you allow me through The Times to draw attention to the union services which have been planned by a committee representing various Christian organizations on five Tuesday nights of Lent? The clergy in the city have met in their respective districts to appoint churches in which these services will be held. For instance, in the Washington Square district the churches selected are as follows: Grace, Old First Presbyterian Church, Washington Square Methodist Church, Judson Memorial Church, Church of St. John the Evangelist, and the Church of the Ascension. In the Riverside district, the churches chosen are St. Michael's Church, Fourth Presbyterian Church, the Central Baptist Church, St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Church of the Advent, (Lutheran.) In the Yorkville district, the clergy have decided to have one union service in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church on Tuesday in Holy Week, April 15. Churches in which services will be held next Tuesday, March 11, are the Chapel of the Intercession, Broadway and 155th Street; St. Michael's Church, Amsterdam Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, and Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street.

Every effort has been made to plan a service in which the members of the various communions can join with absolute freedom. Therefore, there will be the familiar hymns to which we are all accustomed, and there will be short intervals for silent prayer, suggestions of which are made on the leaflet, and at the close the Lord's Prayer will be said by every one. (Copies of this service may be obtained from Dr. C. L. Goodell, 289 Fourth Avenue, at the rate of $2 a hundred.) The times for the singing of the hymns will be indicated by the playing of the organ. There will be no one in the pulpit or chancel, so that the whole congregation may feel their complete unity under the leadership of the invisible Christ.

Such services have meant much in other parts of the world in bringing Christian people together, and the hope of the committee is that through the silent prayer for unity and the silent waiting for direction there may be revealed a way to bring the scattered members of the Christian Church into closer organic fellowship.

ART NOTES.

"Expressionists" Exhibit Their Work—California Paintings.

At the Babcock Art Galleries is an exhibition of paintings by a group of artists listed under the title "Expressionists." The title is intended to convey the idea of technique used as a means to an end, the end being self-expression on the part of the artist. George Luks, with his famous "London 'Bus Driver," is the nail of the exhibition. This wonderful piece of painting is driven into the consciousness as a thing decidedly beyond technique, a human record as indestructible as the elder Weller or old Pickwick himself. But what makes it the lovable thing it is? Not, certainly, the idiosyncrasies of the vanished type, the huge flower in the buttonhole, the tie, the benignant grin, the flushed nose. All those could exist without our special wonderment. But the skill with which they are brought to our attention, the sweep of the brush, like the gesture of a Pavlowa, the airy modeling, full of breezy interludes, like the speech of the old cockney himself, the color, rich and simple and of an ancient vintage—these make the picture. If this is self-expression let us have as much of it as we can.

Sydney Dickinson is less natural. He paints a little like a critic. There is an air of looking on about his portraiture that is not that of the maker identifying himself with the thing made. But his designs are obviously charming. If he only would give himself to the lifting up of poster art he would be a benefactor, for his method is admirably adapted to telling effects and the chief aim of the poster is to tell.

Robert B. Brandegee's portrait of Cecilia Beaux expresses a deep and surely praiseworthy aversion from flattery, but why not the fine firm skin and compact head structure of the American gentlewoman in place of this bedraggled texture? The texture of a painter's product is of course his own, but a sensitive relation between subject and method is a precious asset in a portrait. Other expressionists are James Britton, Walter Griffin, Philip Hale, Eugene Higgins, Richard Kimbel, Maurice Prendergast, and Howard C. Renwick.

Paintings of California.

The catalogue of William Ritschel's exhibit at the Milch Gallery tells us that the pictures are paintings of California, but we are not too closely confined to that opulent region. The "Shell Fisher, Holland," is a good grave figure study and there is a pleasant vision of a Sabbath quiet on the East River. "A Place of Silence" is in Norway (before the war) and the Walpi Mesa, one of the strongest compositions in the group, belongs geographically to Arizona. Mr. Ritschel has seen the ocean in many phases, but he is apt to paint it as a very powerful element letting its energies lie dormant.

The American Scene.

Frank De Haven's collected works at the Ralston Galleries are pleasant records of Summer and Autumn color, of trout fishing, of loitering in woods and valleys and along slow rivers and quick brooks. They are not robust in structure, but they have an unfailing association interest for the type of good American who values the American scene most highly when it is richest in reds and yellows, the nature lover who makes the boat trip up or down the Hudson River each October "for the color" and who sees in the bright-faced maple the typical American tree. Mr. De Haven enters into his mood and gives him prodigally the effects he loves.

Chinese Art Objects Bring $4,306.

An interesting celadon pilgrim bottle brought the highest price at the opening sale of the Chinese art collection of Lai Yuan & Co. at the Anderson Galleries yesterday, going to Ponguid & Co. for $175. The same buyers paid $110 for a celadon bottle with globular body, Ming, and $105 for an iron Lohan of the same period. J. G. Kelly paid $150 for a square blue K'ang-hsi vase, R. M. Moore $110 for an enameled pottery, Ming, piece, Kwan-Yin with infant; S. F. Roth $120 for an ovoid celadon jar, Ming, and a high celadon vase of the same period went to Stern Brothers for $105. Returns for the day were $4,306. The sale will be concluded this afternoon.

PRAISE FOR WOMEN FOR WORK IN WAR

PHILIP GIBBS A SPEAKER

The work of women in both war and peace was accorded high tribute by Senator Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana, Senator William M. Calder of New York, and Philip Gibbs, the war correspondent, at a luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Commodore by the Woman Suffrage Party of New York City. Mr. Ransdell and Mr. Calder joined in predicting that it would be only a few months before the cause would win.

Mrs. Frank Potter, when the speaking had been concluded, asked to be allowed to make an announcement. She reminded the 500 women present that on Monday night German opera was again to be given in the Lexington Theatre. Hisses immediately arose from the audience, but they subsided upon the suggestion of Miss Mary Garrett Hay, who was presiding, that the best way of showing disapproval was to stay away from the opera. Mrs. Potter went on to characterize the presentation of German opera at this time as "a most insolent affront to the world." She suggested that the suffrage party might take the lead in organizing a protest.

Pressing his point, that the South was by no means solidly arrayed against woman suffrage, Senator Ransdell cited the results of a recent election in Louisiana, his own State. "The question of allowing women to vote in State matters," he said, "came up for decision, but, unfortunately, it was coupled with a congressional election. Despite that, in 51 out of 64 parishes in the rural districts, the proposition was carried by an overwhelming majority. However, the political organization in New Orleans, for reasons of its own, opposed it bitterly and as a result it was lost by a small vote. I am convinced that the sentiment of the State is for suffrage."

Mr. Ransdell then suggested that the suffrage party, if it finds it impossible to pass the original amendment, should accept a modification of it, which gives each State power to enforce it and gives Congress ultimate power to act if the State neglects to do so. This modification, the speaker said, would, for instance, be voted for by his own colleague, Senator Gay, and thus the needed one vote could be obtained immediately.

"I think we are going to win the next time," said Senator Calder. "Men are becoming convinced that women are entitled to the vote as well as men because of the impression women have made during the war. And as soon as women themselves exhibit their desire for the vote there will be no doubt of their getting it."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt devoted most of her speech to encomiums of Philip Gibbs, who sat at her side. She said there was not a single line, to her knowledge, that had appeared under or above his name that she had not read, and that he was the only man she had ever wished to meet. She explained that it was her desire to know how a man who had felt the war as he felt it looked.

"There was always among us Americans," she continued, "the anxiety as to whether America had the staying power enough to last through the war. We knew that among us were many immigrants who could not understand what the war was about. In many sections they were hotbeds of German propaganda, and their presence always gave rise to the fear that they might break our morale. But the messages of Philip Gibbs, in The New York Times, coming to us day by day, breathing the spirit of liberty, and showing that the men of all the allied countries were fighting for the lofty ideals which actuated us, meant more to this country than he can ever know.

"He was the greater interpreter, helping us to do our part. And now we are facing another enemy, a most dangerous enemy, for the most dangerous enemy in the country is that of a powerful minority group of reaction. The I. W. W. come when reaction reigns. There you find the Bolsheviki rising. And when radicalism grows strong, reaction becomes fiercer, so one breeds the other. That is the position we are in now. And those of us who are between the two must keep our heads. We are not going to stand for a government that does not progress, or for a revolution that will overturn everything. So you must think for yourselves and not be carried away by leaders. You must be more than enfranchised women; you must be emancipated citizens."

After telling how he had at times been in more danger in the militant suffragette raids in England than he had been during the four years of war on the Continent, and all because he was just a man, Mr. Gibbs said:

"In France the women were the great spiritual force behind the army. In the early days of the war they showed their superb courage as many thousands of them advanced before the oncoming hordes of Germans. Through burning villages they passed along the roads, with their carts, and furniture, and babies. They did not falter or flinch. 'It is nothing,' they would say. 'Our men are suffering ten thousand times more.'

"Their industry enabled the men to fight. They went into fields that were absolutely deserted by man. You would see them bending down over the earth, sowing the seed, and later gathering the harvest, and making the wheat into bread for the fighting men. Many of them worked in fields on the edge of the war itself. Shells fell into the fields they were harrowing. They went away, but after the bombardment was over they came back.

"And it was not only the peasants you found there, but the fine ladies. The Comtesse de Hennecart lived in a wonderful château near Albert. Her husband was a private in the army, her son an officer, and all the servants had gone to the war. She worked in the fields and milked the cows until the Germans came into range of the château and razed it to the ground. She left, taking the cattle with her. When it was over, she came back. She did not weep, but said, 'In a little while we shall drive the Germans back.'

"When the Germans broke through the British lines there began again a great tide of fugitives, mostly women. They came in their best clothes. At first I could not understand the Sunday hats and the gay colors, but I soon found out that they had discovered the surest way of saving their finery, and that was to wear it. They brought their cattle along, risking capture and death that the French armies might not lack food. That was the spirit of the French women.

"Then came other women, English and American. With a valor equal to that of the fighting men, our nurses and yours were right behind the line of battle. When the British had their backs to the wall in Flanders, and three or four thousand wounded would come in during a day and were strewn all about the hospital, while there were few nurses to attend to them, these girls worked sometimes three and four days with hardly any sleep or with no sleep at all. Some of them dropped in a dead swoon from sheer exhaustion. Night after night they would have to stand up on duty outside the hospital because of the waves of enemy airplanes that would come over to drop bombs. As a result some of these hospitals were wiped straight off the map and nothing was left but these women standing outside by their wounded. Never, through the severest bombardment, did a nurse leave her post of duty, and the men remembered that and it gave them heart.

"There was another kind of woman in France, 100,000 of them. They went over as clerks. They were 19 and 20 years old. We in England call them 'flappers,' and I think you here would speak of them as 'cuties.' They wore smart little uniforms and were prepared for any kind of work.

"One night, in the town of Abbéville, there were 12,000 of these girls. Trenches had been arranged outside the town as places of refuge if the German planes came over. One night a squadron did come, and I saw the girls march out with perfect discipline and remain there until the town was entirely wrecked. The next morning I heard that six of them had been killed. They were offered the opportunity of leaving the town but they refused it. They preferred to stay, and that was a great comfort to the men. One officer remarked, 'Thank God, the women of England are standing shoulder to shoulder with us.'

"All the men who have been through the war have come back with a new idea of the courage and faith of women. We have no more condescension for them. They are not only our equals, but are our betters."

FINDS STATES OPTIMISTIC.

Peabody Reports to Smith on Governors' Conference.

George Foster Peabody, who represented Governor Alfred E. Smith at the recent Conference of Governors and Mayors at Washington called by President Wilson to consider reconstruction problems, reported to the Governor yesterday that the conference had been thoroughly satisfactory and that he expected important results to come out of it. Mr. Peabody described the address of the Secretary of Labor as a "remarkably clear exposition of the position of the country at large respecting the conditions, and the purpose of the effort of the Administration to maintain vigorously the faith of the country in the rule of law and order as decided by the majority."

"Then, too," he declared, "the clear and illuminating statement by the Secretary of War, which dealt with the difficulties caused by the sudden signing of the armistice concerning contracts not formally executed, but vigorously in process of performance because of the patriotic spirit and confidence of manufacturers throughout the country, was a relief and encouragement to the members present, because it indicated that one of the chief difficulties which all had felt, and which you and your Reconstruction Commission in New York State had realized, was about to be overcome. The address of the Secretary of the Navy was also most cordially received, but the relation of the Navy Department to the conditions of unemployment is less important."

The general effect of the three addresses, Mr. Peabody said, was a complete confirmation of the wisdom of calling the conference. The reports from the various Governors, he added, were, with very few exceptions, "optimistic as to the purpose and power of the various States to receive back into their industries promptly all the returning soldiers and to avoid an abnormal increase of unemployment."

"It was a very natural and quite noticeable desire of the conference to see Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle," he said, "but this desire was passed on with no lack of cordial interest to his representative, who made an effective presentation to the conference of the conditions in that city and of the hopeful outcome in consequence of the courage of Mayor Hanson and the prompt response of the great body of citizens."

WANTS PEACE SIGNED SOON.

Clergyman Expresses Fear of Bolshevism in Germany.

The Rev. George B. Adams, in an address on the League of Nations at the meeting of the Theatre Assembly in the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon, said he favored making peace quickly with whatever semblance of government Germany has, before that country was disrupted by the Bolsheviki.

"I want peace so that our boys can come home," he said. "I have been a constant supporter of the President and the Government and I suppose this League is going through, but I wish things could have been done a little differently. If we could have had the delegates appointed by Congress; then, when the idea of the League came up, we could have said that we had given the best that we could and if anything was done we would stand by it. Now I don't know where I am at. I hope this will be carried through, but we are not told whether it will be or not. It may be just what we like, but if it isn't, every drop of American blood shed will have been in vain. Order can be preserved in the United States, but how can it be preserved in the League of Nations? Where are the teeth?"

"Eight nations won this war," he continued, "and among their men fighting side by side you could not tell one hero from another. Those nations form the greatest league that ever was. If they cannot say to Germany something that will stop all war for 1,000 years no League of Nations can. When they go through, then will be time to perfect the League of Nations, but until the Central Allies have come across keep your gun on your hip."

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Vice President at Large of the National W. C. T. U., told of the petition got up by women to be taken to the Peace Conference asking that officers and men of the German Army who had abused women be individually tried for the offense and that the injured women be considered as wounded in the war.

CHURCH UNITY NOT GIVEN UP

PARIS, March 6.—A Rome dispatch to The Temps quotes Mgr. Buenauti as saying that it is understood at the Vatican that the American Committee for the Union of Christian Churches has abandoned the idea of calling a world conference and has invited leaders of different Christian communities to formulate minimum programs to which they believe they must adhere in the eventuality of a union of churches.

The Rev. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church of this city, denied yesterday that the plan of holding the World Conference of Churches had been abandoned, as reported by Mgr. Buenauti. Dr. Manning declared that otherwise Bishops Charles Anderson of Chicago, Heber Weller of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Boyd Vincent of Southern Ohio, all of the Protestant Episcopal Church, would not have sailed from New York yesterday on the steamship Aquitania to obtain, if possible, the cooperation of the Vatican and the churches of the Near East in the conference.

"We have no thought of abandoning the plan," asserted Dr. Manning, "and our deputation is going to the Vatican and the Near East in the hope of perfecting arrangements for this conference. We have received the assurance of Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, on behalf of the Pope, as well as himself, of their 'most friendly interest' in the undertaking."

Dr. Manning said the time and place of the conference had not been decided on, these depending on the result of the deputation's mission abroad.

PERSIA WANTS OUR HELP.

PARIS, March 7.—Mirza Ali-Kuli Khan, Persian Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, gave a dinner last evening in honor of Secretary and Mrs. Robert Lansing and Moshaver-el-Mamalek, Persian Minister of Foreign Affairs. Many guests were present, including former Ambassador and Mrs. W. G. Sharp, Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House, General John J. Pershing, and General Tasker H. Bliss.

In an address of welcome, the Persian Foreign Minister recounted the losses of Persia during the war, and expressed the conviction that the American Government and its associates would not refuse to aid his country.

Mr. Lansing, in reply, paid a tribute to the Persians, congratulating them that an autocracy existed no more in their country, and expressed the hope that Persia and America would join hands in building "a new structure that will be eternal."

DANIELS TO CONFER ON IDEAL WARSHIP

BAKER ALSO TO BE ABSENT

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Secretary Daniels and a party of American naval experts will leave for Europe next week to discuss with allied naval officials the best type of capital warships to be built in the future, based on the lessons gained in the great war. Because of conflicting opinions on this subject among American officers the Secretary has been asked to submit a definite recommendation to the next Congress in December.

It was also learned today that Secretary Baker would sail for Europe about April 1 to close up the business operations of the American expeditionary forces. He will be absent about six weeks, and probably will arrive overseas before Secretary Daniels returns home. Thus President Wilson and the heads of both the army and navy probably will be away from the country at the same time—a situation which many officials said today was without precedent.

Secretary Daniels will be accompanied by Rear Admirals Taylor, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair; Griffin, Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering; Earle, Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, and Commander Foote, his personal aid. The party will be joined overseas by Admiral Benson, Chief of the Bureau of Operations, who is attached to the American Peace Delegation, and Vice Admiral Sims, commanding all the American naval forces in European waters.

Mr. Daniels and his party will sail from New York on the transport Leviathan a week from tomorrow and will go first to Paris to confer with the French Admiralty. Later they will visit London and Rome and probably will be away a month or more.

Differences on Ship Types.

While deductions to be drawn from war experiences on all subjects will be discussed in detail, the American Naval Mission will address itself particularly to the question of future types of capital ships. It has been the judgment of the Navy General Board, charged with fixing the military characteristics of new ships, that the United States should continue to build dreadnoughts of constantly increasing power and battle cruisers. This view is held by Rear Admiral Fletcher, Chairman of the General Board and former Commander of the Atlantic Fleet.

Admiral Mayo, now Commander of the Atlantic Fleet; Vice Admiral Sims and Rear Admiral Rodman, the three officers who have held the highest posts of the American service in the war zone, believe, however, that a composite ship, combining the speed of a battle cruiser with the gun power and armor of a battleship, should be substituted. These officers have been particularly impressed by British experiments toward a composite craft with the construction of the Hood, one of the so-called British "hush" ships.

Secretary Daniels has not taken sides in the dispute, nor have his three chief technical advisers, the men who will design and construct whatever ships may be decided upon, expressed any opinion on it. It is the Secretary's purpose to give these officers a full opportunity to go into all of the involved technical questions as to design during the trip abroad in order that he may have the benefit of their advice when it becomes necessary for him finally to determine future ship types.

Mr. Daniels was invited by the British Admiralty to visit Europe during the war, but he was unable to accept that invitation. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who will be Acting Secretary while Mr. Daniels is overseas, twice visited the war zone.

Baker to be Absent Three Weeks.

Secretary Baker made two visits to France during the war and planned a third one immediately after the signing of the armistice in order to give his personal attention to the settlement of the many big problems growing out of the presence abroad of millions of American soldiers.

The decision of President Wilson to attend the Peace Conference, however, necessitated a delay. Edward R. Stettinius, who was then in France as the personal representative of the Secretary of War, was intrusted with the negotiations looking to the disposition of the vast quantities of building material and other equipment not of a strictly military nature which had been concentrated for the army in France.

When Mr. Stettinius returned some weeks ago he reported satisfactory progress in his negotiations with the French and other Governments, but there remain many questions which must be decided by the Secretary, who has felt that he could expedite the entire matter by his personal attention to it in Europe.

The War Secretary hopes to be able to complete all the work that lies before him in France in three weeks and get back to Washington by the middle of May. While he is overseas Benedict Crowell, First Assistant to Mr. Baker, will act as Secretary of War.

LODGE WRITES ON LEAGUE.

Wants Thorough and Careful Discussion and Consideration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Republican Senators opposed to the League of Nations in its present form are kept busy answering letters from constituents. The opponents of the League take the stand that the League constitution must be thoroughly discussed from all standpoints before it is put into effect. As an example of the attitude of the Republicans, a letter which Senator Lodge of Massachusetts recently wrote to Courtenay Crocker of Boston was made public today.

"All right-thinking people earnestly desire to do everything possible to secure the future peace of the world," wrote Senator Lodge. "We all hate war and wish to make it, if we can, impossible. But we must be careful not to create a new system worse than the old and which will give rise to controversy where harmony is our object. The extreme gravity of abandoning our national system and limiting our sovereignty and our independence makes it of the most vital importance that no step be taken without the most careful consideration of the agreements which we are asked to enter into by any League of Nations that may be constituted.

"My desire is simply to have the constitution for a League, proposed by the commission of the Peace Conference, thoroughly and carefully discussed and considered."

CALLS LODGE'S PLEAS FALSE.

Just Like Those That Kept Us Out of War, Says Paris Paper.

PARIS, March 6.—"It was hand to hand with William H. Taft, who was elected President by the Republicans, that President Wilson presented himself at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York to speak on the League of Nations," says the Journal Des Debats in the course of an editorial commenting on the situation in America.

The newspaper argues that "Senator Lodge's arguments against the League of Nations are the same as those used against the entry of the United States into the war. These arguments proved false in 1917, and will have the same fate in 1919 in regard to the League of Nations."

The article concludes with an expression of the confidence in the League of Nations which has been shown by the French press during the past week, saying:

"The ancient 'European concert' has gone bankrupt and must be replaced by the institution of something more solid and more efficacious."

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Commander in Chief, in the name of the President, has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names:

Major Gen. Robert Alexander, 77th Division. For extraordinary heroism in action near Grand Pre, France, Oct. 11, 1918. During the advance in the Argonne Forest and at a time when his forces were fatigued by the stress of battle and a long period of active front-line service, Maj. Gen. Alexander visited the units in the front line, cheering and encouraging them to greater efforts. Unmindful of the severe fire to which he was subjected, he continued until he had inspected each group. His utter disregard of danger and inspiring example resulted in the crossing of the Aire and the capture of Grand Pre and St. Juvin. Home address, Mrs. Robert Alexander, wife, Willard Court, Seventeenth and Willard Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Capt. Alfred S. Griffiths, 308th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Ville Savoye, France, Aug. 19, 1918. While suffering from the effects of gas Capt. Griffiths led a liaison patrol to the flanking battalion across an open slope and under direct enemy observation, exposed during the whole journey to terrific artillery and machine gun fire. He remained on duty as Battalion Adjutant after all other officers had been evacuated because of the effects of gas, although he had been rendered temporarily speechless and blind by a severe gassing. Home address, Naomi Griffiths, wife, Amityville, Long Island, N. Y.

First Lieut. William B. Reid, deceased, 307th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Chateau de Diable, France, Aug. 27, 1918. Lieutenant Reid, while on duty as Battalion Adjutant, voluntarily led a small patrol into woods held by the enemy to ascertain the source of heavy machine gun fire which stopped the advance of his battalion. In the performance of this courageous act he was killed by enemy machine gun fire. Home address, William J. Reid, father, 3,750 Broadway, New York City.

First Lieut. Robbins L. Conn, 308th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Revillon, France, Sept. 10, 1918. Lieutenant Conn volunteered, and, with two soldiers, went on a patrol for the purpose of capturing prisoners. They crawled forward to within a few yards of the enemy lines, overpowered two sentries and succeeded in delivering them to the battalion Commander, despite the fact that the enemy put down a heavy barrage of rifle fire and fire grenades. Home address, Mrs. Martha S. Conn, mother, 360 West Fifty-fifth Street, New York, N. Y.

First Lieut. Woodruff W. Dobson, 308th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Le Moulin de L'Homme Mort, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Lieutenant Dobson volunteered and reconnoitered in front of the first line battalion to secure information regarding enemy machine guns and minenwerfers which had checked the advance of his organization. He was wounded by a sniper's bullet as he crawled back from this reconnaissance, but refused to submit to first-aid, until he made his report to the battalion Commander and informed his men of the enemy's position. Home address, Frank Dobson, father, 606 West 146th Street, New York, N. Y.

First Lieut. Robert K. Haas, 308th Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Revillon, France, Sept. 10, 1918. During the attack on Revillon, Lieutenant Haas voluntarily left his shelter and went across an open slope in full observation of the enemy and under heavy machine-gun fire to the aid of a wounded soldier, bringing him back to our lines for first-aid treatment. Home address, K. Haas, father, 7 East Sixty-ninth Street, New York, N. Y.

First Sergt. Herman J. Bergasse, Co. A, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1707565.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Binarville, France, Sept. 28, 1918. Assuming command of the company after his commanding officer had become a casualty Sergeant. Bergasse led a formidable attack on an enemy machine-gun emplacement, silencing two guns in the nest, and permitting the further advance of his battalion. Home address, Mrs. Charles Wirth, sister, 431 East Eighty-second Street, New York City.

First Sergt. Howard F. Mercer, Co. C, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1708040.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Stonne, France, Nov. 6, 1918. Voluntarily leading a patrol for a flank attack on the town of Stonne, through unusual artillery fire and exacting machine-gun fire, Sergt. Mercer, leaving his patrol, went forward alone to draw fire from the nests in order to divert the enemy's attention from the attacking patrol. Home address, Mrs. Howard F. Mercer, wife, 2,120 West Sixth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Cook Frederick Schmelz, deceased, Co. K, 114th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1281962.) For extraordinary heroism in action north of Verdun, France, Oct. 28, 1918. Cook Schmelz volunteered to take hot food to the front line troops who had not received hot food for three days. After traveling four kilometers he was fatally wounded by a bursting shell. Home address, William Schmelz, father, 190 New York Avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

Sergt. Anthony J. Kruger, Co. K, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1709796.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Wilhelmplatz, France, Sept. 29, 1918. Sergt. Kruger was ordered to take his platoon and capture a machine gun which was holding up the advance of the company and causing many casualties. Without hesitation, Sergt. Kruger, armed with an automatic pistol and with utter disregard for his personal safety, charged the machine gun, stopping only when he was rendered unconscious by two bullet wounds in the neck. Home address, Mildred Kruger, mother, 1,702 Ocean Avenue, Patchogue, L. I., N. Y.

Sergt. Joseph J. Powers, Co. E, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1708565.)—For extraordinary heroism in action near St. Juvin, France, Oct. 15 1918. After four men had been killed or wounded while attempting to deliver a message from the company commander to the rear, Sergt. Powers volunteered and carried the message through the area swept by machine-gun fire, with no regard for his personal safety. Home address, Mrs. Mary Powers, mother, 343 Waverly Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sergt. Raymond Gill, deceased, Co. D, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1708394.)—For extraordinary heroism in action near Ville Savoye, France, Aug. 24, 1918. During the advance of his company across the Vesle River, Sergt. Gill, disregarding his severe wounds, insisted on leading a patrol to capture a sniper, who was occupying a formidable position to fire on our men. While on this precarious mission, Sergt. Gill was killed. Next of kin, Mrs. Mary Gill, mother, 327 Eighth Avenue, Long Island City, N. Y.

Sergt. Joseph Robins, machine-gun company, 107th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1212534.)—For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronssoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. During the thick of the fighting against the Hindenburg Line Sergt. Robins voluntarily went forward to locate friendly troops and, in doing so, he was obliged to pass between two strongly fortified enemy nests from which a deadly fire was pouring. Despite the fact that he was badly wounded, he communicated with the infantry and returned to his position. Home address, Louis Robins, father, 128 East Eighty-sixth Street, New York City.

Corporal Irving Klein, Co. A, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1707558.)—For repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action near Binarville, France, Sept. 29, 1918, and Charlevaux, France, Oct. 3-7, 1918. On Sept. 29, after locating the position of three enemy machine guns, he succeeded in silencing one, took up a position against the other two under intense shell fire, and sent back information to his company commander which made it possible to clean out the entire nest. On Oct. 3, although wounded seriously, Corporal Klein continued to assist his men in repulsing the attack of an enemy combat patrol. Home address, Bernard Klein, brother, 121 Ludlow Street, Yonkers, N. Y.

Corporal Joseph Vedilago, deceased, Co. A, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1707556.)—For extraordinary heroism in action near Binarville, France, Sept. 28, 1918. Corporal Vedilago crawled from his shelter to get an automatic rifle, after the members of the rifle team had been killed or wounded, and, with his weapon, continued in the advance until he was killed by shell fragments. Home address, Mrs. Grace Vedilago, mother, Lotts Lane, Jamaica, L. I.

Corporal Frederick Posser, machine-gun company, 107th Infantry. (A. S. No. 266927.)—For extraordinary heroism in action near Ronssoy, France, Sept. 29, 1918. During the thick of the fighting against the Hindenburg line Corporal Posser voluntarily went forward to locate friendly troops, and in doing so he was obliged to pass between two strongly fortified enemy nests, from which a deadly fire was pouring. Despite this obstacle he communicated with the infantry, and returned to his position. Home address, Mrs. Frederick Posser, 383 First Avenue, New York City.

Private (First Class) Samuel D. Grobtuck, deceased, Co. K, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1709848.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Ville Savoye, France, Aug. 22, 1918. While carrying a message to his battalion commander asking for reinforcements, Private Grobtuck passed through the village of Ville Savoye filled with mustard gas, and was killed by shell fire while crossing an open field under direct observation of the enemy. Next of kin, Abraham Grobtuck, father, 94 Orchard Street, New York, N. Y.

Private (First Class) Joseph Usac, Co. A, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1707692.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Binarville, France, Sept. 27, 1918. Returning to the line after being wounded by a hand grenade the previous day, Private Usac persistently requested to be allowed to assist stretcher bearers in the removal of the wounded. While performing this heroic mission, constantly subjected to treacherous machine-gun and artillery fire he was again wounded. Home address, Miss Anna Usac, 150 Meeker Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Private (First Class) Joseph Wasilewski, Co. A, 114th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1279636.) For extraordinary heroism in action north of Verdun, France, Oct. 12, 1918. Throughout the entire day Private Wasilewski passed from the rear to the front line carrying food, water, and supplies to the front. During his return trips he assisted the wounded and once carried a comrade on his back. On every journey he was compelled to pass through terrific shell fire. Home address, Michael Jarewiez, cousin, 212 Passaic Street, Passaic, N. J.

Private (First Class) Edwin T. Van Duzer, Company K, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1709923.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Ville Savoye, France, Aug. 22, 1918. Private Van Duzer was a member of a combat liaison group which was attacked by liquid fire. Although severely burned, he alone charged the flame thrower and put him out of action, after which he reassembled his men and continued on duty until relieved. Home address, Mrs. Eleanor Van Duzer, mother, 232 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Private (First Class) Stephen K. Newhall, Machine Gun Company, 113th Infantry. (A. S. No. 378126.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Bois d'Estrees, France, Oct. 23, 1918. After being seriously wounded Private Newhall volunteered and carried a message through a heavy barrage to his company commander. He refused to be evacuated until his message had been delivered to the proper officer. Home address, Mrs. Lillian Osborn Topping, Hotel St. George, 51 Clark Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Private John C. Lenahan, deceased, Co. M, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1710292.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Grand Pre, France, Oct. 14, 1918. When his company was ordered to take a position along the river bank under heavy machine gun and artillery fire, Private Lenahan, acting First Sergeant, made his way from flank to flank, supervising the disposition of the troops. Despite serious wounds received, he completed his mission and reported to his company commander, dying shortly after from the effect of his wounds. Next of kin, Mrs. Lucy Lenahan, 154 Huron Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Private Algot Johnson, Co. A, 308th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1707542.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Ville Savoye, France, Aug. 26, 1918. Under heavy fire from the enemy Private Johnson, accompanied by one man, crossed the Vesle River and silenced a machine gun which was causing heavy casualties in his company. They killed one gunner and wounded the other. Home address, Oswald Johnson, brother, 515 East 184th Street, New York.

Private William T. Golden, Co. C, 113th Infantry. (A. S. No. 1278425.) For extraordinary heroism in action near Bois d'Estrees, France, Oct. 23, 1918. After his company had been forced to retire about 100 meters on account of a heavy barrage on its position Private Golden worked his way through heavy shell and machine-gun fire to the position formerly held and succeeded in bringing a wounded comrade to a place of safety. Home address, Mrs. Elizabeth Golden, mother, 24 Second Street, Newark, N. J.

HAROLD S. VANDERBILT HOST

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 7.—Harold S. Vanderbilt gave a dinner tonight at the Beach Club for Miss Mary Brown Warburton and Miss Eleonora Sears. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Van Riper gave a dinner for members of the younger set.

Mrs. Joseph E. Widener gave one of the largest dinners of the season.

Hosts at some of the other of tonight's dinners were Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich, Edward C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frazier, and Legrand Cannon.

Colonel Robert M. Thompson arrived from Miami yesterday on board his houseboat Everglades, and is here for the rest of the season. He is devoting most of his time to golf this Winter. The Colonel was a striking figure at the golf and tennis ball last night in evening clothes of white broadcloth in the conventional patterns for which black is always used.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hine chartered the houseboat My Own yesterday and left with a party of their friends aboard for Miami and the fishing grounds to the south. They gave a large farewell tea in the Cocoanut Grove.

Edward T. Stotesbury left for Philadelphia tonight on his private car to attend to some business, and it was doubtful if he would be able to return. Mrs. Stotesbury is remaining here with her two sons, James H. R. Cromwell and Eaton Cromwell.

James Byrne of New York, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Sheila Byrne, and Miss Frances Murray, have taken an apartment at the Everglades Club for the rest of the Winter.

Engagements.

Mrs. John W. Dyar of Detroit, Mich., has announced the engagement of her daughters, Miss Elizabeth Dilworth Loomis, to Percival Dodge, son of Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of 563 Park Avenue, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Sproul of 222 Riverside Drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Sproul, to Captain Adrien de Pachmann of the Paris Bar and a member of the French High Commission in the United States. Captain de Pachmann is the son of Vladamir de Pachmann, the pianist.

Thomas H. Rossbottom, Assistant to the Vice President of the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Bertha Wilmot Rossbottom, to Franklin A. Swathel of Stamford, Conn., who recently received his discharge from the navy.

Daughter to Mrs. F. de Morenschildt.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Washington friends of the late Frederick de Morenschildt, who died in New York on Wednesday last, and of his widow, who was formerly Miss Nona McAdoo, learned today that a daughter was born to Mrs. de Morenschildt on the same day her husband died.

MAETERLINCK WEDS MLLE. RENEE DAHON

A POPULAR PARIS ACTRESS

Romance of Eight Years of Poet, 58, and Bride, 26—She Became Famous at Tyltyl in "Blue Bird."

NICE, March 7, (Associated Press.)—Maurice Maeterlinck, the Belgian playwright, several days ago married Renée Dahon, a young woman of Nice, it became known today. Maeterlinck has been a resident of Nice for the last ten years.

The marriage took place at Château Neuf-de-Contes, a small village twelve miles from Nice, with the strictest privacy. Only four villagers were present as legal witnesses.

It crowns a romance which commenced eight years ago. Maeterlinck is fifty-eight years old and his bride twenty-six. Maeterlinck was divorced from his former wife, Madame Georgette Le Blanc, five weeks ago.

News of Maurice Maeterlinck's marriage to Mlle. Renée Dahon was received without surprise here tonight by Henry Russell, close friend of the poet-dramatist, and American representative of the Inter-Allied Art Association under whose auspices the Maeterlinck plays are produced.

Mr. Russell said that Maeterlinck had been divorced quietly in Paris a few weeks ago by Madame Georgette Le Blanc Maeterlinck, actress and dramatist, and that he had known for some time of the poet's attraction to Mlle. Dahon.

The bride, according to Mr. Russell, is popular in Paris as an actress, having become famous several years ago as Tyltyl in Maeterlinck's drama, "The Bluebird." The former Madame Maeterlinck appeared with Mlle. Dahon at that time, taking the rôle of Light.

The divorce, according to Mr. Russell, has necessitated a change in the cast of Maeterlinck's new play, "A Burgomaster of Belgium," which is to open at the Little Theatre March 18, as the poet's first wife withdrew from the company upon applying for a divorce. She was widely known as an actress in the United States, having created the rôle of Maeterlinck's "Mélisande" in Boston several years ago.

Maurice Maeterlinck, sometimes called the Belgian Shakespeare, was born in August, 1862. After a collection of verses, ("Serres Chandes,") published in 1889, he wrote a number of dramas and essays of a symbolical and philosophical type. He has deeply studied the mystical writers of all ages, and his works are tinged with mysticism. His plays are always concerned with spiritual issues and with actions as they might be seen in dreams. His work is of the psychological order, like that of Edgar Allan Poe. To him the ultimate aim of existence is the development and disclosure of the human soul. The stage has been made by him at once pictorial and subjective.

H. A. Flurscheim's Will.

Hermann A. Flurscheim, who went into partnership with Franklin Simon in the firm of Franklin Simon & Co. in 1902 and died on Aug. 4, 1914, left an estate appraised yesterday at $1,003,581. He gave $10,000 to charities and left the bulk of the estate to his sons, Bernard H. and Harry D. Flurscheim; his daughters, Mrs. Helen I. Strauss, Mrs. Estelle Loeb, and Mrs. Agnes V. Cowen, and his granddaughter, Madeline Lindauer. The bulk of his estate consisted of his half interest of $936,291 in Franklin Simon & Co.

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. BY A. STEIN & COMPANY CHICAGO

Mothers of America:

YOU know your family is happier, more contented and better able to produce good work—be it in school or business—if home surroundings are pleasant and comfortable. So you make your home an ideal one.

That's just what we've done for our large business family of a thousand happy workers. We've established the largest and most ideal garter factory in the world. Our girls are well cared-for, well paid and well satisfied. They not only work here—they live here eight hours a day.

We've made this business home of ours the sort that you'd be willing to have your daughter work in and the kind that our own children would be proud to remember us by. We've strived for the ideal. That spirit, we believe, you find reflected in our merchandise.

That's one reason why Hickory Garters are so distinctly superior in comfort, service and value.

Think how glad the wife's going to be when you tell her that instead of paying a fat fee for a custom tailor's label, you came here, and that the saving thus made on your new Spring suit is "velvet" for her.

A size for every build.

Big Six Accepts Terms to Act as Assistant and Coach for This Season.

McGRAW PLANS TO RETIRE

Selects Successor So That After This Year He Can Devote His Time to Business End of Game.

Christy Mathewson, who for more than fifteen years was the pitching idol of New York baseball fans, will some day be manager of the Giants. Manager McGraw announced yesterday that Matty had accepted terms to act as his assistant and coach the young pitchers. McGraw will stay at the helm this season and perhaps next, but he says that he has almost come to the end of his managerial career after nearly twenty years in the major leagues and is anxious that his successor should be the player who perhaps stands higher in the estimation of baseball fans than any other man the game has ever produced.

Matty's decision to become McGraw's first lieutenant and coach for the pitchers is welcome news to frequenters of the Polo Grounds. It has always been his ambition to become a leader of the New York Club when his active days on the diamond were finished. He considers New York his home, all his friends are here, and he never can forget the unstinted admiration which the crowds under Coogan's Cluff have showered upon him in the past. It is expected that Matty will sign his contract very soon and will be ready to go to Florida and start the training season wtih the club which will always be closest to his heart.

Not only is Big Six highly pleased to get to New York, but Manager McGraw is overjoyed to think that he is so fortunate in providing for the future of his club. No one knows McGraw's methods and strategy on the baseball field as well as Matty. The big pitcher was always close to the manager through his long career as a pitcher. Mathewson takes the place as assistant manager with the express purpose of being groomed for the Giant leadership.

As Vice President of the club, McGraw's executive duties have been increased to such an extent that he will not have the time to manage the team and also run the business affairs of the club. President Charles A. Stoneham has so many outside business interests that the bulk of the responsibility of running the club will rest on McGraw's shoulders. After a season or so as assistant, it is believed that Matty will step into McGraw's shoes and take up the managerial reins.

Mathewson is 38 years old. He first became a pitcher at Keystone Academy in Pennsylvania and later at Bucknell. After leaving college, Matty pitched for a time in Taunton in the New England League. For a time he pitched in Norfolk in the Virginia League, and came to New York in 1900. He went back to the minor leagues and rejoined the New York Club in 1901, the year McGraw came here from Baltimore to manage the Giants. McGraw was responsible for Matty coming back to the New York Club. He was drafted by Cincinnati and then came back here in a trade which involved Amos Rusie.

Matty's first major league appearance was against Brooklyn and he was batted out of the box, the Giants losing the game, 13 to 7. He was relieved by Doheny. His greatest year was in 1908, when he won 37 games and lost 11.

During the season of 1917 Mathewson went to Cincinnati as manager. While at the helm in Redland, the club finished higher than ever before in the major leagues, and Big Six displayed his ability at working pitchers. Mathewson is as high a type of professional baseball player as the game has ever known. His deportment on the field has always been held up as an example for other players, and winning or losing, the Big Train never was an umpire baiter. He has always displayed the highest type of sportsmanship and was as good a loser as he was a winner. As a pitcher Matty had the heart of a lion and many of his pitching battles are classics in the game's history.

It has been said that there was bad feeling between Matty and Hal Chase, who will play first for the Giants this season. Last August Matty brought charges against Chase and suspended him. Chase was exonerated after a hearing before President John A. Heydler of the National League. In regard to the Chase matter, Mathewson says that he never had any trouble or words with Chase while he was manager in Cincinnati. He says the only charge he ever made against the player was for indifferent playing, something which at one time or another can be made against almost any baseball player. Matty says that one or two players made charges against Chse which were of such a nature that it was his duty as manager to bring them to the attention of the proper authorities. But as for any ill-feeling between Matty and Chase, there seems to be no ground for the assertion.

Ferdie Schupp, who two seasons ago was the best pitcher on the Giants' staff, has signed his contract for the coming season, and says that his pitching arm seems to be in as good shape as ever. Schupp was useless as a pitcher last season because of a soreness in his shoulder. The long rest has evidently brought about a cure, and McGraw expects that the talented young southpaw will again take his place among the club's best boxmen.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees snared another valuable player when he went to Philadelphia yesterday and signed Bob Shawkey to a contract. Shawkey promises to be his most valuable pitcher during the coming season. Huggins then went on to Trappe, Md., where he expected to see Frank Baker last night, and it may be known today just what the slugger expects to do. He has announced his retirement, but Huggins believes that he will be at the dizzy corner for the Yanks again.

The Chicago Cubs got some welcome news yesterday when they learned that Grover Cleveland Alexander, their $50,000 pitcher, left Kyllburg, Germany, on March 6 and is now on his way home. It is expected that Alex will be back before the Spring training season in California is over. He will be mustered out of the service when he arrives in this city. Alexander was with the 89th Division of the Army of Occupation. He was a member of the field artillery. His battery saw real action before St. Mihiel. After that engagement Alex was made a Sergeant. His return to the Cubs will give the Chicago club the most formidable pitching staff in the National League.

STEEPLECHASERS LICENSED

Hunts Association Issues Certificates for Coming Season.

Announcement of the distribution of licenses to trainers, gentlemen riders and jockeys, at a meeting of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, was made yesterday. Certificates for gentlemen riders were granted to Ward Wittindale and William R. Martin. The trainers licensed included Garner Diggs, William L. Oliver, James W. Healey, and James Bodan. The officials, in distributing their jockeys' licenses, acted favorably on the applications of Shelton Turner, Clarence Jones, Wallace Taylor, J. Brown, A. Fitzgerald, and B. Haynes.

The Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association, operating at Havre de Grace, Maryland, and the Queens County Jockey Club at Aqueduct, were granted permission to conduct steeplechase events during the coming season.

HUSTON LOSES TITLE.

Huston	4	2
Lord	4	2
Allison	2	4
Morton	1	5

CHICAGO, March 7.—Three games played today in the national amateur balk-line championship at the Chicago Athletic Association left Dave McAndless of the Chicago Athletic Association and Percy Collins of the Illinois Athletic Club as the remaining contestants for the title. They will meet tomorrow afternoon, and Collins will have to defeat the Cherry Circle player to tie him, and in this event they will play off at night.

Corwin Huston's last chance of retaining the title went glimmering when he fell an easy victim to Collins at night, 300 to 138. He cannot finish better than fourth, as Lord has scored more points than he, while in the event of Collins losing to McAndless, Lord will go to second place, as he will have more points than Collins. Only ties for first place are played off.

The other winners yesterday were Robert M. Lord, who defeated J. E. Cope Morton 300 to 212, and H. C. Allison of Detroit, who went into fifth place by defeating Percy P. Trump of Pittsburgh 300 to 281.

The scores:

Collins—4 7 29 8 0 1 0 12 5 4 0 3 0 3 0 25 7 19 24 28 30 24 1 0 5 1 14 0 1 1 0 44—300. Average—9 22-32. High run—44.

NEWMAN WINS AT ANGLES.

Defeats Donnelley in Three-Cushion Match, 30 to 18.

A. Newman and Sam Estabrook were winners yesterday in the New York State amateur three-cushion carom billiard championship tournament being conducted under the auspices of the N. A. A. B. P. at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. Newman defeated J. Donnelley in the afternoon game by a score of 30 to 18, in sixty-five innings. Both players made high runs of three points.

In the evening Estabrook and J. Conner played over ninety-two innings before Estabrook was returned the winner by the close score of 30 to 28. Both contestants returned high runs of three points.

NEUSTADT LOSES AGAIN.

Bows to Matthews in Handicap Balkline Tourney.

Joseph Neustadt, national amateur Class C 18.2 balkline billiard champion, was defeated by Charles P. Matthews last night in the invitation handicap 18.2 balkline tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn. The title holder was in receipt of a handicap of forty points, but failed to make any headway against the superb playing of Matthews. The latter took the game by 180 to 112 in thirty-three innings.

GREENLEAF HAS BIG LEAD.

Defeats Concannon Twice in Pocket Billiard Match.

Ralph Greenleaf took two blocks from Joseph Concannon yesterday in their pocket billiards match at Daly's Academy, and now has a comfortable lead. The total score is 1,000 for Greenleaf to 793 for Concannon.

The afternoon game was a close affair, with Greenleaf ahead at the close by 100 to 91. In the evening game he won by the score of 100 to 71. The high runs were 42 for Greenleaf and 37 for Concannon in the afternoon. In the evening, Greenleaf made a high run of 74. Concannon's best effort was 45.

CARHART WILL PLAY HARVEY FOR TITLE

Harold W. Carhart of the Yale Club reached the final round in the national Class B squash tennis tournament at the Harvard Club yesterday by defeating his clubmate, S. Wainwright, easily in straight games, 15—8, 15—7. Carhart will match his skill with the racquet against the fast Princeton Club player, H. D. Harvey, in the final tilt this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The match should be the best of the tournament for both are careful, steady players and have displayed unusual ability in battling their way through the field of fifty-two players to the top.

Carhart had yesterday's match with his clubmate in hand at all times. In every trick of the fast court game he was the superior of Wainwright. He was steady and seldom failed on his returns. The consistency of his game wore his opponent down, and although Wainwright made desperate attempts to fool his opponent with terrific drives, Carhart was remarkably cool and his eye was always on the ball.

PENN FIVE BEATS CORNELL.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 7.—By a rapid-fire offensive in the second half that swept Cornell off her feet, Penn defeated the Ithacans by the score of 25 to 11 in an intercollegiate basket ball game here tonight. The first half was hard fought, each team giving a fine exhibition of defensive play, and Cornell leading when time was called by the score of 6 to 5. Davis and McNichol had scored field goals for the Quakers, while Ortner's one field goal and four foul goals made up Cornell's tally.

In the second period the Quakers opened up a smashing attack that bewildered the Ithacans. McNichol and Sweeney shot two baskets almost as soon as the game opened, and then Stannard and Sweeney came through for two more. Penn ran the score up to 22 to 9 before the Ithacans could intervene and then Ortner broke into a Penn pass and tossed a basket from the centre of the floor. McNichol came back with two more baskets and put the game on ice for the visitors. The Quakers excelled in the passing game, particularly in the second half. Captain Ortner starred for Cornell.

Pennsylvania.	Position.	Cornell.
Sweeney	R.F.	Ortner
Stannard	L.F.	Stewart
Davis	C.	Molineu
McNichol	R.G.	Kennel
Peck	L.G.	Sidman

Field goals—McNichol, (4,) Sweeney, (3.) Davis, Peck, Ortner, (2,) Stewart. Foul goals—Sweeney, (7,) Ortner, (5.) Referee—Joe Doering, Manhattan. Umpire—Mr. Hide of Springfield. Time of periods—Twenty minutes.

WILL NOT DEFEND TITLE.

Miss Bjurstedt Not in Women's Indoor Tennis Championship.

It is not expected that Miss Molla Bjurstedt will be among the entries for the women's indoor tennis tournament which will begin at the Seventh Regiment Armory on Monday. The Norse girl won the title last year. She is now playing at Palm Beach and her entry has not been receievd. The entries will close at 12 o'clock today. From present indications neither Miss Marie Wagner nor Miss Eleanor Goss will play in the singles, although they may play in the doubles. The winners of the doubles title last season were Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Miss Goss.

Among the fifty or more entries for the women's indoor championship, however, will be Mrs. George H. Wightman of Boston, who was a three times winner of the national outdoor championship. This will be the first time she has played in the indoor event. Miss Marion Zinderstein, also of Boston, is among the entries, as is also Mrs. Stuart Green of Ardsley.

HAGEN PLAYS GOOD GOLF.

STYLES IN GOLF FINAL.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 7.—Edward Styles of the Washington Golf Club and Dwight L. Armstrong of Oakmont will meet in the final of the Spring tournament of Pinehurst tomorrow. Both players won their matches by very slim margins today. Styles was 2 down to T. J. Moran of Rhode Island at the fourteenth, and although squared the match at the sixteenth and finally won it by 2 up.

Armstrong playing against Louis A. Hamilton of Garden City was 1 down at the turn, but by dint of playing the next eight holes in 21, the Oakmont player managed to win out by 2 and 1. After the semi-finals were finished, the two finalists played off their tie for the qualifying medal. Styles winning by a margin of six strokes.

First Sixteen.—D. L. Armstrong, Oakmont, beat L. A. Hamilton, Garden City, 2 and 1; Edward Stiles, Washington Golf, beat T. J. Moran, Rhode Island, 2 up.

Beaten Eight.—Donalld Parson, Chevy Chase, beat W. B. Fuller, Worcester, 6 and 4; W. E. Truesdell, Garden City, beat Joe Byddk, Buffalo, 1 up.

MARTIN'S GOAL WINS GAME.

Hockey teams of Boys' High School and New Utrecht H. S. battled to a 1 to 1 tie, and Manual Training H. S. skaters defeated the Flushing H. S. sextet, by 1 to 0, in the two games played last night in the hockey championship tournament at the Brooklyn Ice Palace.

A goal by Martin in the second period, after five minutes and fifty seconds of play, put the game against Flushing on ice for the Manual team. Previous to this score, and thereafter to the final whistle, the teams competed in one of the closest games of the tournament. Several times the play, shifting frequently, was dangerously near producing goals, but the defensive work of the two goal keepers and the concentrated efforts of the other members of the teams prevented a score.

The Boys'-New Utrecht clash was almost equally keenly contested. The deadlock gave the Boys' sextet their first point of the tournament, for they had gone through five games previously without a success.

Conroy of Boys', on a brilliant straight shot in the opening period after 3 minutes and 12 seconds of play, made the first tally. In a lively scrimmage another Boys' goal was narrowly sidetracked.

After 11 minutes and 23 seconds of play Edwards of New Utrecht, on a pass from Williamson, scored the goal which enabled New Utrecht to get an even break in the wrangle.

Schevenel Wins Balkline Match.

E. G. Schevenel triumphed over M. Muldane last night at Osborne's Academy in the 18.2 balkline billiard tournament of the A. A. B. A. by the score of 200 to 170. Schevenel made a high run of 22 and averaged 5 15-37. Muldane's high was 18 and he averaged 4 26-36.

ATHLETIC MARVELS TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Record breaking performances are predicted for this evening when the first post-war senior national A. A. U. indoor athletic championship games will be conducted at the 13th Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. Advance reports from the offices of Frederick W. Rubien, Chairman of the National Championship Committee, indicate that the meet will surpass all those of previous years.

Joie Ray, the sturdy little Illinois A. C. runner, is expected to erase an indoor mark in defending his 1,000-yard indoor title. Ray, in winning this title last year, covered the distance in 2:14, equalling the mark set by the late Lieutenant John W. Overton, the former Yale runner, in 1917. Against Ray will be pitted Tom Campbell of Chicago, Homer Baker of the Glencoe A. C., Clyde Stout of Chicago, Dave Caldwell of Boston, and Jack Sellers of the New York A. C., local champion. This competition is looked upon as the most important of the meet. The A. A. U. officials have, therefore, set 8:20 o'clock as a definite starting time for the four and one-half laps journey Many of the competitors will strive for the 600-yard title later in the evening.

Many of the country's leading athletes will compete for titles in the 60 yards dash, 300 yards run, 600 yards run, 70 yards hurdles race and two-mile run. Gordon Nightingale of New Hampshire State College, Max Bohland, Paulist A. C., national hill and dale titleholder; C. E. Leath of the Boston A. A., W. N. Cummings of the University of Pennsylvania, Harry Wigger, Paulist A. C., and J. Lieberman are among the prominent starters in the two-mile run. In the two-mile walk Eddie Renz of the New York A. C., Win J. Rolker, a clubmate; Louis Labowitz, Pastime A. C.; Kurt Zulch, and Alex Jessup will compete for the title. All of these heel-and-toe athletes have won national titles in the past.

The field events, standing high and broad jump, running high jump, and 16-pound shot put, have all attracted promising entries, including those of many past and present champions. The medley relay title race also promises interesting competition. Relay teams of local high schools will compete for the P. S. A. L. title in an additional event at one mile.

The time schedule adopted is as follows: 8 P. M., 60-yard dash, trials; running high jump, putting 16-pound shot, standing high jump; 8:20, 1,000-yard run; 8:30, 60-yard dash, finals; 8:40, 300-yard run, trials; 9, 70-yard hurdles, trials; 9:10, standing broad jump; 9:15, two-mile run; 9:30, 300-yard run, final; 9:45, one-mile high schools relay championship; 10, 600-yard run; 10:15, 70-yard hurdles, final; 10:30, 2-mile walk; 11, medley relay championship.

Tentative dates for the Columbia golf team, which won all but one of its matches last season, were announced yesterday. The team will practice over the Garden City links, and it is expected that the completed schedule will include a dozen or more matches. A. D. Walker, Jr., Captain of the team, has as a nucleus of his squad E. D. Rohdenburg, who played last season, and J. T. Tunis, an experienced player from Massachusetts, while among the prospective candidates are M. L. Van Raalte, J. L. Church, and R. J. Lincoln. The tentative dates are: April 30, Yale; May 9, Williams; May 12, Princeton, and May 17, Pennsylvania.

BIDDLE WINS HARD MATCH.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 7.—Craig Biddle of Philadelphia put up a hard fight today in the semi-finals of the annual tennis tourney to dispose of Carlton Shafer of the same city and win the right to face Fred Harris of Brattleboro, Vt., for the championship. Biddle won 6—2, 11—9. The second set was a heart-breaker for both, both showing unmistakable signs of distress in the eighteenth game. At one time Shafer was within 1 point of winning.

Men's Doubles.—Fred C. Inman and Artemus Holmes, New York, defeated Frederick Frelinghuysen, New York, and G. Carlton Shafer, Philadelphia, 7—5, 6—3.

Mixed Doubles.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt, New York, and Fred Harris, Brattleboro, Vt., defeated Mrs. Reginald Boardman, New York, and Q. A. McKean, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—2; Mrs. L. G. Morris, New York, and G. S. Bryan, Bridgeport, Conn., defeated Miss Annette Tilford, Tuxedo, and Stanley G. Mortimer, Tuxedo, 6—1, 3—6, 6—2; Mrs. E. B. Remer, New York, and Artemus Holmes, New York, defeated Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Shipps, New York, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Fred Harris defeated Mrs. L. G. Morris and G. S. Bryan, 6—3, 6—0.

EASY FOR PENN IN TANK.

C. C. N. Y. Swimmers Win Only One Event in Dual Meet.

The University of Pennsylvania defeated the College of the City of New York last night in a dual swimming meet in the latter's pool by 36 points to 17. The Quakers annexed all except one first place, the dive for form going to Garvey of the local college.

Bringhurst of the Quaker team fought out a pretty duel with Lehrman for first honors in the furlong. In the push-off on the last leg, Lehrman sprinted when three yards behind and pushed the visiting amphibian to the limit to come under the wire a bare foot to the fore.

200-Foot Relay.—Won by University of Pennsylvania, (Morris, Livingston, Bringhurst, Leopold;) second, College of the City of New York, (Lehrman, Benjamin, Ashworth, Beehr.) Time—2:10 3-5.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by Leopold, University of Pennsylvania; second, Morris, University of Pennsylvania; third, Beehr, College of the City of New York. Time—0:27.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 7.—Yale's basket ball five conquered Wesleyan tonight by the score of 45 to 13. The home quintet recorded 11 points before the visitors tallied, and led, 25 to 8, at intermission.

Van Slyck, Intercollegiate high scorer, added 20 points to his season's total, seven more than the entire Wesleyan count. Captain Stradella's goal in the first half was the longest of the season, lodging in the hoop from the distant backfield. Robinson's all round play excelled for the visitors. Hamill's exhibition was his most brilliant play of the season.

Horton	R.F.	Robinson
Van Slyck	L.F.	Travis
Hamill	C.	Ryalls
Stradella	R.G.	Dixon
Alderman	L.G.	Parsons

C. C. N. Y. TO PLAY N. Y. U.

City College Five Closes Season with Game Tonight.

The basket ball team of the College of the City of New York will wind up the season tonight against the New York University five on the former's court. Nat Krinsky will resume his position in the lineup. Krinsky sprained his foot in the Syracuse encounter. Fliegel, 'Varsity guard, will undoubtedly play despite reports that an attack of influenza would keep him out.

Columbia Swimmers Meet Penn.

The Columbia 'Varsity swimming and water polo teams will face the Pennsylvania swimmers in a dual match in the pool on Morningside Heights tonight. It will be the next to the last home meet of the season for the Blue and White watermen.

ROBINS WOULD LET RUSSIA ALONE

ACCUSES CZECH TROOPS

Says They Shot Down in Cold Blood People of Villages They Captured.

RUSSIAN WITNESS HEARD

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Colonel Raymond Robins, the former head of the American Red Cross Mission to Russia, who yesterday denounced Russian Bolshevism as the greatest menace now facing the world, concluded his testimony today. He was subjected to a three-hour cross-examination by Senators Overman, Sterling, and Nelson, and Major Humes, counsel for the committee.

Colonel Robins referred to Bolshevism as "the beast," but maintained that the Russians should be left to settle the thing their own way. He opposed allied intervention. At times Colonel Robins defended the Bolsheviki to the extent of expressing a disbelief in the stories of atrocities they have been accused of committing by other witnesses, some of them Federal officers who left Russia months subsequent to Colonel Robins's departure.

At one point Colonel Robins denounced the atrocities he clamed had been committed by the Czechoslovaks. He said that these troops had captured villages and then lined the people up against the wall and shot them down in cold blood, without even the formality of trial. When Senator Nelson asked Colonel Robins what the nature of his "mission" in this country was at the present time, Colonel Robins indignantly denied that he was engaged in any support of any kind for Bolshevism here or elsewhere.

Nelson, "appears to be to have the United States keep hands off and let the Russians do as they will."

After Colonel Robins concluded Gregory A. Martusaine, who was Vice President of the first All-Russian Soviet and is now in this country as a commercial representative of the Anti-Bolshevist Government of Northern Russia, took the stand. He left Russia six months after Colonel Robins did. In practically every instance he differed with Colonel Robins as to the state of affairs in Russia, and declared that far from supporting Bolshevism the great mass of peasant Russia was sick and tired of Bolshevism and praying for its downfall and the institution of a Constitutional Government patterned after the Government of this country.

Humes Questions Robins.

"Colonel Robins," said Major Humes, when the hearing was resumed, "in order that we can understand your viewpoint, and possibly I have been too obtuse to catch it, I would like to ask you as to the degree, in your opinion, and based on your observations, of contentment on the part of the peasants of Russia under existing conditions in that country. I understood you to say yesterday that they were contented and that for the first time in their history they were now enjoying the fruits of their own labor. Did I understand you correctly?"

"You did not," was the reply. "I said that as a result of the distribution of land by the Soviet Government the peasants had for the first time enjoyed the fruits of the land without having to pay rent for that land, and in this connection I asked the question if it was not reasonable to suppose that, under such conditions, they would defend the Soviet that had given them the land? The Soviet is distinct from the Bolsheviki and it might just as well be in power under the Mensheviki."

"Now, Colonel Robins," said Senator Nelson, "is it not a fact that the only form of Government in Russia is manifested in the decrees issued from the central Bolshevist headquarters in Petrograd, and is it not true that these are the decrees of an oligarchy, and not of a duly constituted democratic government?"

"Every decree," Colonel Robins answered, "must be ratified by the All-Russian Soviet and the Executive Committee, the last-named the body that elects the commissaires."

"The Bolsheviki have been described as a political party. Now, what I would like to know is, is there any way at the present time by which the Russian people can get rid of Trotzky and Lenine without a revolution?" Senator Overman asked.

"I think so certainly. A majority of the people can do it. In a talk I had with Lenine I remarked that many considered him a dictator who was retaining control by force. He replied that under existing conditions it was necessary to use force to an extent, and added that he was a dictator for the reason, as he put it, 'that I have behind me the mass will of the people.' The moment he lost that support, Lenine said, he realized his power would be gone. When the people cease to support Lenine and Trotzky they will be driven from power. The theory of the Soviet Government is that every three months the All-Russian Soviet must meet and pass on the decrees of the Commissaires. So if a majority against Lenine and Trotzky should be in the All-Russian Soviet that majority would elect other leaders. This is one way to change the Government. The other way is by force, and there are 12,000,000 rifles in Russia and machine guns, too."

"Have you been into the Russian villages and seen these rifles and machine guns you refer to?" asked Senator Sterling.

"I know there were rifles in the towns we visited. Further than that I cannot testify of my own knowledge. But I do know that all counter-revolts have been repelled by the local populations and not by rifles sent from Petrograd or Moscow."

"Is it not true that great numbers of Russians would have joined the Czechoslovaks but could not do so because they had no arms or ammunition?" Senator Sterling asked.

"I do not know that to be the case, Senator."

Would Investigate Conditions.

"If I found that the Bolsheviki would be the Russian Government for a considerable time, I should recommend that we recognize them and try to deal with them. I should like to see a commission go there and get an actual picture of conditions."

"Don't you think that if Bolshevism succeeds in Russia they will try and spread it all over the world, and would you not regard it therefore as a menace to America, England, France, and the rest of the civilized world?"

"Then, why," asked Senator Nelson, "do you want to nurse that menace along in Russia?"

"Not at all, Sir. That is not my position. There is in this situation so much partisanship and so much bias, that I think we should get the truth. I am perfectly willing that the people of Russia should have any sort of government they want."

"So, boiled down, your opinion is that if the Russians want that sort of Government, they should have it?"

"Yes, Sir."

"Yesterday," said Senator Sterling, "you denounced Bolshevism and yet you want to see the menace of it and all that it implies work its way in Russia. Instead of excusing it, as you seem to do, would it not be more in accord with humanity and law and order to discourage it rather than permit it to go on and threaten the rest of the world. It seems to me you are inconsistent. How about it?"

"I do not want to make excuses. I desire to tell the actual truth. I think what has actually happened in Russia is of the greatest moment. I think that to know your disease and then to intelligently apply the cure is the sound way to proceed."

"There was a cure that was advocated and was adopted. It was the cure of intervention. That cure deepened and strengthened Bolshevism in Russia. Its application created a questionable position in England and France and even in Canada, and it also created resentment here in America."

"Suppose then," said Senator Overman, "that it is established by the testimony of men of the highest character that there are murder and rape and starvation in Russia under the Bolsheviki, would you think that under such circumstances the United States should follow a policy of hands off?"

"I would favor civilization aiding any people who are held in subjection by bayonets and against their will. But I am against the use of troops based on a false judgment of the facts in the case. I believe that the use of such power will raise a feeling of class division in this and other countries."

"Lord Milner of England has stated," said Senator Sterling, "that the Allies and America sent their men to Russia because of the betrayal of Russian resources to Germany, because of the surrender of the Black Sea fleet to the Germans, their treacherous attitude toward the Czechoslovaks whom we were in honor bound to support, and because their treachery made possible the sending of hundreds of thousands of Germans from the east to fight in the west. Do you deny that the Bolsheviki treacherously attacked the Czechoslovaks?"

"I do."

"Did they not disarm the Czechoslovaks?"

"There was some disarmament."

"And afterward they were attacked by order of Trotzky and Lenine and those worthies acted under orders from Germany; is that right?"

"I refuse now and for all time to be placed in the position of defending murder, violence, or the commission of other atrocious acts. Here in America I have found a bitter resentment against the revolutionary Government in Russia, a resentment much more bitter than was that entertained here against Black Mondays under the Czar. I find the atrocities of the Bolsheviki denounced more bitterly than are the atrocities that were committed by the Czechoslovaks when they took whole villages and stood the people up and shot them down without trial. This form of resentment won't answer the challenge of Bolshevism."

Bolshevism Menace of the Age.

"Again I ask, do you consider Bolshevism a menace to the whole world?" Senator Overman demanded.

"The menace of the age. The question of recognition does not rest on the character of a Government. Whether or not it is the Government of a people is the only question for a foreign Government to decide. I am opposed to blinding ourselves as to actual conditions in Russia. My whole contention is that we are dealing with a disease, and that we should try and find out what the disease is."

In answer to another question by Senator Overman as to whether or not he thought the committee should give serious consideration to the testimony of Mme. Breshkovskaya and men like Mr. Huntington and Mr. Simmons of the American Embassy as to the awful conditions in Russia, Col. Robins admitted that they were reputable witnesses. He remarked, however, that after the treaty of Brest-Litovsk was ratified, every allied military attaché agreed in a conference to help train the Red Army so as to help in opposing Germany, and that he knew the allied embassies at Vologda were against intervention.

Mr. Martiushin's Story.

Mr. Martiushin followed Colonel Robins. He said he left Russia Nov. 2, last. In answer to questions by Senator Nelson, he said that he was the son of a peasant and the grandson of a serf. In the first All-Russian Soviet, of which he was the Vice President, he was delegate of the peasants of the Province of Kazan. Under the Czar he was twice exiled, on each occasion for a period of five years. At the time of the Bolshevist revolution he was an executive officer of the Central Committee of the Co-operative Organizations of Russia. There are, or were, he said, 45,000 of these co-operative societies with a total peasant membership of about 20,000,000. Mr. Martiushin also participated in the Archangel revolt which overthrew the Bolsheviki and established the anti-Bolshevist Government of Northern Russia.

In answer to questions as to the atrocities committed by the Bolsheviki, Mr. Martiushin said it was impossible to give the number of persons who have been murdered. He named many of his friends who had been killed, and gave the places where they were killed and the dates. One of the men starved to death was Repin, the famous artist. No man could give a true picture of the horror and terrorism that had cursed Russia during the last eight months.

Practically the entire membership of the co-operative societies, he said, was anti-Bolshevist and pro-Ally, and the organization was being prosecuted in every way possible by the Bolsheviki. The great majority of the peasants were now against the Bolsheviki. So bitter were they that they were retaliating by planting small crops and refusing except under compulsion to deliver any supplies of any kind to the Bolsheviki.

In the Moscow district only 3 per cent. of the industries were being operated when Mr. Martiushin left, and these were not running at full capacity. Shipping on the Volga, Oka and other rivers was a thing of the past.

Dora Kaplan, the woman who attempted to assassinate Lenine, was subjected to a new form of torture before she was executed. By order of the Bolsheviki her guards were instructed not to permit her to sleep. For days she was kept awake, and then was executed without trial of any sort.

Mr. Martiushin said that the official Bolshevist reports indicated the extent of the executions taking place in Russia. In one province in one month these reports admit the execution of 800 people out of 6,200 who were arrested. In another report it is stated that 620 out of 1,500 arrested were executed. In Jaroslav for July the reports admit the execution of 300 men, and in Perm for the same month of fifty members of the bourgeois class. Mr. Martiushin corroborated the testimony of Roger Simmons of the American Embassy in every detail regarding the forcible control of rural Soviets.

"What have you to say of some of these Americans who go to Russia, flit between Moscow and Petrograd, give away some milk, and then come back and tell us all about it and say that the Bolsheviki are not so bad after all?" asked Senator Nelson.

"Is it not true," said Senator Nelson, "that whereas you had in the old days one Czar you have two now and each of them as bad or worse than the one that is gone?"

"Yes, Sir, you have spoken the truth. I am Slav. Most of my life I have been in Russia, and I think I know my country perhaps better than some people who go there and remain only a few months," said Mr. Martiushin.

Ambassador Francis will take the stand tomorrow morning.

ANSWERS COL. ROBINS.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Colonel Valdimir S. Hurban, Military Attaché of the Czechoslovak Legation, issued a statement tonight in answer to the charges made against the Czechoslovak forces in Russia by Colonel Raymond Robins. It was sent to Senator Overman who announced that it would be placed in the record of the Senate Committee which is investigating Bolshevism. The statement says in part:

"Colonel Robins stated: 'The Soviet Government granted free passage to the Czechoslovaks through Archangel and Murmansk, not through Siberia.' This is incorrect. The Czechoslovak National Council, of which I was a member at that time, made an agreement with the Soviet Government on the 26th of March, 1918, guaranteeing the passage of our army through Siberia. We desired to prove our neutrality in the civil war, and our loyalty to the Soviet as the de facto Government by disarming, and we disarmed. This circumstance is the best of our loyalty. Archangel could not be considered because the port was frozen, and the northern regions could not feed an army of 60,000 men."

In regard to Colonel Robins's assertion that "Trotzky's order to disarm completely the Czechoslovaks was issued as a consequence of the fact that the 15,000 Czechoslovaks who reached Vladivostok did not sail, but started to go back to fight the Soviet Government," the statement reiterates the well known story of the perfidy of the Reds under German instigation and the attack on the rear trains of the Czechoslovaks, which compelled those at Vladivostok to return to the rescue of their comrades.

Concerning Colonel Robins's remark yesterday that every one is telling of how the Bolsheviki are terrorizing and shooting people, but nobody says anything about the terror caused by the Czechoslovaks in shooting the Bolsheviki," Colonel Hurban says:

"With all firmness I reject this general accusation and I reject the comparison with the Bolshevist tactics. The Bolsheviki admit terror officially as a weapon against their adversaries. We disclaim any terror. Colonel Robins must know that thousands and thousands of Red guards had been captured and disarmed by us but were not punished nor interned in camps but released to go home. Germans and Magyars in the Red Army were not considered by us as fighters for Russian Soviets, but as our old enemies.

"It would be naive and academic if I were absolutely to deny that some of our soldiers in different places did unlawful things. No army chief can deny this of his army. But everything was done by our command and our volunteer soldiers themselves to avoid or diminish and punish such cases."

SEES GAIN IN BUILDING.

Bradstreet's Review Reports Better Feeling Generally.

Although conservatism and caution still mark industrial conditions, according to Bradstreet's Review, a better feeling pervades the general trade situation. The most noticeable advance is found in the building trades, which, it says, are approaching a modified form of preparatory activity after more than a year of dullness and depression. "Proof that the corner was really turned in this line in January," this publication says, "is now clearly visible."

In commenting further on conditions the Review says:

"Conservatism and caution still dominate the general trade situation, but absolute necessity buying and the advance toward Spring are visible in the reports of a larger volume of buying at both primary and secondary markets. Northwestern and large Southern cities sending best reports. Industry, except in a few lines, and these chiefly textiles, also shows a slightly better pace, and many readjustments appear to have been satisfactorily completed."

Dun's Review says:

"Improvement in business, while still very gradual and checkered, clearly exists. That the gain is chiefly one of strengthened confidence and more cheerful sentiment is plainly manifest, but these are elements without which economic recuperation would not be possible, and the better feeling may before long find reflection in a more noticeable recovery of actual trading. Already, operations in certain branches and sections are a little freer, and though there is everywhere a prudent disinclination to act hastily while great fundamental changes are in motion, preparations for future activities are not being neglected.

"Bank clearings this week at the principal cities in the United States amount to $6,216,577,507, an increase of 7.9 per cent. over last year and 19.5 per cent. over two years ago. The gains at New York are 11.3 and 20.6 per cent., respectively, over both previous years, while at outside cities the increase is 2.6 per cent. over 1918 and 17.5 per cent. over 1917."

FARM HOLDINGS FALL OFF.

Corn, 1,253,290,000 and 782,303,000 bushels; wheat, 107,745,000 and 100,650,000; oats, 599,208,000 and 391,211,000; barley, 44,419,000 and 33,244,000.

The percentages of the 1918 crops which will be shipped out of the counties where they were grown were announced as follows:

Corn, 14.5 per cent., compared with 22.1 last year, and 17.6 in 1917.

Wheat, 58.7 per cent., compared with 51.1 last year, and 56.7 in 1917.

Oats, 27.2 per cent., compared with 32.3 last year, and 28.4 in 1917.

Barley, 39.1 per cent., compared with 39.7 last year, and 43.5 in 1917.

The proportion of the 1918 corn crop which is merchantable is about 2,129,764,000 bushels, compared with 1,837,728,000 of the 1917 crop, and 2,154,487,000 of the 1916 crop.

Weekly Review of Dry Goods Trade

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is running slightly less than for the same week of 1918. Road sales for at once delivery also were less compared with the same period last year. Few customers were in the house. Collections continue normal."

Fine Gray Goods Sell Better.

An improved demand for fine-yard goods, which resulted in sales of lawns for deliveries running to July, was one of the new features of trading in the local gray goods market yesterday. Sales of clothing styles continued in an active way, but neither printcloths nor sheetings showed much life. Important business in sheetings was missing, but trading in the printcloths included March lots of 39-inch 68-72s at 10 cents and 38½-inch 64-56s at 8¼ cents.

Judging from the orders that are being received by the manufacturers, Windsor ties are meeting with much success in the retail stores. Plaids are being sold largely for use by small boys, while the red and white colors are being used more by girls. The more popular lines are those that retail from 50 cents to $1 each. A new line of these ties now being shown embraces several floral patterns which are offered in six different colors. These are made to retail for $1 each.

Owing to the shortage of skilled labor, coupled with the increased demand, manufacturers of beaded handbags are finding it rather difficult to keep up with the orders that are being received for these goods. Buyers who are now in the city have shown considerable interest in the new lantern shaped bags. These are offered in Chinese and floral patterns, and retail from $55 to $60 each. Some very liberal orders are being received from the out-of-town trade for Egyptian, bird, and floral patterns. These are being shown with shell, silver, and all beaded tops.

Silk Skirts Called For.

Owing to the strike in the garment trade, the deliveries on the higher-priced lines of women's pure-silk thread skirts have been greatly delayed. One manufacturer said he was nearly six weeks behind in filling the orders he now has on hand. In the high-class stores there is a big demand for garments of this kind that retail from $50 to $65 each. The stores at Palm Beach have bought large quantities of these skirts.

Vestees in Bright Colors.

Most of the orders that are being received for women's vestees include the bright colors and figured patterns. Those made of ribbon materials are also being sold quite largely. With the exception of the South, business in this line is very satisfactory. A buyer from New Orleans who was in town this week said that the sale for these goods there has fallen off to a great extent. In the West, however, the demand seems to be even greater, as reorders are being received almost daily.

New Waistcoats for Men.

Men's evening waistcoats with the U-shaped front are now being sold very extensively for use in connection with dinner suits and evening dress. They are made almost entirely of white piques. For street wear the lines of fancy waistcoats are more in demand than they have been for some time past. Double-breasted effects in plain shades and tan and gray checks are among the new numbers for the Spring and Fall seasons.

Walking Sticks in Favor.

After being practically at a standstill for several months, business in the cane and walking stick industry has started in with a rush. The volume of sales at present is said to be larger than it has been for several years. The increase is partly due to the men who have returned from Europe and while over there have become accustomed to carrying canes. Some of the firms making the higher-priced lines are receiving large orders from the jewelry stores which sell these goods. Most of the canes now being sold retail from $3.50 to $5 each.

Fur Prices Were Good.

The numerous bids received for fisher, marten, cross fox, silver fix, mole, and muskrat were the outstanding feature of the "floor sale" of furs that was held yesterday in the warehouse of J. L. Prouty's Sons, Inc., 382 West Broadway. The prices bid for all of these furs equaled or exceeded their current market values. The number of sealed bids received was greater than at any previous sale, due in part to the fact that manufacturers were permitted to participate in the bidding for the first time. A total of 85,000 skins, valued at close to $325,000, was disposed of. The prices obtained for the entire offering were said to be very satisfactory.

Hard Coal Demand Light.

With anthracite consumption dwindling under the influence of Spring weather and household users more inclined than ever to hold their purchases down to current needs, Saward's Journal will say today, the movement from the retail yards is at low ebb. This, of course, precludes any marked revival in the wholesale demand for the time being, but for all that a slight picking up is reported in some offices. The absence of much demurrage coal and the greater interest being taken in the matter of contracts give a better tone to the bituminous market, though it is not yet possible to report much change for the better, so far as mining acivitity or volume of sales is concerned.

Silk Dinner Plans Laid.

Invitations are now being issued by the Silk Association of America for the dinner that is to be given at the Hotel Astor on Tuesday, March 18, in honor of twenty prominent Japanese filature owners and raw silk commission men who are coming to this country to study the needs of the American silk industry and to promote a closer relation between Japan and the United States. One of the features of the dinner will be the presentation, in moving pictures, of the history of a silk gown. This part of the program will be under the direction of D. E. Douty, Manager of the United States Conditioning and Testing Company. The committee in charge of the dinner includes Charles Cheney, H. Schniewind, Jr., M. W. Dippel, William Skinner and Emil J. Stehli.

Business Failures.

Bradstreet's reports 121 failures in the United States for the week ended March 6, against 135 for the previous week, and 243, 273, 352, and 385 for the corresponding weeks of 1918 to 1915. The New England States had 13, Middle 29, Western 33, Northwestern 11, Southern 25, and Far Western 10. Canada had 13, against 19 for the previous week. In the United States about 78.5 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less, and 12.3 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

Out of Town.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Moses S. Kraus, formerly of St. Paul, a clerk, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in which he listed his liabilities at $218,391, with no assets. Kraus is said to have been a stockholder in the defunct American Buyers' Association of Minneapolis and to have taken court action to thwart possible technical responsibility for its debts.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

The General Trend of Those of Foodstuffs Was Higher.

A considerable excess of declines over advances was shown by Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week, but, in spite of this fact, the trend of the major foodstuffs was strongly upward. Grain prices also moved up, but there was an overwhelming proportion of declines in drugs, chemicals, and dyestuffs. None of the other markets showed market change one way or the other.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.

Among the more important foodstuffs to advance at this city during the week was flour. The Spring 100 per cent. grade went up 5 cents a barrel, but this advance was doubled by Winter flour of the same quality. In the Chicago market for provisions live hogs, mess pork, and live sheep supplied the advances, with Middle Western lard and short ribs unchanged. Live beef was the only item to decline. At this city bacon advanced, but hams were lower.

One of the features of the week was the general upturn in the price of dairy products. The best butter moved up 3½ cents a pound during the week, and the medium and cheaper grades also advanced. Both of the listed grades of cheese went up. The best Western eggs were 3 cents a dozen higher than last week, but for the second week in succession there was no change in the price of near-by fancy stock. The present figure is only 6 cents a dozen above the price current at this time in 1918.

The fresh fruits listed were again barren of changes, while the only revisions in the dried ones were advances in California peaches and prunes. Vegetable changes were fewer than for a long time. Choice Scotch peas dropped again, but in the domestic vegetables the only change listed was a drop in the price of choice red kidney beans. The basic grades of coffee, as well as the whole list of teas, were steady at last week's close, but there was general price weakness in the spices. Here declines were shown by mace, Zanzibar cloves, and Cochin ginger, as well as by both black and white Singapore pepper.

No reductions in grain prices were listed this week, but higher figures were quoted on corn, oats, rye, malting barley, and prime timothy hay. The leather list was again bare of changes, but in the hides lower prices were quoted on No. 1 country steers, No. 1 kips, and No. 1 calfskins. A rise in pig aluminium was contrasted in the metals with lower prices for spelter and for lake and electrolytic coppers. Only one advance was seen in the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils, but the downward revisions totaled 16. Among the few features were the lower prices quoted on several of the balsams, C. P. glycerine, and quicksilver. Hemp and jute both declined, as did Chinese raw silk.

The paper list produced lower prices on M. F. book stock, and also on chip and strawboards. In the naval stores resin and turpentine were lower, though both are still held at prices well above those asked at this time a year ago. The best Brazilian crude rubber dropped. In the building materials a rise took place in common Hudson River brick. Aside from the opening of several lines of worsteds and woolens for Fall, generally at reduced prices, the textile markets were without real feature.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks reflected in emphatic fashion yesterday the product of several constructive factors which came to the attention of the financial community, some of them dealing with national conditions of the foremost importance. News that bankers were to confer with the Railroad Administration early next week over the financial problem of the carriers encouraged substantial buying of railroad stocks, and also worked to continue speculative activity among the industrial shares. The spirit of co-operation which was manifest in banking quarters received particular strength through the known readiness of bank officials and private bankers to form a great "pool" of funds if the need should arise. There was no question that preparation by the financial leaders to assist the Director General during the present stress had a great deal of effect in stimulating sentiment in the market, and this influence was supplemented by others which commended themselves to trading attention. Consideration of the steel trade's intention to seek stabilization of prices in co-operation with a Government commission had its effect on the market for steel and equipment company stocks. The copper company shares moved forward at the same time that trade reports mentioned a noticeable increase in purchases of the metal. The building trade was estimated by close observers to be in process of awakening, and the survey of general business conditions, made by the mercantile agencies, indicated that the distribution of staple lines of goods was showing a fair improvement. In view of this combination of bullish development it was not strange that the stock market was among the broadest and most active of the year, with price increases extending from 1 to 4 or 5 points in a number of issues which have been making a pronounced appeal to speculators of late.

The most important development in the railroad financial situation may fairly be described as the strengthening of sentiment. Bankers and a representative of the War Finance Corporation discussed in more or less formal fashion the means to be used in providing for requirements of the road, but a particular program was not arranged even in tentative fashion yesterday. The Street was convinced, nevertheless, that in the very fact of co-ordinated efforts being put forth lay sound reason for the belief that the railroads' embarrassment would be relieved in due time. It matters little to the owners of railroad securities and traders in the market whether the bulk of necessary funds are supplied by the banks or through a Federal agency until Congress relieves the situation, provided that the money is made available when needed. From the present outlook it seems likely that the burden will be well distributed, the banks, the War Finance Corporation, and investors in new securities all having a part in the undertaking.

Signs of improvement in the building trade are doubtless the result to some degree of the natural expansion of construction work which comes with the approach of Spring. At the same time, whatever improvement occurs in the next few weeks will have far more significance attached to it than in normal times because of the unusual stagnation of the Winter. An increase of building should have a great effect in checking unemployment, and in respect to labor it is worth recording that testimony from competent witnesses show that reports of unemployment in various centres have been considerably exaggerated. The Federal Reserve Board notes in its latest summary of conditions that such exaggeration has occurred.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Million-Share Day.

The stock market which has been steadily gaining in activity for some time broke out into the first million-share day of the year yesterday, the total sales amounting to 1,007,500 shares. The last million-share day was on Dec. 30 of last year, but there was the difference that the market then was largely influenced in its activity by the selling of securities to establish losses for income tax returns, while that of yesterday was one of inherent strength, in which there was a broadening out of speculation to include some of those classes of stocks which have for a long time been dormant. The steel stocks and the much abused copper shares took part in the advance, and the rails were bid up insistently as the trading progressed.

The Doheny Mission in Paris.

Word has been received here that some of the members of the committee of the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico who have been representing that organization in Paris in the hope of having the Mexican problem taken up by the Peace Convention may shortly return to this country. There is some doubt as to just what has been done by the committee, which includes bankers as well as representatives of the oil industry, among them Edward Doheny, President of the Mexican Petroleum Company. It is believed that the committee has presented its case in certain quarters and that the need for a further sojourn in Paris has ceased to exist.

Railroad Stocks Active.

The announcement that banking interests were planning the formation of a big pool to tide the railroads over the difficulties caused by the failure of Congress to pass the bill adding $700,000,000 to the railroad "revolving" fund served to instill more confidence as to the railroad outlook, and there was a reflection of this in the action of the stocks in yesterday's trading. The turnovers were not heavy as compared with those of the halcyon days when the railroad issues were among the chief speculative mediums on the Exchange, but there was more activity than has been customary in recent months. New Haven, Reading, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific all made substantial gains, the first named advancing nearly 3 points.

Copper Men Back from Europe.

S. R. Guggenheim, a Director of the American Smelting and Refining Company, and Stephen Birch, President of the Kennecott Copper Company, who went to Europe with the committee representing the Copper Export Association, have returned to this country, but disclaim any knowledge of what orders the committee has obtained while in Europe. Mr. Guggenheim says "Europe is sick, very sick, and, while reconstruction will mean big demands for products of all sorts, this will not develop for some time to come. What American business men must learn to do is to build up a domestic market for their products and also to try to establish themselves in neutral countries. This should be their first thought and effort instead of depending upon Europe as an outlet for their goods."

Hayden on Cuba Cane Board.

Charles Hayden of Hayden, Stone & Co., has been elected a Director of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation. This is the second addition to the Board of Directors within a short time, Henry Evans having been elected only a few days ago. In commenting on the corporation's affairs yesterday, Mr. Hayden said that he had purchased a substantial interest in the company, which he believed to be one of the largest and most comprehensive sugar organizations in existence. He spoke highly of the management and added: "I have every reason to hope and believe this company is going to be a very substantial and profitable producer of sugar permanently." The unsubstantiated rumors that the company would pass the dividend on the preferred stock were dispelled when the Directors announced the regular quarterly rate of 1¾ per cent., payable April 1 to stock of record March 15.

The signing of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad-Government compensation contract allows an annual return to the road of $16,867,128, which is about the same as the three-year average. The company made claims for additional compensation which amounted to several millions of dollars, but only $150,000 was granted. Other income of the companyy, which aggregates about $6,000,000 and interest charges, corporate expenses, rentals, and other expenses, will be approximately $20,000,000. This should leave a surplus at the end of 1919 of nearly $3,000,000, which would be equivalent to 1.9 per cent. earned on the $157,000,000 stock.

Rates to France Higher.

Criticism continues among shippers that the ocean freight rates asked by private shipowners are too high. They say that in spite of the favorable announcement some weeks ago the rate to French ports from Atlantic ports would be $41 a ton. At that time there was a percentage of tonnage available on French Government vessels, but this has been absorbed, and the rate has increased to yesterday's quotation of $60 a ton. Exporters assert that it is more profitable for them to ship their goods in British bottoms than to patronize private American shipowners. In regard to the high rate to French Atlantic ports, it was intimated in shipping circles yesterday that British shipping interests might establish a service to meet the tonnage demand.

Another Contract Signed.

It was reported yesterday in the financial district that an agreement had practically been reached between the Railroad Administration and the St. Louis Southwestern Railway, under the terms of which the railroad will get approximately $500,000 as an annual compensation allowance in addition to the certified standard return which has been fixed at about $4,400,000. This would be equivalent to approximately 9 per cent. on the preferred and 5 per cent. on the common stocks.

The Kelly-Springfield Dividend.

The management made the following statement for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday: "In answer to some misunderstanding in regard to the proposed stock dividend, we wish to say that the same is to be distributed quarterly at the rate of three shares for every 100 shares (or pro rata) of common stock; this to be in addition to $1 each to be paid quarterly on every share as heretofore. Taking the value of the stock dividend at the present price, about $120 a share, and taking into consideration the cumulative feature of the plan, the proposed stock dividend represents a cash value of about $14.50 in addition to the yearly cash dividend of $4 a share, making a total income of approximately $18.50 a share per annum, to be increased by accumulation."

International Paper Active.

The activity and advance in the shares of the International Paper Company in yesterday's stock market were attributed in some quarters to the belief that the next dividend declaration by Directors would prove of interest. While there are those who do not look for unexpected action, it was established yesterday that there had been steady buying for the speculative account. The stock opened at 46¾, sold off to 46½, and then moved up to 48½, easing off at the close to 47¾. Another paper stock which moved forward was American Writing Paper preferred. This was attributed to the belief that the forthcoming annual report would show good earnings.

CONFER ON PLANS TO FINANCE ROADS

HE DENIES ANY FIXED POLICY

Bankers who are concerned with the railroad financing were again busily engaged yesterday in an effort to solve the problem. The proposed bankers' pool of $500,000,000 was the chief topic of discussion, and it was generally believed that this arrangement would have to be resorted to for at least part of the funds necessary to carry the roads over until Congress sees fit to appropriate money for rentals due the carriers. For roads which are unable to borrow from the bankers, it is expected resort will be made to the War Finance Corporation.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., Chairman of the Board of the War Finance Corporation was in New York yesterday, and was seen at his old offices at 14 Wall Street. Mr. Meyer said he had not come to New York especially to confer with bankers on the railroad matter, but admitted he had talked to some financiers, and that the railroad matter had been discussed. However, he was very definite in denying that he or his associates on the board of the corporation had agreed to any policy in regard to making advances to the roads.

Has No Fixed Policy.

"We have no fixed policy," he said. "We are a lending organization and will attend to such business as we are called upon to transact. If the railroads want loans and can show us proper security and we deem it expedient to make the requested advances, we will do so. Beyond that I can say nothing."

Asked if the War Finance Corporation would be inclined to favor applications for loans from the railroads, especially those roads of uncertain credit, as a matter of public policy, Mr. Meyer said that the loans made must conform to the law, which was fairly specific. In banking circles, it may be stated in this connection, there is some fear of legal obstacles arising in connection with any attempt to do wholesale financing for the railroads through the War Finance Corporation.

Mr. Meyer explained that the War Finance Corporation is in position to advance considerably more money than the reports from Washington had indicated. In one semi-official statement from the national capital it was said that the corporation could advance not more than $337,500,000. This figure was based on a misunderstanding of conditions, according to Mr. Meyer. It probably arose, he thought, from the fact that under the law the corporation is empowered to make advances direct to other corporations aggregating one-eighth of the combined capital and authorized amount of bonds, which is limited to $3,000,000,000 for the bonds and $500,000,000 capital. This would mean $437,500,000, and as the corporation has already advanced approximately $100,000,000, $337,500,000 was accepted as the limit. Mr. Meyer called attention to the fact that this limit merely applies to direct advances. Roads which are able to act through banks and bankers may raise this limit many hundreds of million dollars.

Upturn in Market.

As for raising the money for the advances, Mr. Meyer explained that the corporation has only received $350,000,000 of its authorized capital. It may call upon the Treasury for the remaining $150,000,000, and it may call some of the loans it has already made, or it may sell some of the Liberty bonds it holds. Again, it may sell its own bonds. All in all, there would be no trouble in raising the funds, according to the Chairman of the board.

In the stock market there was a pronounced improvement, and among bankers and brokers alike there was a noticeable upturn in spirits. The assurances that the leading bankers are prepared to assist the Railroad Administration and the individual roads served to allay the fears which predominated in financial circles the last few days. Leading stocks were strong and some of the more prominent railroad securities were up a point or more.

Seventh Bi-Weekly Offering of $500,000,000 Oversubscribed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Secretary Glass today announced that the seventh bi-weekly offering (Series V. G.) of Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness in anticipation of the Victory Liberty Loan was oversubscribed. Every Federal Reserve District, except that of Boston, equalled or exceeded its quota and in this respect the issue is the most successful except one which has been offered. The minimum amount offered was $500,000,000 and the total subscriptions aggregate $532,341,500. The aggregate of subscriptions for these certificates to date is $4,378,019,500.

HUGHES ACCUSES BURLESON

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Charles E. Hughes, appearing before the Supreme Court today as counsel for the Commercial Cable and Commercial Pacific Cable Companies, charged that Postmaster General Burleson, by taking control of the marine cable systems five days after the signing of the armistice, had misused the powers conferred by a joint resolution of Congress, had given the resolution an interpretation "foreign to the intent of Congress," and had "as an ulterior motive," the forcing of Government ownership of the cables.

The accusations of Mr. Hughes were generally denied by Solicitor General King, who presented the case of the Government, asking that the court sustain the decrees of lower courts dismissing injunction proceedings brought by two cable companies to prevent the Postmaster General from taking over their cables and merging them with those of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

Both attorneys were interrupted frequently by questions from the court. Although each side had an extension of time to present arguments, neither availed itself of the privilege and arguments were ended before the court adjourned.

Mr. Hughes contended that although the Presidential proclamation under which the action was taken was dated Nov. 2, it actually was not signed until after hostilities ceased on Nov. 11. In reply Mr. King asserted that the cables were taken over in reality on Nov. 2, when the proclamation was signed by the President, but did not pass into the hands of the Postmaster General until fourteen days afterward. Seizures of the cables, Mr. Hughes said, was not needed for "national security and defense," as President Wilson, before the cables were taken over, had declared before Congress, that the war had come to an end and that Germany and Austria had agreed to armistice terms which would make the resumption of hostilities impossible. He denied that the resolution under which the cables were seized contained blanket powers, and asserted that Congress would never have adopted it had it carried omnibus authority. He said there was involved in the seizure "a thought of governmental policy—a policy that Congress never sanctioned."

Government control over the marine cable systems was more needed now than previous to the signing of the armistice, Mr. King argued. The turning over to the State Department of an entire wire to Europe, the fact that American troops were now on German soil, and that Germany and Austria were still at enmity with this country, and sufficient proof that Government supervision was needed.

"What effect do you give to the contention that the seizure of the cables was not necessary owing to conditions prevailing then?" asked Justice Pitney.

The Solicitor General further contended that the issues involved in the case were not justiciable and no court could inquire into them.

In replying to this contention, Mr. Hughes said there existed under constitutional law no such thing as delegation by Congress of unrestricted power with no opportunity for official scrutiny and rectification. The President, in taking over the cables, did not act under any authority conferred on him as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, but under powerh conferred by act of Congress, and which could as well have been delegated to any other officer of the Government.

WANT RAILROADS RESTORED

Traffic Club Voices Its Opposition to Federal Ownership.

At a meeting held last night at the Waldorf Astoria, the Traffic Club of New York, consisting of traffic representatives of railroad, industrial, steamship and allied interests, passed resolutions regarding the railroad situation, which the club will send to traffic interests throughout the country for approval, and the substance of which it will urge upon Congress for adoption. Ralph S. Stubbs, general manager of the American Sugar Refining Company and President of the club, presided at the meeting.

The resolutions record unqualified opposition to Government ownership, management or operation of railroads, expressed disapproval of Federal control beyond the limited period now prescribed by law, and declared in favor of prompt enactment by Congress of such legislation as would provide a uniform system of regulation in essential matters, safeguard the public interest, insure adequate revenue to provide for equitable treatment of all questions affecting wages and working conditions, of employes and attract sufficient capital to maintain and develop transportation facilities which should meet the necessities of the commercial, manufacturing and agricultural interests of the country.

The resolutions further stated that the railroads should be held by the Government only until remedial legislation could be enacted, that the individual organization of each road should be restored, and that legislation should be based upon principles which would guarantee a stabilization of rates and would conduce to profitable operation of the roads in the public interest.

TO ACT FOR BONDHOLDERS.

New York Railways Security Owners Name Committees.

It was announced yesterday that because of financial problems confronting the New York Railways Company committees had been appointed to represent the holders of both the real estate and refunding 4 per cent. bonds and the adjustment 5s. Harry Bronner is Chairman of the first committee and the other members are William A. Day, Casper W. Morris, Charles A. Peabody, W. H. Remick, Frederick H. Shipman, and Harold Stanley. F. J. Frost of 140 Broadway is Secretary and J. P. Cotton counsel. This committee said that its members already represented directly $4,000,000 of the bonds. Holders of the bonds have been invited to deposit them with the Guaranty Trust Company under a deposit agreement.

The committee of the income bondholders are John Candler Cobb, Chairman; Oscar Cooper, Haley Fiske, Frank L. Hall, Duncan A. Holmes, Ernest Stauffen, Jr., and Richard H. Swartwout. B. W. Jones is Secretary and Murray, Prentice & Howland are the counsel. Holders of these bonds have been invited to deposit them with the Bankers Trust Company in this city, the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, and the Commercial Trust Company, Philadelphia. The deposit agreement is being prepared.

BURLESON SEES PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Postmaster General Burleson today declared that increasing postal revenues, "one of the most accurate barometers of present business conditions," forecasted a period of pronounced industrial prosperity.

"I concur in the opinion of the executive head of one of the great corporations of the world, who prophesies 'large business prosperity ahead,'" Mr. Burleson said. "Admittedly the revenue of the postal service is one of the most accurate barometers of present business conditions, because the postal revenue comes from every community in the United States.

"During November there was a pronounced decline in postal revenues. Revenues in December showed a returning movement toward normal conditions, while during January and February the revenues greatly exceeded for those months the average annual increase during the last thirty years."

TAX BLANKS DELAYED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Internal Revenue Commissioner announced today that Form 1,120, the blank on which corporations will report their 1918 income for war excess profits and income taxes, will be ready for distribution early next week.

"Corporations which do not receive their blanks next week are not relieved of the requirement that at least one-quarter of the true tax or of the estimated tax must be paid to the Collector on or bfore March 15," the announcement said. "With payments computed on the estimated basis, there must be filed a tentative corporation return on Form 1,031-T.

"To meet the situation, Commissioner Roper today directed each Collector to convey to each corporation a statement of the situation and to suggest in all cases the use of the tentative corporation blank, 1,031-T, so that the estimate of the tax can be made and the first payment sent in by March 15.

"The war and excess profits tax for 1918 is figured on the same form with the income tax, obviating the use of two forms, as was necessary last year. All corporations and associations except personal service corporations and those especially exempted by the new revenue law must make their returns on Form 1,120. By filing the tentative return, Form 1,031-T, on or before March 15, together with payment of at least one-quarter of the estimtated total tax for 1918, an extension of forty-five days will be granted for the completion of Form 1,120."

WASHINGTON, March 7.—In answer to numerous inquiries concernnig Liberty bond exemptions, the Treasury announced that a maximum of $110,000 of Liberty bonds may be held by any taxpayer, with interest exempt from surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes, if the holdings are distributed in a certain way. This is in addition to the first 3½ per cent. bonds, which are entirely tax exempt.

An aggregate of $15,000 of First and Second 4s and 4¼s, Third and Fourth 4¼s, Treasury certificates, or War Savings stamps; $30,000 of First 4¼s; $30,000 of Fourth 4¼s; $45,000 of First and Second 4s and 4¼s and Third 4¼s, as to interest received after Jan. 1, 1918, this exemption conditioned on original subscription to, and holding at the time of filing tax return of, two-thirds as many Fourth Liberty bonds.

Besides, $30,000 of First and Second 4s and 4¼s and Third and Fourth 4¼s are exempt as to interest received after Jan. 1, 1919; but this exemption does not figure in tax returns filed for the year 1918.

CHAIRMAN HURLEY HOPEFUL

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The United States Shipping Board expects to be able to continue with its program until Congress is reassembled, despite the action of the late Congress in refusing to pass the Civil Sundry bill, which carried an appropriation of $660,000,000 for construction.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley believes it will be possible to obtain the money needed until the end of the fiscal year on June 30, especially in view of the reductions which have been made in some directions, such as the cancellation of a number of contracts for wooden ships.

Negotiations which may occupy some months are also being conducted in regard to payments to be made for tonnage which was requisitioned, and it is considered probable that the money will be available before these are closed.

Before the reassembling of Congress Mr. Hurley will complete his program for the future of the American merchant marine, both in regard to operation and construction, and will place it before the country. This proposal will give the new Congress a definite proposition on which to base what debate may be held in connection with appropriations.

It is possible that Mr. Hurley may have a draft of the program ready within the next two or three weeks.

Marconi Company's Report.

The Marconi Wireless Company of America, in its annual report for last year, which has just been issued, calls attention to three bills that have been introduced in Congress to take over wireless stations for Government ownership and operation, the last having been presented shortly after the signing of the armistice. This bill was tabled in committee, the report says, but stockholders are warned to remain alert and protest to Representatives in Congress whenever any attempt is made to pass measures calculated to destroy the business of the company. The report shows an increase in net income, the figures for 1918 being $998,358, as compared with $780,592 in the preceeding year. The net profits for the year just ended were $711,841, as compared with $617,722 in 1917, or an increase of 15.23 per cent. The 1918 dividends amounted to $499,975. The surplus of the company at the close of the year was $1,631,415.

COTTON MARKET MUDDLED.

The cotton trade, especially that part of it primarily concerned with the day-to-day fluctuations on the New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges, received another body blow yesterday when the Bureau of Markets at Washington issued a new ruling with regard to liquidation of the so-called old contracts. The first ruling on this subject, following the passage of the amendment to the Lever Cotton Futures act, which curtails the number of grades deliverable against futures contracts, was that old style contracts outstanding on March 4 could be liquidated any time before the maturity of the option. The latest ruling is that they must be closed out by May 1.

This ruling caused uneasiness. It was totally unexpected and found the trade unprepared. In addition to the new rule, all brokers will from now on be compelled to report from day to day their exact position in old contracts, which is to say they must erport to the cotton futures attorney their progress in liquidation. The possibilities are not pleasant to contemplate.

The Liverpool market, which will be quite as much concerned as the American over this new ruling, because of the enormous hedge business between the two countries, will be much worse off than either New York or New Orleans. It will be no simple matter clearing up the huge volume of straddles. In the market here there was a good deal of indignation over Washington's muddling of the whole affair.

The market itself was quite naturally confused and irregular. Trading switched from one side to the other with no fixed purpose and with a total disregard to all news developments. At one time prices were down 25 to 40 points. Again the trend moved upward sharply, as a lot of buying orders appeared, and the level was lifted about as far above the previous day's closing figures as it formerly had been below it. At the close the old style contracts were up 28 to 57 points, while the new style contracts were up 33 to 64 points. Yesterday's quotations follow:

NEW COTTON RULING.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—No objection will be made by the Bureau of Markets to bona fide cotton sales or purchases under old style contracts for the sole purpose of liquidating actually existing long or short interests, provided such liquidation is accomplished not later than May 1, 1919, after which date all transactions must be new style contracts, as provided in the law approved March 4.

Firms having such outstanding interests on March 4 will be required to report their positions at once and to make daily reports of the number of bales sold or bought until their outstanding old style contracts are filled. Call transactions must comply with the new style contracts as fixed by the law.

Conferences between Charles J. Brand, chief of the bureau, Judge Graham, cotton futures attorney for the Treasury Department, and other officials have resulted in an informal opinion which was expressed today as follows:

"The question as to whether or not there can be trading in old style contracts in liquidation of outstanding contracts entered into prior to March 4 is open to serious doubt from a legal standpoint. As a practical matter, we sympathise with the trade in its situation brought about by making the amendment effective with approval of the act, instead of later, as originally contemplated.

"In the circumstances no objection will be made to bona fide sales or purchases of old style contracts for the sole purpose of liquidation of actually existing long or short interests, provided such liquidation is accomplished not later than May 1, 1919, on and after which date all sales or purchases on exchanges must be new style contracts.

"In order that the Treasury Department may be constantly advised of the situation it will be necessary for each firm having any outstanding interest on March 4 to report either directly or through the Clearing House to the cotton futures attorney at once its exact position in each month and to report for each day the number of bales sold or bought in reduction of such outstanding interest, until all outstanding old style contracts have been entirely liquidated.

"With reference to call transactions, an examination of the act fails to disclose any language upon which the Government would be warranted in basing the ruling that new trades may be executed in old style contracts pursuant to call transactions."

These certificates are secured by first and only charge upon equipment leased by the Trustee to the New York Central Railroad Company and the Michigan Central Railroad Company respectively, the title to the equipment being vested in the Trustee for the proportionate benefit of certificate holders.

The cost of the equipment, substantially all of which was purchased during the year 1916, was approximately 45% in excess of the face amount of certificates now outstanding. It is estimated that the replacement of this equipment at present would require the expenditure of a sum more than double the amount of certificates now outstanding.

The issuance of these certificates has been approved by the United States Railroad Administration. The form of all papers and proceedings in this business is to be approved by our counsel.

SEATTLE TO BUY LINES.

Municipal Ownership for Traction System Arranged.

The City of Seattle, whose Mayor, Ole Hanson, recently stamped out incipient Bolshevism in a strike there, has entered the field of municipal ownership. Local agents for the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power Company, said yesterday that the municipality has agreed to purchase the traction lines at cost to investors. The price agreed upon covers the cash actually invested by the company.

Payment will be made to the company through the issue of $15,000,000 5 per cent. utility bonds of the City of Seattle. These will be a charge upon the gross earnings of the railways of the city, superior to all charges whatever except interest and amortization of $650,000 of prior bonds of similar character. The Supreme Court of the State of Washington has affirmed the validity of the transaction.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Substantial net gains were made in a broad and active market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Closing quotations were fractionally below the top prices of the session, reached in the early afternoon, as the result of an aggressive profit-taking movement in the final hour. This realizing selling checked the spirited demand that had prevailed, with but minor and temporary reactions, from the opening, and sent stocks upward from 1 to more than 3 points. The closing tone was strong.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The sale of the twelve-story St. Urban apartment house at the south corner of Central Park West and Eighty-seventh Street to the heirs of the J. Bowie Dash estate as a permanent investment was the feature of yesterday's realty market, which continued active in all its branches.

The property, valued at about $1,350,000, was sold by Frederick Brown, operator. It occupies a plot 125.11 by 160 feet and was built by Peter Bonner, having been financed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which still holds a mortgage for $85,000 on the property.

In part payment the Dash heirs gave in addition to a considerable sum in cash the family homestead at 240th Street and Dash Place, just west of Broadway, and a plot of nine lots on the north side of 238th Street, twelve feet west of Broadway, at the foot of the 238th Street station stairway. The Dash holdings figuring in the trade were valued at $75,000.

Mr. Brown purchased the St. Urban about sixteen months ago from the Barstun Realty Company. Leitner, Brener & Starr negotiated the sale. H. Randolph Anderson of E. & W. Hutchins represented the Dash heirs.

Quick Resale of $110,000 Building in Fifth Avenue Zone.

The five-story altered building at 5 East Forty-eighth Street which was seriously damaged by fire about a month ago has been sold by James S. Wright of Freeport, L. I., to a client of Warren & Skillen.

It occupies a plot 26 by 100 and was purchased about two weeks ago by the seller from the estate of Ella L. Hawk. Pease & Elliman negotiated the sale, the property being held at $110,000. Plans are being prepared to rebuild all the structure.

Madison Avenue House Sold.

M. J. Kramer bought the five-story dwelling, 25 by 100, at 275 Madison Avenue, just south of Fortieth Street, from Edward Margolies. The buyer will remodel the property into stores and studios. The house, was held at $125,000, and sold through Pease & Elliman.

Arleighland Apartments Sold.

The Arleighland apartment house, at 616 to 620 West 115th Street was sold by the North Holding Company to Senior & Allan, Inc. The property, which was held at $170,000, was sold through Slawson & Hobbs, with Olcott, Bonynge, McManus & Ernst acting as attorneys for the buyer.

Bank Sells Loft Building.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank sold the six-story loft, 125 by 100, at 158 Monroe Street, part of a larger plot taken at foreclosure a short time ago. The purchasers, after extensive alterations have been completed, will occupy the building for their business. Thomas J. O'Reilly negotiated the sale.

Natanson Figures in Many Deals.

Most active in yesterday's market was the Nason Realty Company, Max N. Natanson, which, by several deals, brought the total amount involved in its transactions for the week close to $1,000,000.

Chief among the company's transactions was the purchase of the Tacoma, a six-story elevator apartment house with seven stores, on plot 100 by 100, at 1,364 to 1,372 St. Nicholas Avenue, 50 feet south of 179th Street, held at $230,000. This property was purchased by the selling company about a month ago from the Allenel Construction Company through Byrne & Bauman.

Through William S. Baker the Nason Company sold to the Jules Realty Company 515 West 157th Street, a five-story new law house, on plot 50 by 100, held at $65,000. This building is one of the four houses bought from the Businessmen's Realty Company by the selling company about a week ago.

Other purchases made by Mr. Natansen's company were as follows: From Louis Silverstein through A. D. Phelps & Damiame, in conjunction with Harry Rogers 448 to 452 West 152d Street, two five-story flats, renting for $18,000 and held at $140,000, each on plot 50 by 100; from Christina Young, through Byrne & Bowman 2,486 Valentine Avenue, a five-story house, near Fordham Road, on a plot 50 by 130, renting for $10,000, and held at $75,000; from the Pershing Realty Company, through Leitner Brener & Starr, 782 East 175th Street, a five-story house, 46 by 145, renting for $9,400, and held at $65,000, and from the H. W. G. Realties 674 Academy Street, a five-story house, 50 by 125, renting for $12,000 and held at $80,000.

Eight Flats Bought by Joseph Shenk.

The Scheer & Ginsberg Construction Company sold to Joseph Shenk, operator, the six five-story apartment houses at 527 to 531 West 151st Street and 528 to 532 West 152d Street. The structures occupy a site 125 by 100 on each street, each house measuring 41.8 by 100. The property was held at $330,000, and was bought through Harris Meltzer as broker. Mr. Shenk also bought through Quinlan & Leland the five-story flat at 58 West 109th Street, on lot 25 by 100, held at $35,000, and through Le Roy Coventry the five-story flat at 3,134 Broadway, on a plot 33 by 75, held at $35,000.

Tenement Deals.

The estate of F. Kohn sold the five-story tenement, on plot 25 by 102, at 315 East Seventy-fourth Street, to an investing client of E. N. Adler.

William Burroughs sold the four five-story double houses at 237 to 243 East Fifty-fifth Street, to Ruth Cooper for investment. The deal, which involved over $100,000, was negotiated by Charles L. Gilbert.

The United States Fire Insurance Company sold the six-story tenement, with stores, on plot 39 by 71.5 by 97.6, renting for over $6,000, at 376 and 378 East Eighth Street, through Charles B. Van Valen, Inc. The insurance company acquired the building under foreclosure last July.

The Mount Airy Realty Company sold the six-story new-law house, with store, 41 by 100, held at $50,000, at 176 East 123d Street, to the Lawmore Improvement Company through George W. Brettell.

The Jules Realty Company, Inc., Samuel Wacht, Jr., President, bought the six-story apartment house, on plot 50 by 100, renting for about $15,000, at 522 West 112th Street, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, from Samuel Raisler. William S. Baker negotiated the sale.

Private Dwellings.

Mrs. William H. Woodin sold the four-story dwelling, on lot 22 by 100.5, at 127 East Sixty-ninth Street, to Foot & Martin, Inc., through Albert B. Ashforth, Inc. The property, which was held at $75,000, is opposite Hunter College.

William Sinnott sold the three-story dwelling, 18 by 100, at 50 Hamilton Terrace, to a client of Duff & Brown Company, for occupancy.

Clarence B. Smith sold the three-story and basement dwelling, 16.8 by 100, at 150 East Sixty-third Street, to Herbert K. Stockton, for occupancy. Pease & Elliman negotiated the sale.

A. L. Pinkus bought a Columbia College leasehold, the five-story American basement house, 20 by 100.5, with a three-story extension, containing doctor's office added, at 34 West Fiftieth Street, from Dr. W. W. Van Valzah. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

Margaret B. L. Robinson sold the four-story and basement residence, 20 by 55 by 102.2, at 111 East Sixty-fifth Street, to a buyer for occupancy. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the sale.

J. L. Van Sant bought from Frank E. Towle, city surveyor, his former residence at 9 West 123d Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 18.6 by 100, located between Lenox Avenue and Mount Morris Park West. The Houghton Company was the broker in the deal.

The five five-story apartments occupying the block front on the east side of Longfellow Avenue, between Lowell and East 165th Streets, has been sold by Max Mindlin to the 173d Street Improvement Company, Aaron Miller President. The structures occupy a plot 200 by 80, show an annual rental of $35,000, and were held at $175,000. Gettner, Simon & Asher acted as attorneys for the buyer.

Two Bronx Plots Sold for Immediate Improvement.

Two Bronx plots were sold yesterday to builders for immediate improvement. In the Fordham section A. Blumenthal and B. H. Weisker sold a plot of ten lots, at the southeast corner of Crescent Avenue and 193d Street, held at $70,000, for Anna D. Decker to the Barnet Realty Company, H. Adelstein President. The buyers will erect three apartment houses at once, the land and buildings representing an investment of $400,000.

In the Hunts Point section Benjamin Englander sold for Justice John W. Goff and Francis W. Pollock the plot of four lots at the southwest corner of Longwood and Whitlock Avenues, fronting 100 feet on each thoroughfare. The purchaser, Jacob Sanders, will immediately start work on the erection of a garage.

The Bronx Market.

Vogel & Schultz bought the five-story apartment house, on plot 48 by 105, at 204 East 199th Street, corner of Briggs Avenue, and the adjoining apartment, on plot 48 by 107, at 2,900 Briggs Avenue, from Daniel Houlihan & Son. H. F. Brynes & Co. negotiated the sale of the property, which was held at $150,000 and rents for $21,000.

A. L. Mordecai & Son bought a plot of six lots fronting 80 feet on the west side of Boscobel Avenue and running through to Shakespeare Avenue, from Max Natanson.

The six-story apartment with stores at 945 and 947 Washington Avenue was bought by an investing client of the Samuel Cowen Agency.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Pressure is high over nearly all parts of the country, except over Texas and the South Rocky Mountain region, to which districts a storm has moved eastward from the Western Plateau region. It is attended by widespread cloudiness through the Gulf and Plains States, with rains on the South Atlantic Coast and snows over the Plains States and the Southern Rocky Mountain and Southern Plateau regions. Rains have also fallen on the North Pacific Coast and snows at points in the Upper Mississippi Valley and the region of the Great Lakes.

Temperature has risen over the Mississippi Valley and all districts to the eastward, except on the South Atlantic Coast, and it has fallen somewhat in the Southern Rocky Mountain region.

Temperatures are near the normal in practically all parts of the country.

In the Middle Atlantic States and New England the weather will be fair Saturday and become unsettled Sunday, and be followed by rains in the Middle Atlantic States without material change in temperature.

In the South Atlantic States, cloudy weather Saturday will be followed by rain Saturday night and Sunday, with mild temperature. In the East Gulf States, Tennessee and lower Ohio Valley, there will be rain Saturday, followed by clearing and colder weather on Sunday. In the upper Ohio Valley and the Lake Region generally fair weather Saturday will be followed by rain or snow Sunday, with no decided change in temperature.

FORECAST—TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair Saturday; Sunday, threatening, probably followed by rain or snow; no change in temperature.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Saturday; Sunday, threatening, probably followed by rain; no change in temperature.

Northern New England—Partly cloudy Saturday; Sunday, threatening, probably follow by rain or snow; not much change in temperature.

3 A. M.	35	33	4 P. M.	36	40
6 A. M.	32	32	6 P. M.	38	42
9 A. M.	32	38	9 P. M.	33	38
12 M.	33	40	11 P. M.	29	37

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 35; for the corresponding date last year it was 33; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 35.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 36; at 8 P. M. it was 39. Maximum temperature, 42 degrees, at 5 P. M.; minimum, 28 degrees, at 4:30 A. M. Humidity, 74 per cent. at 8 A. M., 70 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.23 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.31 inches.

Education Notes.

An entertainment will be given by the Spanish department of the Washington Irving High School at 8:15 P. M. on March 15. The program will consist of a short comedy, views of Spain, singing and dancing. The proceeds of the performance will go to the Students' Loan Association.

An election of officers of the athletic activities of the Boys' High School, Brooklyn, will be held on Monday. There are four tickets in the field.

City Superintendent Ettinger has refused to permit the Commissioner of Accounts to make an investigation of the Auditor's Bureau of the Department of Education, on the ground that education being a State function, municipal investigating agents have no right to conduct inquiries into educational bureaus.

The Elementary School Men's League will hold a meeting at 4 P. M. today in Terrace Garden.

The Board of Education's Special Committee on School Luncheons will work out with the Board of Superintendents a plan to extend luncheons to other schools in the city when a need exists. Definite recommendations as to the particular schools will be made to the Board of Education at an early date. The committee has requests from a few Principals who desire to operate a luncheon service in their schools. These schools will be served first.

CONVICTED OF BRIBERY.

Ex-Captain Sidney P. Corn of the United States Army, formerly in charge of the Personnel Office at Camp Upton, was found guilty yesterday of having accepted a bribe to obtain the discharge from the army of Sergeant Lloyd Mehlig, son of a Manhattan jeweler. Corn will be sentenecd today. The penalty is three years in prison and a fine of three times the amount of the brib eaccepted, which in his case will be $750.

Mehlig testified that on the night of Dec. 13, in company with Corn and another soldier, he drove around the camp and on th etrip handed Corn $250 which had just been telegraphed to him by his father for the purpose of bribing the officer to secure Mehlig's discharge. Mehlig was released three days later.

Corn's defense was a general denial and an alibi. He said that on the night when the money was alleged to have been passed he was attending a moving picture show with fellow officers, an occasion which he remembered well because it was Friday, the 13th, and the birthday of one of the officers in his party.

Buenos Aires Still Tied Up.

BUENOS AIRES, March 7.—No solution of the strike of port workers here is expected by shipping men until after the municipal and provincial elections, which will be held on March 23. There was no change in the general situation today.

THE man who wears a Custom-Tailored Suit doesn't look as if he owns the earth, but as if he doesn't give a rap who owns it. The whole world is being reconstructed. Follow suit with a Clemons Custom Suit, and reconstruct your appearance—$30 to $55.

I use only Pure Virgin Woolens loomed in private patterns of strictly custom texture. I put that smart sprightliness into the cut, which is a natural consequence of turning to the prosperous pursuits of Peace. My body-gracing custom fit, thoroughbred custom style, gifted journeymen benchwork and personal attention, from Hand-Clasp to Hand-Tailoring.

WHEN RHEUMATIC PAINS HIT HARD

Don't say "it will be all right tomorrow." Rheumatic twinges won't relieve themselves. It takes the counter-irritant of Sloan's Liniment to bring relief. Effective, too, for nearly every external ache and pain that man's heir to.

Put it on and let it penetrate without rubbing. Clean, sure, economical. Once tried, it becomes a lifelong friend. Your druggist should have it. Get it today. 30c, 60c, $1.20.
